Poverty Program

CUT RED TAPE TRUDEAU AIM

By VICTOR MACKIE
Times Ottawa Bureau

MONCTON, N.B. — Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau charged here Friday there has been "too much red tape" and insufficient co-ordination in the organization of regional development programs to end pockets of poverty.

Formation of a proposed new department of Atlantic regional development was aimed at cutting down on the "red tape" and improving the development programs, he said.

Mr. Trudeau, making a four-day election swing through the Maritime provinces and into Newfoundland today, told a cheering audience here that the Liberal party does not stand for "give-away programs." He said the Liberals "know there are no such things."

"I am convinced that the voter is not interested in a party that wants to levy its way into power with taxes. It is you voters and taxpayers who will have to pay.

"But we will not hesitate to spend the money that must be spent to bring equality of opportunity to those regions, and to those groups of people who have as yet little share in the affluent society," said Mr. Trudeau.

Preaching his proposals for a "just society" he said he was speaking not only of the areas in Atlantic provinces which were suffering from economic disparity but of groups all over such as the Eskimo, Indian and Metis populations — in the west and in the east.

There were also areas in a marginal economy of primary resources — forestry, fishing, subsistence farming, which lacked those well developed service industries offering jobs and a decent living. The result was that there were areas where there was a poverty cycle that was hard to

TORY LEADER

New Housing Plan Pledged

Special to The Times

FORT WILLIAM — A Conservative government would create a new federal department of housing with a full-time cabinet minister, party leader Robert Stanfield pledged Friday.

A Tory administration would also eliminate the 11 per cent sales tax on building materials to make housing construction less expensive.

These two promises — and several more dealing with the housing crisis in Canada — were made by Stanfield before an audience of more than 1,000 persons in the Fort William Coliseum Friday night.

They were made at the conclusion of a day which saw the Stanfield campaign suddenly catch fire in central and western Ontario.

At both Sault Ste. Marie, where 400 businessmen turned out to lunch with the leader, and at Fort William, the crowds were overwhelming, noisy, excited and turned on to Stanfield.

It was the best campaigning day the Conservative has had yet, and his broad smile at the end of the day showed the effort was worth it.

Friday also saw Stanfield depart from his usual speech for the first time in two weeks and deliver a colorful and emotional expression of what being a Canadian means to him.

His comments on Canadian life, delivered first at the Sault Ste. Marie gathering and then again at night, brought tears to they eyes of more than a few listeners, and wild applause from the others.

DRUG PRICE LAW DOOMED—NDP

GUELPH, Ont. (CP) — T. C. Douglas says a gigantic lobby spelled the doom in the last Parliament of a government bill aimed at reducing the cost of precription drugs.

The New Democratic Party leader, speaking Friday night at a NDP rally here, said the bill would not be revived after the June 25 federal election by either a Liberal or Conservative government.

Mr. Douglas, on a campaign tour of southern Ontario, ran into his first serious heckling but the interrutpion only enlivened what otherwise was a quiet meeting.

About 50 persons, slightly more than half the capacity of the Ross Collegiate auditorium, sat quietly as Mr. Douglas flayed the Liberal government for what he termed lack of policies to combat the high cost of living.

Earlier in the day, the NDP leader got a warm reception from about 300 students at the Ontario Agricultural College when the theme of his address was what he said was United States domination of the Canadian economy.

He told the evening rally the government had allowed the Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association of Canada "to hold up the sick for ransom for far too long." The government bill to amend the patents and trademarks acts would have been a start in forcing down drug prices. He said these costs could be reduced by as much as 45 per cent.

Mr. Douglas said the Manufacturers Association, which produces 85 per cent of Canadian drugs, makes the highest percentage profit of any manufacturing industry in Canada.

His party's program included a commission to control advertising and promotion costs, he said. It would reduce patent, trademark and tax barriers and stimulate real price competition in the drug field.

Mary Bower Takes Lead In Classic

By ALAN WHITE

Sloops of the Royal Vancouver Yacht Club took the lead as the Swiftsure entered its third hour.

Positions just before press time at 12:30 were:

First, Mary Bower, skippered by J. H. Long of the RVYC; second, Crusader, skippered by Ken McKrae, also of the RVYC. Third place was held by Mongolo III, whose skipper's name was not available.

In the Juan de Fuca race, Shenandoah, a sloop skippered by Ken McKrae of the CYC, held the lead. She was followed by Lara, a second sloop out of the CYC skippered by W. Herman.

(See story Page 35)

A light breeze from the southeast scooped in from behind the Swiftsure starting line this morning to give H. L. Kotkins' yawl Diamond Head a good lead in the annual classic.

The rest of the yacht-pack shot across the line so tightly bunched the second boat across could not be determined.

By midmorning Seattle Yacht Club's Diamond Head was still holding her lead over 90 challengers.

Winds were strong enough to move them rapidly out of sight, boding well for the race that almost didn't run last year for lack of wind.

Then the boats that started from the line off Brotchie Ledge just sat becalmed, with the midway point in the race 68 miles away. But today's wind made it much more a racer's

NOT ONLY WRONG WAY —BUT THEY MISSED!

LONDON (AP)—A Royal Navy frigate accidentally fired two shells toward a government atomic research station on the south coast of England, the navy reported today. The shots missed.

Officers at Portland Royal Navy station said the frigate Arethusa somehow banged off two practice shells Tuesday with the ship's guns pointing toward shore instead of out to sea.

The shells landed in farm country two miles west of the Winfith Nuclear Centre in Dorset.

The missiles were duds filled with sand but one of them started a cattle stampede.

CLOTTING PROBLEMS

Heart Patient Turns 'Critical'

MONTREAL (CP) — Albert Murphy, Canada's first heart-transplant patient, was reported in "critical" condition today, some 30 hours after the 59-year-old retired butcher was given the heart of a 38-year-old woman.

In a bulletin issued today and signed by Dr. Paul David, director of the Montreal Heart Institute, Mr. Murphy was reported as having been "able to maintain satisfactory blood pressure without the assistance of the mechanical heart during a five-hour period" overnight.

"However, blood coagulation problems have appeared and his condition remains critical," the bulletin said.

"Mr. Murphy is conscious and continues with us his struggle for survival."

DEEP FREEZE NO THREAT TO PENSION

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Detroit pensioner thinking of having his body frozen alive for 10 years and then thawed out is chilled by the prospect of losing his social security cheques in the meantime.

But Senator Robert P. Griffin (Rep.—Mich.) says he checked the matter out for the man and finds he'd get his money "as long as competent evidence shows the person to be alive."

There has been talk of freezing live bodies as a way of saving victims of fatal diseases until cures are discovered.

But there is no record that anyone has tried it.

34 MEN, WOMAN SAIL IN OCEAN CHALLENGE

PLYMOUTH, England (Reuters) — Thirty-four men and a woman with her dog sailed in pouring rain today on the third, 3,000-mile single-handed trans-Atlantic yacht race.

Hundreds of persons thronged Plymouth Harbor as a light breeze carried the lone mariners out into the English Channel.

Then they set a course west for Newport, R.I.,—more than three solitary weeks away.

The yachtsmen are striving to beat the record of 27 days set by Frenchman Eric Tabarly in the last race in 1964.

Tabarly is strongly favored to win this year's race in his 65-foot trimaran Pen Duick IV, the biggest craft in the event.

West German secretary Edith Baumann, 26, accompanied by her French mongrel Schatz, was among the starters in her 39-foot trimaran Koala III.

The race, sponsored by The Observer, was first held in 1960.

It was won by Briton Sir Francis Chichester who became a national hero by circling the world alone in his yacht Gypsy Moth IV last year.

Sir Francis came second to Tabarly in the 1964 race. He is not competing this year.

N. Viets May Ease Bomb Halt Demand

PARIS (AP)—North Vietnam may be preparing to outflank its own barrier to progress in the Paris talks and move the discussion to broad peacemaking issues without insisting on an immediate end of the bombing in the North.

This possibility is being studied by U.S. officials. It arises from wording used in the North Vietnamese Communist party paper Nhan Dan today.

Nhan Dan said that before other problems in the peacemaking process can be discussed, the U.S. "must first of all clearly acknowledge its responsibility to put a definitive and unconditional end to bombing and all other acts of war on the whole Democratic Republic of Vietnam territory."

Hanoi had previously said flatly that the U.S. must end the bombing and other acts of war against the North before progress could be made here. The new element in the Nhan Dan statement was the demand that Washington "acknowledge its responsibility."

Observers felt this might mean Hanoi is now prepared to accept only an admission of responsibility, rather than continuing to demand an actual bombing halt, in order to take a new tack in the talks.

NEW ADVISER

This new formulation of an old North Vietnamese demand coincided with the assignment of a new North Vietnamese adviser to the delegation here headed by Ambassador Xuan Thuy.

WINNIPEG EYES 'BOND' LOTTERY

EDMONTON (CP) — Winnipeg Mayor Steve Juba said his city has a plan for raising money through bonus prizes on savings bonds, but the plan is being delayed until a legal opinion is obtained from the Manitoba attorney-general's department.

Mr. Juba told the Edmonton Chamber of Commerce the scheme is based on the voluntary tax plan recently introduced in Montreal.

He said the Montreal plan "is a lottery in the true sense of the word, and they're being pretty successful in raising money."

He said the Winnipeg proposal is to sell $10 savings bonds maturing in 36 months.

During the life of the bond, the buyer would qualify every month to win $20,000 in a raffle. No interest would be paid; after 36 months the bond would be redeemable at face value.

He estimated the system would allow the city to raise funds at about 2½ per cent instead of about 7½ per cent.

He said the money so raised would be used for such services as sewage plants, pollution control and hospitals.

Mr. Juba said he feels there is nothing immoral about lotteries even though they are illegal.

"Our whole criminal law is stupid in many respects and needs revision.

"If I had my way I'd go down to the printers and start on these bonds today."

Roundabout herewith launches its new puzzle contest.

Anyone who can break the civil service code in this message should contact the provincial press gallery. Winners who successfully answer a skill question will be entitled to a free obituary when required.

The message was prepared by the welfare department and headed "For Clarification For The Press."

"Effective June 1st, 1968, the maximum allowable income and monthly budget limits for supplementary social allowance to old age assistance, blind persons allowance and disabled persons allowance cases will be increased to $137.10 for a single person and $244.20 for a married couple.

"This change will bring the limits in line with the ones used for supplementary social allowance to old age security cases and will benefit those persons whose assessed budget need is greater than the maximum amounts previously allowed and who have earnings or other income in addition to the categorical allowance.

"The maximum amount payable, however, will remain at $75 for old age assistance, blind persons allowance and disabled persons allowance and $30 for supplementary social allowance."

Dandelions arouse anger when it should be love, according to Audubon magazine.

Here's how your grandmother used them for food value and sometimes to make a wine that made grampa sit up and take notice:

"Greens should be picked in early spring, when plants are newly out of the ground, the young leaves small and tender." Wash and trim them, "place two quarts of greens in a saucepan, along with two chopped strips of bacon, a pinch of sugar, and a half-teaspoon of salt. From time to time it may be necessary to add a little water to keep the greens from drying out. Cook for 20 minutes over a low fire. Serve with a dash of vinegar. This recipe should serve four."

"To brew Grandmother's golden cordial takes more time and patience, but the results are well worth the trouble. First, one must pick the blooms early in the morning and be most fussy about cleaning them.

"When the flowers were properly matured, Grandmother put them in a large crock and poured boiling water over them until they were completely covered.

"Then the crock was covered with a cheesecloth and set aside to stand for three days, disturbed only for twice-a-day stirrings."

Then the flowers were removed and the remaining liquid poured into a large kettle. To it were added three finely chopped oranges, three finely chopped lemons, three pounds of sugar and one ounce of yeast. "This mixture was stirred well, boiled for 30 minutes, then left to ferment for three full weeks. Before bottling, the wine was strained through filtering paper."

Rome Waits; More Riots Feared

By DAVID MAZZARELLA

ROME (AP) — The streets of Rome were littered with charred automobiles, shattered glass and dried blood today in an echo of the chaos that has rocked France.

The disorder here began with student seizure of the University of Rome Friday and swelled into a major street riot in which demonstrators, mainly students, battled helmeted police with clubs and makeshift fire bombs.

The riot was confined to a small section near the French Embassy and was quelled in little more than an hour, but it touched off fears for more of the same as leftists in Rome followed the pattern of the rebellion in France.

The students who occupied the university put up a poster at the main entrance reading: "Rome like Paris."

The massive demonstration outside the French Embassy was spurred by the powerful Italian Communist party and by pro-Communist Socialists.

Communist speakers urged the demonstrators to show their solidarity with striking students and workers in France.

The rally had started as a gathering of a few hundred workers.

TAKE OVER RALLY

About 5,000 youths quickly took it over and marched on the French Embassy, where Italian police were waiting.

Scores of persons were injured. Only a handful of those taken into custody were charged immediately, however.

Police charged into the demonstrators after youths, screaming "de Gaulle get out" and "Red France," burned an effigy of the French president and hurled the flaming dummy toward the guards outside the embassy.

One group of marchers bore the black flag of anarchy, another waved banners lauding Mao Tse-tung and Ho Chi Minh.

The demonstrators, many fresh from the takeover at the university, set fire to cars, threw gasoline bombs and paving stones at policemen and fire trucks and built barricades with carts taken from a nearby fruit market.

Youths dashed into restaurants and dragged out tables and chairs to ward off the police.

As the police chased demonstrators down narrow, twisting streets in the ancient quarter, shutters slammed down in shops, and passersby ducked for cover. Neighborhood residents threw open their windows and bellowed to the students: "Go home. Go back to your books."

MEDICARE PREMIUMS INCREASED

EDMONTON — (CP) Premium increases of about 25 per cent for basic health services under the Alberta health plan were announced Friday by Health Minister Dr. J. Donovan Ross.

The increases in the voluntary plan becomes effective July 1 and will be coupled with doubled premiums for two of the three available options.

Dr. Ross said at a news conference increased utilization and high administrative costs forced the premium increases.

The new annual rate for basic health services will be $76 for a single person, $152 for a couple and $200 for a family of three or more. The old rate was $60, $120 and $160.

. . . SWIFTSURE

race, right from the first stages of preparation.

A total of 137 sailing boats slipped around and past each other like aimless pieces on a chess board — but their movements were part of a careful tactical plan to be in the best position possible for the start of the race.

The majority of yachts were intent on bringing in some of the honors from the 136.2-mile Swiftsure. The others were biding their time for the 15-minute-later start of the 75-mile Juan de Fuca race.

Thousands of persons lined the bluffs off Dallas Road to watch the start.

Earlier in the morning a few of the enthusiasts turned out to watch them move out of the Inner Harbor, hustling like a hungry flock of ducks for the starting ground.

As race time neared, the rain had stopped, leaving the grass soggy and the Strait of Juan de Fuca misty.

The sky began to break. A steady light breeze blew in from the southeast.

CLOUD HOVERS

One long streak of rough, grey cloud hovered over the horizon, reminding all that the weather can be master of this, the toughest sailing race in the Pacific Northwest.

The yachts began moving back from the starting line about 9:25 a.m., jockeying between the starting boats HMCS Porte de la Reine and HMCS Cowichan. They had to be as close to the line as possible for the starting gun without crossing it too soon.

Darting about in the breeze like an errant school of fish they slid back and forth, passing the committee boats and the Coast Guard cutter Racer. The U.S. Coast Guard cutter Henlopen, RCMP boat Victoria and a press boat supplied by Island Tug and Barge hovered on the fringes.

The yellow flag went up on the Cowichan and the larger yachts out for the Swiftsure trophy swung about for the start.

A Black Ball ferry from Port Angeles, Wash., churned across the starting line as they moved.

A dizzying illusion of contrary motion caught the spectators as the 90 sailed for the start, passing through the remaining flock moving back for the Juan de Fuca start.

ORIOLE FOLLOWS

The starting gun sounded and they were off — a few yachts in the lead and the others in a cluster behind them. HMCS Oriole moved heavily behind the pack, her two masts full with sail.

The first one around HMCS Porte Quebec at the Swiftsure mark, near Cape Flattery, will take the RCN Trophy. The first one over the finish line — no matter what his eventual finishing position — the City of Victoria Trophy.

As the yachts struck full sail and moved out toward Race Rocks to the west, they heeled over in the wind. Within five minutes of the start those in the lead began to fade into the mist.

But the cluster of activity behind the starting line continued — there remained 46 yachts vying for the Juan de Fuca Trophy positioning themselves for the start.

Again the yellow flag went up. Again the warning gun echoed off the bluffs.

And on the dot of 10 — 15 minutes after the scheduled start — the final gun sent the Juan de Fuca yachts off on their 75-mile course to Clallam Bay and back.

HANDY WIND

The skippers carried with them a gift from the weatherman — winds predicted from the southwest will hold off for most of the day. Instead, winds occasionally at 15 will move from the southeast, shifting to southwesterly at 20 in the afternoon. Sunday morning they will shift to westerly at 15 mph.

This puts the winds relatively behind the yachts running out and back. The only difficulty expected is in rounding the mark midway in the course.

There the skippers will have to buck both wind and tide to swing their yachts for home.

CRISIS ATMOSPHERE REMAINS

New SFU Head Asks Restraint

BURNABY (CP) — An appeal for restraint against actions that "could impede solutions of Simon Fraser University's problems" was issued Friday night by its new acting president, Dr. John Ellis.

He was named interim head of the university by its board of governors Friday after the board bowed to faculty and student demands for removal of President Dr. Patrick McTaggart-Cowan.

The board asked Dr. McTaggart-Cowan, 56, to take an immediate and indefinite leave of absence. His post carries an annual salary of $23,500.

But the board's decision did not remove the crisis atmosphere at the young university in this Vancouver suburb.

After a stormy, three-hour afternoon rally students began voting on a motion to shut down the university for a week by withdrawing from classes. Voting is expected to finish Monday morning.

"Intemperate action could well jeopardize the very things not in jeopardy at this moment, such as the quality of our academic programs," Dr. Ellis said of the student vote.

The student and faculty demands followed censure of SFU administration Wednesday by the Canadian Association of University Teachers. It was the first time the association has censured a university.

VOTE AGAINST PRESIDENT

The faculty voted 125 to 65 to ask for the resignation of Dr. McTaggart-Cowan, about a two-thirds majority of the university's teaching staff this semester. The university operates year-round and has three semesters.

In addition to the resignation, about 800 of the 5,700 students demanded majority control of the board by faculty and students and that the senate be turned into a faculty-student body.

Students are voting on a resolution containing two parts. One calls for the resignation of the board of governors and the other asks for a provincial government committee to discuss university reform and negotiate with students and faculty.

Students would, if the resolution passes, boycott regular classes and attend "counter courses" sponsored by the student union and taught by faculty and assistants who agree with their demands.

John Conway, student vice-president, said the students cannot accept Dr. Ellis as acting president on the basis of their demands for student-faculty control of the university.

"And some faculty say he has never taken clear stands on the issues of academic freedom, tenure and university democracy," he said.

OUTLINES HIS PLANS

Dr. Ellis later told a news conference he plans to:

—Make sure classes and research programs return to normal and "an orderly process is brought to bear on the very real concerns of students and faculty."

—Make students realize SFU's academic credentials are still good and recognized despite the CAUT censure.

He said he will say late Monday what his course of action will be and will report to students Tuesday.

University Chancellor Dr. Gordon Shrum said he did not know when a full-time president would be named.

He took a tough line on the possibility of student revolt or boycott.

"Either the situation will remain in control or the university will be closed," he said. "It's the public's money that operates the university and they won't stand for a crisis situation."

Dr. McTaggart-Cowan said he had no immediate plans.

He was appointed president in 1963 to direct the then-building campus. Prior to that he was Canada's chief weather forecaster. The university opened in 1965.

ted early unrest to bugs in the tri-semester system and growing pains. But the unrest boiled over in student threats, impeachment of a student council, firings of teaching assistants and resignations of professors.

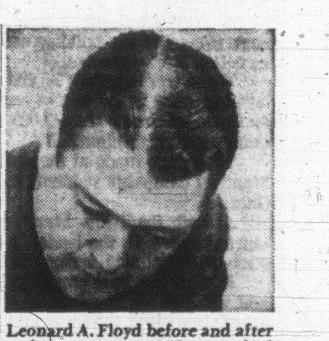
"Scalp tension, a sign of the times, is one cause of your hair loss," says trichologist M.D. Harrison to balding man. Harrison directs the famous Harrison Hair and Scalp Specialists, whose main office is in Vancouver. He is sending a specialist here to advise men how to correct hair troubles by home treatment.

How to save and improve your hair demonstrated by expert here Monday and Tuesday

New home treatment methods for preventing baldness — and growing thicker hair—will be demonstrated in Victoria this Monday and Tuesday, June 3 and 4.

This news was released here today by M. D. Harrison, internationally famous director of Harrison Hair and Scalp Specialists.

In his announcement, Harrison named staff trichologist Ian Edgar to conduct the Victoria clinic. Mr. Edgar will personally examine hair-worried men and women from 1 p.m. to 8 p.m., Monday and Tuesday at the Hotel Executive House, 777 Douglas Street.



Leonard A. Floyd before and after scalp treatment. Unretouched photographs made four months apart.

Examine You Free

"I want to make it clear that you incur no charge or obligation by seeing Mr. Edgar," director Harrison said.

"Your only obligation is to yourself—to free your mind of worries about hair loss, dandruff, itching, or other scalp disorders, by learning how to take care of your hair. If your trouble is beyond the scope of Harrison Home treatment, we will frankly tell you so. But less than five per cent of the people we examine are 'hopeless'."

Offers No Cure-All

Harrison emphasized that his new home treatment is neither "mail-order" nor "cure-all."

"We always make a personal examination before suggesting any treatment," he pointed out. "There is no one cure-all that will correct every one of the 18 scalp disorders that cause baldness."

Harrison said that sometimes your treatment must be changed after a few weeks to get best results. "For this reason, you mail regular reports of your hair progress to the Harrison headquarters in Vancouver."

"Also, your scalp condition is checked personally by a Harrison trichologist at regular intervals."

Who Can Be Helped?

Can this new treatment cure baldness? "No," said Harrison sincerely. "We cannot help men who are slick-bald after years of gradual hair loss. But where your scalp still grows hair, we can at least save and improve what you have. Usually, we can grow more hair even where you have only 'fuzz' now."

The important thing is: Don't wait until it's too late!

Best evidence of the success of Harrison treatment is the phenomenal growth behind it. Harrison and his staff trichologists give personal diagnosis-work in more than 100 other cities.

Satisfy 95%

"Our biggest problem is not in doing what we claim to do," declared Harrison. "We satisfy more than 95 per cent of our clients, and have records to prove it."

"But to over-come the average man's initial skepticism is sometimes difficult. He's usually quite desperate—and baldish—by the time he nerves himself to see a Harrison trichologist. He's 'tried everything.' So he starts consoling himself with one of the old superstitions about hair:

That baldness is hereditary; that men naturally lose hair as they get along in years; that nothing can be done to stop hair loss—and a lot of other notions that we know are not true today."

Free Scalp Examination

See Mr. Edgar in person. Learn how baldness can be stopped, and new hair grown on your scalp. The new Harrison method permits you to actually stop your baldness and regrow hair in the privacy of your own home.

For a free examination and discussion of your hair problems ask the desk clerk at the Hotel Executive House, Monday or Tuesday, between 1 p.m. and 8 p.m., for Mr. Edgar's suite number. You don't need an appointment. You won't be embarrassed or obligated in any way. Examinations are given in private.

AFTER CABINET PURGE

Industrial Turmoil Ends In France

Times News Services

PARIS — The wheels of industry creaked slowly into motion as France today began emerging from two weeks of paralyzing student-worker turmoil.

The new French cabinet, extensively reshuffled to bring in nine new faces and to axe all ministers directly concerned with student and worker unrest, was scheduled to meet for the first time this morning.

Informed sources said the new ministers probably will introduce new measures to capitalize on the salutary shock of President de Gaulle's tough speech Thursday.

Tension seemed to dissipate after de Gaulle ordered general elections but threatened to use force if government authority was challenged.

Trade union leaders who had been demanding a change of regime in return for an end to the strike retreated to their original economic demands for higher salaries and a shorter work week.

The Communist party and its trade union arm, the General Confederation of Labor, announced they would participate in the elections June 23 and 30 for a new National Assembly.

Use Troops if Necessary

The government planned a call-up of military reservists if "installations vital to economic life" remain strikebound.

The reservists would be used to man such installations, observers said.

To guard against violence, de Gaulle has quietly strengthened military and national police units in and near Paris.

The back-to-work movement today was gradual, but distinct. The army was called in to provide suburban transport, control air traffic and clean up the streets of Paris.

Police have cleared strike pickets from some of the post offices and telephone buildings.

The following developments highlighted the easing Labor scene:

—Strikers and management have reached a draft agreement in the nationalized gas and electricity industries. A union spokesman said they were still far from satisfied with the salary increases, but they had won important concessions. The increases were reported to be 20 per cent for the lowest paid workers and 12 per cent for those at the top.

—Hopes are high that the merchant navy will be back at work by the middle of the week. Antoine Weil, delegate general of the central committee of French shipowners, commented: "It seems that the present discussions between owners, officers and sailors should soon end in a return to work."

—The management of the Peugeot car factory announced their personnel will be back at work Tuesday in Paris, Mulhouse and Vesoul. Steps to start up their other factories will be taken the same day.

—Other sectors in which work has started or is expected to start include railways, Paris public transport, the post office and telephones, oil refineries and banks.

Full extent of the back to work movement by 10,000,000 strikers will not be known for at least three days because of a three-day bank holiday weekend.

New Supply of Gasoline

One of the most encouraging signs of a return to normal was a long stream of cars pouring out of the capital all night as Parisians took a chance and went on holiday.

Paris had its first new supply of gasoline in 10 days.

De Gaulle, beginning his 11th year in office today, was expected to pass the holiday at work in Elysee Palace.

The cabinet purge Friday saw Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville changing roles with Finance Minister Michel Debre in a bid to heal the French economy of deep wounds inflicted by two weeks of strikes.

Economists estimated that strike damage now runs at least $2,400,000,000 in lost production alone.

The new cabinet moved slightly to the left with the entry of three men from the left wing of the Gaullist movement. Among them was the new justice minister, Rene Capitant.

Interior Minister Christian Fouchet, Youth Minister Francois Missoffe, Social Affairs Minister Jean-Marcel Jeanneney, Information Minister Georges Gorse and Justice Minister Louis Joxe all lost their jobs.

Former education minister Alain Peyrefitte, who resigned earlier this week, was not given a new post.

De Gaulle supporters held demonstrations Friday in Le Havre, Marseille, Lyon, Angouleme, Limoges, Lille, Strasbourg and a dozen other cities. An estimated 75,000 marched in Lyon.

The only counter-demonstration involved about 25,000 workers, students and peasants in Nantes, where the first strike in the movement began May 13 at the Sud-Aviation plane factory.

The National Union of French Students cancelled an anti-government demonstration it had scheduled for Friday night.

Students still occupied various buildings of the University of Paris, but were forced by fire to leave the Sorbonne at least temporarily.

More than 70 firemen battled more than an hour to extinguish the fire, which apparently broke out in a third-floor room of the six-storey building and burned a large hole in the roof.

KILLED when struck by car early today was Dr. Ettore Mazzoleni, 62, principal of the Royal Conservatory of Music in Toronto. He was crossing a highway north of Toronto.—(CP Wirephoto)

40 Viet Cong Holding Out In Saigon

SAIGON (AP) — About 30 or 40 Viet Cong held out in the heart of Saigon's Chinese section today against South Vietnamese troops and recoilless rifles which blasted buildings into rubble.

A somewhat larger force attacked when U.S. and South Vietnamese police shifts changed at 4 a.m. But some of the guerrillas slipped out when the government declared a 20-minute truce to allow several hundred refugees to flee the embattled five-block-square area in southwestern Saigon.

South Vietnamese planes attacked guerrillas menacing the opposite side of the capital. They bombed and strafed housing areas 2½ miles northeast of Saigon's centre. Civilians had abandoned the area after the guerrillas moved in.

The Viet Cong had made the deepest penetration into the city of their third wave of attacks which began last Saturday.

TROOPS KILL 133

The main battle area was about three miles west of the presidential palace and military reports said snipers had moved to within a mile of the palace.

Government troops reported killing 133 guerrillas Friday. Government losses were reported as 18 killed.

S. Korean Killed

SEOUL (Reuters)—A South Korean soldier was killed and another wounded Friday night when five North Koreans attacked them 1.2 miles south of the western part of the demilitarized zone, a South Korean army spokesman said today. He said the two South Koreans were repairing communications lines when attacked. A South Korean unit moved in and repelled the attackers.

McCARTHY STILL UNHAPPY

Good Showing a Must During Tonight's Debate

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Senators Eugene J. McCarthy and Robert F. Kennedy meet tonight in a televised debate that could make or break either man's chances in Tuesday's California Democratic primary.

How much of a boost a good showing in the debate will give the "winner" as he continues in the quest for the presidential nomination cannot be said—but it's on a lot of people's minds.

Staff people for both candidates also know how great might be the cost of a lame performance before the nationwide audience.

"If someone makes a serious slip, it's very important," said Frederick W. Dutton, one of Kennedy's advisers.

The program on the ABC network was scheduled for 9:30 p.m. on both coasts, 8:30 p.m. in the central time zone and 7:30 in the mountain states.

REPEATS COMPLAINT

McCarthy repeated Friday his complaint that the format of the program would not permit the kind of free-swinging confrontation he wanted.

Instead, he said, the producers set up a "friendly sort of sit-down discussion" program that was more in line with what Kennedy wanted.

Addressing a businessmen's group in San Francisco Friday, Kennedy took issue with advertisements boosting McCarthy that claim the Minnesotan was the first presidential contender to challenge the administration's Vietnam policy. In reality, Kennedy said, "I was the first."

McCarthy said he doubts that a loss in California would cause Kennedy to abandon his shot at the presidency.

"I expect that even though he doesn't win here," McCarthy said, "he probably could reassess his position and find some reason to carry on."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice-President Hubert H. Humphrey is moving to ambush what his aides say is a stop-Humphrey drive in delegate-rich Michigan by the combined forces of Senators Robert F. Kennedy and Eugene J. McCarthy, his rivals for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Humphrey flies today to Detroit, where Michigan Democrats are in convention to choose the delegates who will carry the state's 96 votes into the August national convention in Chicago.

Three Set Free

TOKYO (AP) — Hanoi radio said Saturday the Viet Cong released three South Vietnamese army prisoners-of-war May 17. In an English-language broadcast monitored in Tokyo, Hanoi radio said the government soldiers, captured May 5, had shown "repentance during their detention."

PARALYSIS HITS 58 AFTER MUSSELS MEAL

NEWCASTLE, England (Reuters)—At least 58 persons, including many tourists, are suffering from partial paralysis here after eating diseased mussels.

Medical officer Dr. R. C. M. Pearson said 17 of them were in hospital with a rare form of poisoning characterized by tingling fingers followed by paralysis.

Down to Practicalities

STANFIELD SUPPORTERS, INcluding the Victoria Conservative candidate, who have charged that the Liberals are trying to keep the election campaign on a basis of personalities, will be hard-put to match the list of some eighty practical proposals embodied in the official Liberal platform now issued to Liberal standard-bearers across the country. This listing of Liberal objectives, suggested in some quarters as a move to overcome the superficial image of the dilettante which his opposition is trying to fasten on Mr. Trudeau, provides more than enough down-to-earth measures to keep the campaign on an even factual keel.

While the course of the campaign between now and June 25 will bring these concepts before the people, a cursory glance at the contents of the document indicates the breadth of the Trudeau planning. A prologue sets the pace by noting the new wave of enthusiasm for Canadian politics that is sweeping the country today, and justifying the calling of an election on the reasoning that the new leadership of both major parties presented the public with the need for a fresh choice, since a definite break with the past was obvious in both cases. The Liberal undertakings are an attempt to implement the basic philosophy of the Trudeau determination to achieve "a just society, a united Canada, a prosperous economy and a peaceful world."

The first plank in the platform refers to the goal of the government "to forge one strong Canadian community and make the federal government a major focal point of Canadian life." That is a proposition with which few Canadians should quarrel, yet it immediately runs head-on into the special-status concept which Mr. Stanfield has embraced for Quebec in the extremity of his need to curry favor in that quarter.

The Liberal platform emphasizes repeatedly that the central power of the federal government must be recognized, that Canada must speak with one voice abroad, and that the national entity must remain indivisible. The proposed revision of the constitution must safeguard these concepts while clarifying the jurisdictions of the levels of government in Canada.

With this philosophic background the policy document plunges into more detailed discussion of bilingualism, foreign policy, human rights, legal and prison reforms, housing, urban transportation, airport expansion and protection of consumers. Last session's bill on drug prices will be re-introduced, the vital communications satellite program will be pushed, broadcast services will be extended to the far north, provincial educational broadcasting will be furthered, and social welfare programs will be aimed at particular targets of need within our society.

Various improvements in the parliamentary process are called for, including Senate appointments and federal departmental functions. Encouragement of trade with Latin America and the nations of the Pacific basin is stressed, research is planned in a number of social and economic fields, development of natural resources and their protection from pollution are stressed, and special attention is given to the problems of Indians and Eskimos.

These, and the many other items, constitute a far-reaching set of policies. A good number of them have already been publicized in the speeches of Mr. Trudeau and other Liberal candidates. There will, no doubt, be an immediate "me too' reaction from the opposition parties in regard to many of the proposals, but the formal presentation of these planks must effectively reply to all charges that this election is merely a battle of personal images. The chief emergence of the latter concept lies in the refreshingly new approach to politics which Mr. Trudeau exhibits, and the indication that this new approach will carry over into an equally refreshing type of responsible commitment to see that these election promises are implemented.

Precarious Balance

WITH THE INTERNATIONAL monetary situation still precariously balanced it is no comfort to learn what a slender basis there is for confidence in the two-price system for gold which was announced by the "gold pool" countries last March. At the meetings of the American Bankers' Association in Puerto Rico this week, Mr. Frederick L. Deming, United States Treasury under-secretary, admitted to a news conference that there is no hard and fast agreement among central banks not to deal in newly-mined gold but only "a sort of understanding" among them.

What Mr. Deming had admitted, and it was corroborated by Mr. Otmar Emminger, president of the German Bundesbank, is contrary to what was widely understood in the March communique from the gold pool meeting when it was announced that "the central banks feel it not necessary to buy gold from the market." The interpretation then placed on the communique, and the one that was encouraged, was that this amounted to a firm commitment. Now, according to Mr. Deming, it is simply "a matter of central responsibility to the international monetary system."

This, however, is a key point. If central banks—particularly the European ones—lose confidence in the American dollar, where does their prime responsibility lie: to the international monetary system or to their own countries? Theoretically, perhaps, it should be the former but as a matter of practical affairs it must be to the latter. If the dollar continues to weaken through a worsening of the United States balance of payments deficit, and the price of gold continues to go up, it would be prudent for the banks to exchange dollars for gold. As Mr. Emminger said, the two-price system for gold is bound to break down "as any system you can think of would, if there is an indefinite continuance of the U.S. deficit."

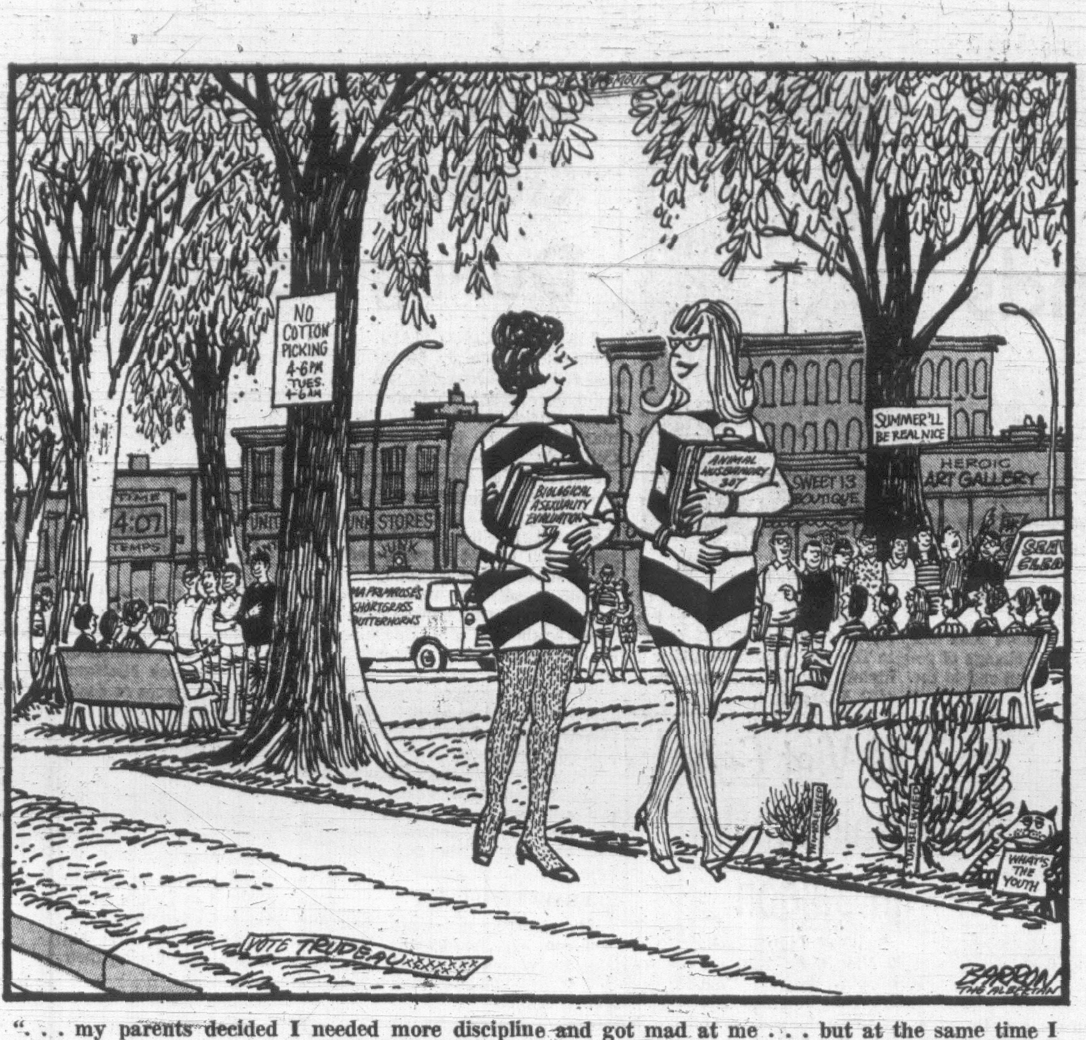
Clearly there is a danger of the monetary crisis of early spring being renewed — and it could be worse—if the United States does not move to get its payments under control.

A Heritage to Preserve

AS A MEANS OF ACCELERATING the progress of young Indians and Eskimos in school, the plan to provide teachers who are fluent in the children's own language—a policy announced the other day by Indian Affairs Minister Arthur Laing — appears thoroughly sound. Appointment of such teachers should overcome to a considerable extent the retardation occasioned by inability of some young Indians and Eskimos to understand English. The language of instruction, however, will remain English or French.

Yet while the Indians and Eskimos are achieving fluency in the legal languages, it is still desirable for them to retain the language of their own people in order to preserve the culture which is their own heritage.

The Dunton-Laurendeau commission emphasized the interdependence of language and culture in another context. The point has application to the Indians and Eskimos. Their children deserve all the educational help Canada can give them to enjoy the good things of modern living—along with the traditions which could die if their own languages became extinct.



". . . my parents decided I needed more discipline and got mad at me . . . but at the same time I decided to be a better, more considerate, less wayward person . . . you've got to keep them off balance . . ."

Unification

As a resident of Saanich, I am interested and amused to note the indignation of elected municipal leaders each time this community fails to receive due recognition of our population as a separate entity from Victoria. It appears that people all across Canada are to be expected to understand the complexity of four municipalities retaining their separate identities and regulations. Mapmakers and statisticians who make this "error" would have difficulty in showing four cities with the boundaries interlocking as they do. Why do people resist amalgamation? The entire southern end of Vancouver Island could and should be called Victoria and we would then avoid the fragmented approach to progress which is so costly and so evident today.

Elected leaders quickly say we do not need amalgamation because we now have regional boards but progress along this road is painfully slow in this region. I was pleased to see the report in your paper on the address by the Hon. D. Campbell, minister of municipal affairs, when he listed aspects which should be handled by regional boards. What is holding up the progress in this capital region?

What we need in this area — and now — is a well planned co-ordinated approach to all development on southern Vancouver Island involving taxation. This would ensure progressive development to stated objectives for the benefit of all residents. Integrated development will save taxpayers a great deal and would help all residents to feel a part of one growing community in which we can take pride. — Ross Regan, 1205 Trans-Canada.

ANALYZING THE CAMPAIGN

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

Mrs. Noggins Is Baffled by Its Simplicity

Hutchison

AS a reformed politician and now a retired elder stateswoman, Mrs. Alfred Noggins has never been wrong in her election prophecies. For the first time, however, she is frankly baffled by the poll of June 25.

"But the sovereign people," she told me, "are well prepared to decide the future of the nation. After listening to the party leaders explain the vital issues so clearly that even a child could understand, Canadian democracy is in its normal state of utter bewilderment, so there's nothin' to worry about.

"Trudeau, between kisses, 'as made only one simple promise to the voters. No matter wot 'appens, 'e won't govern like the former Liberal gover'mint of which 'e was a loyal and distinguished member, and you can't ask more than that.

"Why, listenin' to Trudeau talk about finances and the burden of taxation you can see at once that 'e's the only true conservative left in the country, the sole survivor of an extink species. But I dare say 'e'll grajually acquire a smatterin' of Liberalism if 'e gets elected.

"Anyway, Trudea goes through the election as merry as a weddin' bell while Stanfield looks like 'e was attendin' the funeral of a distant but wealthy relative who forgot 'im in the will. Trudeau's face is wreathed in smiles and lipstick. Stanfield wears a glazed expression of 'orror at the thought of bein' the next prime minister but probably 'is alarm is unnecessary.

"All the same, Stanfield 'as a definite policy, spelled out in specific detail without any cowardly reservations. Wot the country needs, says 'e, is prosperity and at this sudden, blindin' revelation the public knows it's found a leader at last. The way I read Stanfield's speeches, we must cut down our spendin', except fer a few extra billions 'ere and there and maybe a tunnel to Newfoundland some day, though I guess the local inhabitants won't sell their boats fer a while yet.

"Nacherally, the unscrupulous Grits are makin' a nasty fuss about Stanfield's burnin' love affair with the Union Nationale of Quebec, but like 'e says, it's innocent and purely Platonic. Premier Johnson, says Stanfield, is a fine, upstandin' gentleman and, still better, a secret and dedicated Conservative with a well-greased political machine that knows 'ow to get votes. It'll come in 'andy.

"Besides, Stanfield agrees with Johnson on everything except the constitution and the two-nation theory and this is no time to quarrel about such minor trivia.

"In the nick of time the Tories discovered that Trudeau is bitterly anti-Quebec and the nacheral enemy of the French Canajian race, as you can plainly see from 'is name and upbringin'. In fact, 'e's a bigoted Anglo Saxon and most likely an Imperial Daughter of the Empire in disguise.

"So the juty of all English-speakin' voters is to save French Canada from its native son. That's quite a job but Stanfield can do it with the 'elp of Johnson and Faribault, provided the electorate suffers a brief spell of amnesia until the polls close. Meanwhile Stanfield is walkin' on eggs but Trudeau outbids 'im by walkin' on water and never gettin' 'is feet wet.

"The real miracle comes from Tommy Douglas. Yes, sir, 'e alone seen with a clear and penetratin' eye that the country is corrupted by inflation because the gover'mint spends too little and taxes too much. The only way to keep prices down, says Douglas, is to spend more and tax less, and raise all wages. Give 'im the chance and 'e'll extinguish the inflationary fire by throwin' an extra bucket of gasoline on it. Another little explosion wouldn't do us any 'arm.

"Vote fer me, says Douglas, and make sure there's no majority in the next Parliament or else we'll 'ave a strong and brutal gover'mint that'll suppress our liberties and repeal the inalienable right of a free people to go broke in its own fashion.

"The record of the last five years 'as demonstrated beyond doubt that minority gover'mint is the best. To be sure, says Douglas, everything isn't exactly perfect, society 'as collapsed, the economy is bankrupt and Canada the laughin' stock of the world but we might 'ave bin in real trouble if a majority was in charge of our business.

"No, sir, elect a new Parliament with a couple of dozen socialists 'oldin' the balance of power to control the new gover'mint and then we'll 'ave a genuine democracy. And if the people will only give 'im a veto on all legislation Douglas pledges 'imself to enforce the wise policies of the Labor party in London and make Canada as rich and contented as Britain. No sane man would reject such a reasonable offer.

"The Social Credit party takes a different view and drops dead without warnin' but nobody knows its real motive. At least Bob Thompson managed to swim ashore before the ship sank and after a lifetime of denouncin' the Conservative party recognized in a flash that 'e'd always been a true-blue Tory at 'eart.

"Well, Stanfield embraced 'im with one arm like a long-lost brother but kept the other arm tight around Johson in a mighty transcontinental stretch from sea to sea. So the nation is finally unified and every patriotic citizen is ready to go to the polls on election day, provided, of course, it don't interfere with 'is summer vacation plans."

Anomalous

It has been said, "The law is an ass." Be that as it may, strange anomalies turned up in our courts of justice recently. For killing another person's sheep a man was sentenced to 7 days in jail and fined.

A 72-year-old man got 90 days for being drunk, having no money and no home.

Another man was sentenced to 30 days for having no money and no home. The above, reported in the local press, is quite puzzling. — A. P. Rainey, 577 Transit.

Politician and Gentleman

In a recent article in your paper by Mr. Bruce Hutchison, there is a reference to the constitutional question between Mackenzie King and Arthur Meighen.

Mr. Hutchison says, "King foresaw that reaction (to the constitutional dispute) and Meighen, failing to see it, was permanently destroyed." The error was that of the Governor-General, Lord Byng. Meighen did what he did to try to save Lord Byng from the result of his error Mr. King was an outstanding politician; Mr. Meighen was a gentleman. — Vox Clamans.

Hanoi Freezes the Talks With a Refusal to Compromise

Frye

THE fundamental question which has dominated the Paris peace talks from the outset is now susceptible of an answer. The question is: will Hanoi let the United States disengage from Vietnam on the basis of a reasonable compromise? The answer is no — almost certainly not. At least, not at this stage, and probably not for the foreseeable future.

Boiled down to its essence, Hanoi's "peace" program, as outlined here over the past three weeks, consists of four steps:

1. A total cessation of American bombing and "other acts of war" against the north — with no corresponding reduction of the Communist war effort in the south.

2. A total withdrawal of allied troops from South Vietnam, with no corresponding withdrawal of North Vietnamese forces.

3. A coalition government, including Communist ministers and presumably dominated by them.

4. "Non-interference" from the outside with subsequent Communist efforts to seize complete power.

Capitulation Program

This is, of course, a program for American capitulation. The only concession it makes to American requirements is the provision for an interim coalition. Otherwise it amounts to a surrender ceremony.

Initial bargaining postures in a major negotiation are always tough. But in most cases, a party which is willing to dicker takes care to telegraph the fact in subtle nuances of wording, in avoidance of absolutes, in private hints. There has been virtually none of this from Hanoi.

The conclusion which western observers here feel forced to reach, however reluctantly, is that in Hanoi's present state of mind, anything less than a Communist victory is simply not negotiable.

It does not necessarily follow that W. Averell Harriman and his staff should pack up and go home. Absence of a genuine peace negotiation behind the Paris facade is a disappointment, but not necessarily a disaster.

Many in Washington opposed attempting negotiations in the first place, believing the military balance on the war fronts too unfavorable to permit a satisfactory peace. They appear to have been right.

Except that the bombing north of the 20th parallel cannot readily be resumed in the face of predictable world disapproval, the name-calling here will do little harm, and machinery for negotiations will be ready for use if circumstances ever change.

New military pressure in the south will almost certainly be required to change them. It seems inevitable that the United States will have to turn the escalation screw once again, in order to extract from Hanoi a willingness to compromise.

Meanwhile the propaganda battle is going reasonably well. Xuan Thuy, Hanoi's negotiator, has very largely forfeited any sympathy he may have originally had as a self-proclaimed "underdog," while Harriman has established himself as the unrequited would-be lover.

It is almost too good. Much of the world, including some Americans, react to a deadlock of this kind by looking for concessions from the more reasonable and amenable party. The theory is that it is no use to hope for any "give" from the other.

It remains to be seen whether, in the present case, this familiar phenomenon will result in serious and damaging world pressure for an end to the rest of the bombing.

Harriman has been trying a number of devices to cast off this pressure, including efforts to portray Thuy as really not quite as inflexible as he seems. Harriman's idea apparently is to undercut the theory that Thuy can't be successfully arm-twisted.

Curious Anomalies

This tactic results in curious anomalies, Harriman and his aides "sending" modifications of the North Vietnamese position which the North Vietnamese thereupon indignantly deny exist. This kind of thing can go on only just so long, however, before the Communists succeed in making clear they are indeed rigid and uncompromising.

At that point, the United States can only be rigid and uncompromising itself, resisting the temptation to get impatient and give ground "just to get the show back on the road."

The prospect is that Harriman and his deputy, Cyrus R. Vance, will in fact sit tight, combatting the more blatant North Vietnamese propaganda, riding out minor crises, and waiting for the day when Ho Chi Minh makes the same policy decision President Johnson did in March: to end the war with an honorable compromise.

Nature Rambles

By FREEMAN KING

As you walk around the trails at Francis Park you can see many changes in the flora.

The star flower with its pinkish-white blossom flourishes in the moist shady forest groves.

On most of the trails creeping along the ground, you can find the yerba buena with roundish, crinkly leaves that are opposed on the stem. You have to look closely to see the tiny whitish flowers. This plant belongs to the mint family. Its leaves give off an aromatic perfume.

Often close by will be the purple honeysuckle, another ground-creeper, with pinkish-purple flowers beneath the somewhat hairy leaves.

There are many coral root plants, especially the spotted variety. This plant has no green leaves but scales that clasp the stem. It is parasitic and gets its food from the decaying plant material that is in the ground. This plant belongs to the orchid family.

On the rocky outcrops the stonecrop is in full bloom with its star shaped flower and many-colored leaves. Look at the leaves and note the thick fleshy structure which holds the moisture, enabling the plant to survive during the hot dry summer. This is similar to the cactus family.

Throughout the park you can find the sanicle. Some of them have purplish flowers. Others will be yellowish. Some of the leaves are narrow, others deeply lobed. This plant seems to predominate and is often overlooked yet it is worth a study.

The conifers are showing new, bright green tips. These are called "flushings." There seems to be a slight difference in the color of individual trees.

Along the trails the ground is covered with tiny brownish flower husks. These are the male flowers from the Douglas fir that are falling from the twigs now that their task is finished. Pick one up and examine it. See how minute each flower is.

The maples are putting on their full leaf growth. Look underneath them, see the paired samara or seeds which make an angle up to 90 degrees.

Do you know that this particular maple is strictly a coast tree, and only grows west of the Cascade ranges?

Politics has caught on in Canada, the electorate is in ferment and there is a clear choice for voters who see in Prime Minister Trudeau (left) the opportunity for exciting new changes, and in Conservative leader Robert Stanfield the promise of quietude and stability, a return to a nostalgic past.

THE MAKING OF AN ELECTORATE

For the First Time in Years Canadians Are Really Listening

By PETER C. NEWMAN

OTTAWA—What's interesting about this election is not so much what the politicians are saying as what the people are doing.

It seems to be a contest concerned almost as much with the making of an electorate as with the making of a prime minister.

The surprising fact is that the exhaustion of ideologies which took place during the Diefenbaker-Pearson decade has left a political legacy comprised not of cynicism and decay, but of accumulated psychic energies. We are a people bursting with nervous tensions, new resolutions, old fears and hopeful aspirations for ourselves and for our country.

Newman

Like an abrupt change in the weather that has somehow eluded the meteorologists' charts, Canadians seem unexpectedly to be reworking the consensus on which our national politics has operated for generations.

In the Plazas

You can feel it in the shopping plazas watching people cheer Pierre Trudeau as he makes some obscure point about revising the constitution. (When was the British North America Act last cheered?)

You can sense it among the crowds baking in the late spring sun in the town squares or rural Ontario, respectfully listening to Robert Stanfield expound his own view of the Canadian future. (When was it imaginable that a Conservative leader could put forward a plan for a guaranteed annual income and make it sound not just responsible but inevitable?)

Elections always freeze the political landscape of a nation at a given moment in time. Heritage fights impulse, the tug of the past competes with the pull of the future as each voter judges the men and the issues.

Vain Search

The national portrait that emerged from the last campaign in 1965 was that of a hard-bitten provincial country searching vainly for the potential of creative achievement that might illuminate its future.

Now the mood is different. The electorate is in ferment, digging for its soul, reflecting the various responses of individuals to the deeply unsettled period in which we live.

It's as though the voters were divided into two groups: those who yearn for excitement and those who long for stability. To some, Trudeau personified the unknown future because he seems willing to advance into it unafraid, promising only to apply his electric intelligence to problems as they arise.

To others, Stanfield is the epitome of the best of our past, a man of proven ability who has headed a government, has established his integrity and seems able by his very self possession to be capable of imposing a stability on our future.

It's as though the rich potential of Canada had suddenly become apparent to each of us. We have begun to view the politicians in their proper perspective: not as supermen charged with the burdens of taking over our collective responsibilities but as the agents of our aspirations, whose main assignment is to set us free to realize our own destinies.

What is required of the electorate is individual political involvement, a true democracy.

Most of our past elections, as waged by nearly every party leader from Sir John A. Macdonald to Lester Pearson, were sandstorms of half-truths, quadrennial assaults on reason.

Now, as Pierre Elliott Trudeau, Robert Stanfield and Tommy Douglas test themselves against the feel of contemporary Canada, they are finding that old methods and the clatter of partisan rhetoric which satisfied previous generations won't do.

New Burden

The burden is on the leaders to reach into the circuits of the nation's psyche and capture the subconscious allegiance of the people — not through grandiose promises but with an understanding appropriate to this particular moment in our history.

The national mood seems to be a mixture of optimism and apprehension. The optimism is based on the success of Expo, the adoption of our own flag and the comparison we all inevitably draw between Canada's problems with the much worse agonies faced by most other countries.

The apprehension is based on a fear that we might lose our advantages if the country breaks up over the French-English confrontation or if we continue to mismanage our economy.

It's because there are strong feelings on both sides that people have become much more emotionally involved with the election itself. For most Canadians, politics used to be a marginal activity to which one devoted a certain amount of free time, like the Boy Scouts or the local hospital fund.

Main Concern

But suddenly politics is becoming a predominant national concern for people of all ages. Nominations are being fought for as though becoming an MP were one of the most prestigious roles to which a man could aspire; a Canadian political song is near the top of the hit parade; riding associations are besieged with willing workers; editorial writers are hot with partisanship even though the campaign is barely two weeks old.

In terms of issues, this new politics is witnessing the collapse of the left-right classification which was until recently the most important method of segregating the politicians. The people are at last feeling the need to shake off the old dogmas and to create their own terms of action.

In the new political order, the people themselves — not politicians acting as their proxies — are becoming the rebels and critics of the society in which they live and work.

The main issues facing Canada today — national unity, foreign ownership of our main resources, the reform of Parliament, the need for a new and imaginative foreign policy — cannot be fitted into the old left-right context.

In Economy

In economic issues, the emphasis is also changing. It will increasingly be on bringing all citizens to the kind of economic takeoff point where they themselves can become concerned about the quality of their lives rather than mere subsistence.

The function of the progressives in politics will not remain to act as the advocates of large spending programs, but to foster the kind of measures that emphasize more personal freedom for the individual citizen — the qualities of mind and spirit that mark social progress.

Politics in Canada, as in every democracy, must remain the art of making possible the necessary. But the nature of the election process itself is undergoing a drastic transformation.

Pondering

For the first time in generations, the people are really listening to the politicians who, intentionally or not, have started the electors seriously pondering the various alternatives they represent.

The election is thus turning into a contest in which the private debates among the eleven million voters have become as important as the public debates between the three national party leaders. The "outside" story of the campaign is more important than its "inside" intrigues.

In brief, the current campaign is the most exciting and most important election in decades and it's not the politicians but the people who've made it so.

Beyond the Chase For a Fast Buck

By ART STOTT

A Victorian, returning from vacation in the throbbing Toronto-Hamilton industrial area, steps from his aircraft at Pat Bay and breathes in. Then he breathes in again more deeply, savoring air that has the tang of clean, uncloying wine. This could be the final, unpublicized touch added to the gourmet flight for which Air Canada is gaining wide repute.

Stott

Perhaps it is a locally developed taste to which home-towners are conditioned. It is an asset we hold more by accident than design, and one which, according to surveys of industrial potential, may be with us far into the future. It is a compensation for the absence of factories and highly urbanized living which have concentrated about one-tenth of Canada's entire population in and around the capital of Ontario. Back there, plants give surging production to the nation's economy—at a price including the coin of the kind of air which blows about us here.

★ ★ ★

We keep our air and our relatively relaxed living tempo. The big cities of the nation have sacrificed such amenities to the driving energies of industry, which sweats, exhales stale breath and converts a nation's natural wealth into hard cash.

A pall hangs over Hamilton, seen across the water from Queen Elizabeth Way running into the Niagara peninsula. From the top of Toronto's magnificent City Hall—towering half-cylinders of glass, steel and concrete that have an inspiring capacity to lift a visitor's eyes skyward—the view shrinks under a haze. In sunshine, the light strikes harshly at eyes unaccustomed to the city's glare.

But no one coming from the secluded reaches of Canada's Pacific can ignore the vitality of the industrial heartland—and the effective, conscious efforts of those living in an older part of Canada to give grace to their city. Trees are preserved. Big, black squirrels scamper down them to wrest a stale crust from garbage bins piled for collection a block away from a busy artery. An exclusive, high-price neighborhood, entered through its own subdivision gateway, retains rustic charm a stone's throw from a broad, high traffic density street with its trolley buses funneling human tides to the expanding subway.

In depreciating districts, old brick homes, now apartments, suggest in faded elegance an earlier era of Canadian living. Small stores, some crammed with ersatz art, curios, perpetual bargain sales merchandise, huddle at sidewalk level. In what once were the outskirts of the town, new plazas offer the comforts of indoor shopping—and the irritation of lackadaisical sales staff.

Far out, Scarborough College provides Toronto's simulation of British Columbia's Simon Fraser University—massive, almost brutal, moulds of concrete that seem to give substance to the equally massive air spaces they enclose.

A new highway cuts through the natural slopes of an old park, reducing its area—and a new park grows, miles away, to save trees, establish formal flower plots and provide roaming grounds for darting chipmunks.

Aircraft coming into and leaving the city look down on the swirling concrete entries and exits of high-speed freeways. Those leading from summer home country carry their freight of bumper-to-bumper 30-mile-an-hour traffic at the close of weekends and on holidays.

★ ★ ★

A visitor from Victoria, feeling a little like a country boy, gives grudging admiration to the big town which spreads outward and absorbs communities with the mechanical precision of industrial growth. And the country boy revises his earlier impressions of Toronto. A city that can produce the imaginative city hall is not an overgrown village. Its people, increasingly cosmopolitan, are showing more forcefully than most the direction of the new Canada and the direction is by no means an exclusive chase after the fast buck.

Saigon Can Treat With VC

By WARREN UNNA

WASHINGTON — South Vietnam's Saigon government should start negotiating with the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front right now and make its first objective an agreement on a cease-fire, Dr. Phan Quang Dan declared in an interview here.

Dan, who has just been named to South Vietnam's new cabinet, is the first of his government's leaders to come out with such a proposal. Until now, the Saigon government has offered to talk with North Vietnam, but North Vietnam prefers to deal with the United States.

"We should not wait for the talks in Paris to succeed because they may not succeed at all. And even if they do, and if there is an international conference, South Vietnam only would be 'invited,' put at an end of the conference table and not be a major partner. The only way to be master of your fate is to be master of your fate—do it yourself," Dan advised.

Outspoken

And continuing on this outspoken unorthodoxy, Dan said that while he was in favor of Saigon's anti-Communist leaders eventually forming a coalition government with the Communist Viet Cong, now was not the time: "There is too much suspicion on both sides."

Dan may appear to be free with his opinions (he looks upon himself as one of South Vietnam's "leading liberals and nationalists"), but he has earned the right.

Now 49, Dan was born in the same central Vietnamese province as North Vietnam's Ho Chi Minh. He received his medical training at the Sorbonne and Harvard, was jailed for three years by South Vietnam's late president Ngo Dinh Diem and then, last year, served as both a key member of the assembly drawing up South Vietnam's new constitution and as a candidate (unsuccessful) for the vice-presidency.

Touring U.S.

This short, affable, effervescent doctor-politician currently is midway in a two-month speaking tour of the United Sttaes.

He has been touring so quickly that it was only during the interview that Dan had a chance to see the lineup of the new Saigon cabinet announced May 24 with a list of 15 names, including that of Dr. Phan Quang Dan.

Although long openly critical of his country, its leaders and their shortcomings, Dan thinks South Vietnam and its present Saigon government finally have reached a point where they can talk peace without having to fear that they will be bested.

"I think the Vietnamese nationalists are in their strongest position now so they should not be worried about the conference table," Dan declared.

"They have never had such a strong army and police force—800,000 now and soon to be one million. The Tet offensive proved people remained loyal to the government. They at last have a very stable regime and it is not a dictatorship but has legitimacy with a constitution and elections which people and elecions which people respect. There are no more student or Buddhist demonstrations," Dan observed.

Impatient

Dan also thinks that Hanoi, although it may not get serious about negotiations until after the U.S. elecions, nevertheless is growing "impatient."

"Their basic policy was a protracted war and they used to say that in five or 20 years they would tire out the U.S.A. Now, since last October, it is more and more a conventional war and they responded very quickly to President Johnson's peace offer," Dan said.

"It's not just by ignoring them that we are going to solve the problem," Dan declared.

NEWS HIGHLIGHTS OF THE WEEK

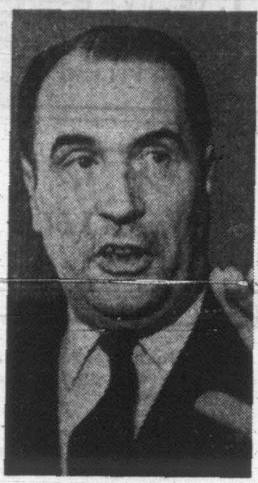
Reviewed by Peter Murray, Times Wire News Editor

In a typical display of either courage or obstinacy, depending on one's point of view. President Charles de Gaulle refused this week to bow out under pressure.

When de Gaulle retreated suddenly to his country home in the midst of France's worst post-war crisis it was widely speculated that he was about to resign.

In retrospect, the speculation seems like bad guesswork. Quitting would not be in character for the crusty, 77-year-old general, who has always regarded his destiny and France's to be bound together.

Instead de Gaulle came out fighting in a six-minute nationwide radio address, attacking his critics and blaming the Communists for stirring up the unrest which has almost paralyzed the country.



MITTERRAND
. . . 'call to civil war'

The president met only briefly with the cabinet after returning from a night of solitude at his Colombey estate, then took his case directly to the people.

He said he was dissolving the National Assembly and calling a general election. The referendum he had earlier announced on proposed economic reforms and which ran into immediate opposition, was postponed.

"I take note that the present situation physically prevents this being carried out," de Gaulle admitted.

Deploring the present climate of "intimidation, deception and tyranny," de Gaulle warned that if resistance is too great against an election "I shall have to take, to maintain the republic . . . other paths than the immediate polling of the country."

This was a clear reference to Article 16 of the constitution which allows the president to rule by decree in extreme national emergencies.

●

Reaction was swift. Leftist leader Francois Mitterrand, who placed second to de Gaulle in the last presidential election, denounced the speech as "the voice of dictatorship."

"It is a call for civil war," said Mitterrand.

Nevertheless Mitterrand earlier in the week had called for a general election, with creation of a provisional government in the interim, and the opposition parties have little choice but to contest the vote on de Gaulle's terms, short of plunging the country into all-out bloodshed.

And de Gaulle was not without support.

Thousands of Frenchmen massed in Paris Place de la Concorde after the speech, carrying tricolors and placards proclaiming "Vive de Gaulle." There was widespread reaction among the middle class against the student and labor union movements which sparked the current unrest.

The division in the country was reflected in de Gaulle's cabinet.

Education Minister Alain Peyrefitte, who had been the target of many of the students' protests, resigned earlier in the week. There were reports of other ministers who were dissatisfied with the actions of de Gaulle and Premier Georges Pompidou and wanted to quit, including Finance Minister Michel Debre.

The government had hopefully offered a number of concessions to the workers at the weekend, including a 10-per-cent wage increase in two stages this year, but the union members angrily rejected the proposal after their leaders had tentatively accepted it in negotiations with Pompidou and employer representatives.

Close to 10 million workers were still on strike at week's end with no indication they will respect de Gaulle's challenge to get the country moving again.

Elsewhere:

As the Vietnam war raged with increasing intensity, the peace negotiators dug in for a long stay in Paris with no evident progress made in two meetings this week. . . .

The UN Security Council unanimously approved a resolution calling for a complete ban on trade with Rhodesia. If the total boycott is effective it could bring down the white supremist regime of Ian Smith, but both South Africa and Portugal are expected to continue sending supplies and taking exports. . . .

Senator Robert Kennedy had his presidential hopes all but derailed in the Oregon primary election which saw Eugene McCarthy pile up the most votes but Vice-President Hubert Humphrey emerge as the chief beneficiary in the Democratic scramble for the nomination. Richard Nixon virtually sewed up the Republican nomination. . . .

THE GALLUP POLL

Most Canadians Approved Trudeau Leadership Choice

By The Canadian Institute of Public Opinion

A majority of Canadians (52%) feel that the Liberals made a good choice when they elected Pierre Elliott Trudeau leader of the party. Less than two in ten (17%) diapprove of the selection.

In the age groups, endorsement of Mr. Trudeau reaches its peak among those in their twenties (62%), while the ratio decreases among the middle-aged and older people.

Not unexpectedly, far more Liberals (76%) are pleased with the choice of Mr. Trudeau as leader than are Conservatives—27%.

When this same question was asked about Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield, following the Conservative convention, more people (61%) approved the Tories' choice than do the Liberal choice today (52%).

The question: "On the whole, do you think the Liberals did, or did not, elect a good leader at their recent convention in Pierre Elliott Trudeau?"

	Stanfield (Oct., 1967)	Trudeau (Today)
A good choice	61%	52%
Not a good choice	12	17
Can't say	27	31

Following are the tables showing how the different age groups respond to the choice of Mr. Trudeau and how adherents to the different political parties feel:

Repetition Only One Of Its Faults

THE TOLKIEN RELATION; a Personal Inquiry, by William Ready. Toronto, Copp Clark, 1968. 184 pages. $4.75.

Reviewed by R. G. Lawrence

The book under review is an analysis of the creative work of J. R. R. Tolkien, with, inevitably, an emphasis on The Hobbit and The Lord of the Rings. A reviewer is automatically tempted to communicate his enthusiasm for Tolkien and to overlook Ready, since it is the achievement of the former that is the greater and will prove to be the more enduring. (Dr. Ready is a librarian, at McMaster University, Hamilton.)

To one kind of potential reader The Tolkien Relation will be largely meaningless; anyone lacking a considerable familiarity with The Lord of the Rings may find Dr. Ready's book close to a waste of time.

To another type of reader The Tolkien Relation will be largely valueless; a reader steeped in Tolkien will find here very little that had not already occurred to him as he read.

"The Trilogy," writes William Ready, "is the stuff of the fairy tale, of myth and legend, of the folk tale that contains the matter of Man, far beyond what it seems to be. Tolkien brings our dragons home to roost."

This is one of the author's most perceptive observations (if inept methaphorically), but it is a truth likely to be evident to most readers of Tolkien.

Poor Style . . . Badly Written

Furthermore, this is a badly written book. Many colloquialisms and infelicities of style intrude, but more aggravating is Dr. Ready's engrained habit of repetition. One will often find the same idea offered in four different chapters. The book is rambling and disjointed, with frequent irrelevancies and digressions. These elements of the book, plus large type and blank pages persuade one that The Tolkien Relation could better be an article than a book.

For all it faults, the book has much material of interest. The reader learns a little about Professor Tolkien's early life in South Africa, service in the First world War, and his long career as a don and professor of Anglo-Saxon at Oxford University. Dr. Ready writes of Tolkien's conservatism, his Catholicism, and his reticence.

However, biographical titbits, comments on Tolkien's relationships with C. S. Lewis and Charles Williams, and plot summaries of Tolkien's two principal creative works are peripheral to the main theme of this book.

Two subjects are likely to stick in the mind of a reader of The Tolkien Relation. The first is Tolkien's attitude towards Hobbits. On the one hand, he depicts them as pleasant creatures, a little stupid, preoccupied with comfort, food, and genealogy. However, the other, the more profound side of the Hobbits is summed up by Dr. Ready in two fine sentences: "The Hobbit is Man's own daring admission of himself as he really is. . . . Tolkien reveals the power and dignity that reside in Man, however hidden they may be, as they are, most of the time, and he does it through a little Hobbit, Frodo, who is Man in essence, more than man." (Dr. Ready suggests that The Lord of the Rings is a better introduction to Tolkien than The Hobbit.)

Doesn't Penetrate Deeply Enough

The second significant theme in The Tolkien Relation is the ultimate meaning of Tolkien's books. Here Dr. Ready points the way, but does not penetrate especially deeply. He finds that The Lord of the Rings, the climax of Tolkien's work, is in essence about man's freedom of will to choose between good and evil, and the potentiality of power (as symbolized by the rings) to corrupt.

The critic draws some interesting parallels between Tolkien and Beowulf, as well as the books of T. H. White. Equally relevant to an analysis of ultimate significance are, however, unmentioned books like Milton's Paradise Lost and Bunyan's Pilgrim's Progress. One might even find important parallels between The Lord of the Rings and Swift's Gulliver's Travels.

A review such as this is in constant danger of drifting off into an analysis of Tolkien, achieved in Dr. Ready's book somewhat less than brilliantly and excitingly. His study is not likely to send many readers to Tolkien, but if it contributes something to an understanding of one of the significant works of our times it will have been worthwhile.

Father Called a Cab When All Else Failed

A CAB AT THE DOOR: An autobiography (early years), by V. S. Pritchett; Clarke, Irwin and Co.; $6; 240 pages.

Reviewed by Anthony Jenkins

Writing a good autobiography is not as easy as it might seem. To put down the truth about oneself without being vindictive towards the people one dislikes and without seeing oneself through rose-tinted spectacles requires an uncompromising honesty.

This is even more true when the period one looks back at is one's childhood, the years when one is most bound up with one's own importance and when the world outside matters only in so far as it touches oneself. V. S. Pritchett has this sort of honesty.

Mr. Pritchett has now become part of the British literary establishment. He is one of England's most respected reviewers and is well known for his ironic short stories and for the sharply realized atmosphere of his travel books. The Cab at the Door is the first volume of his autobiography and covers his first 20 years. It is also a "portrait of the artist as a young man," for at every turn one is made aware of the impact that those early years have had on the writer.

The book ends with young Victor in Paris, turning deliberately away from his background and from his family: "I became a foreigner. For myself that is what a writer is—a man living on the other side of a frontier."

Always Foreigner

Yet, as the whole book makes abundantly clear, Victor had always been a foreigner. On one side of the frontier stands himself, a youth whom he presents with unsentimental clarity, and on the other side his family and the tawdry lodgings that they all journeyed through during those nineteen years.

The foreigner in the house-hold observed everything and stored it all away, so that now the characters of his boyhood tumble onto the page, loved and hated, analyzed and seen for what they are.

Father was a Yorkshireman and came from a long line of dourly romantic eccentrics. He was a Micawber character "walking in and out of jobs with the bumptiousness of a god."

But his bright hopes always turned to dust so that by the time Victor was 12, the cab at the door had hurried the family away from debt and disaster some 18 times.

The children would be packed off to their grandparents in the country while father built new dreams and set about conquering a fresh town.

'Seductive Look'

Mother came from London and was something of a captive amongst her husband's people. "She was a slight and tiny fair-haired young woman with a sulky seductive look;" a cheeky Cockney girl whose ideal was always "love in a nice little shop." Happy when singing sentimental ballads at the piano—"she could 'cross hands' too"—she was temperamentally a stranger to her husband's ways: "We never owed a penny us girls were brought up straight."

Family life was a series of battles against debt, and its tempo fluctuated between cooing arias from mother and father—"O dry those tears, O calm those fears, Life will be better tomorrow"—which could quickly dissolve into less dovelike duets.

Father would rage at his wife's flighty London ways: "he would shout 'I raised you from the gutter' and, with a glance of appeal to us, would say 'You can't make a silk purse out of a sow's ear.'"

But mother was not lost for a reply: "she would mock father's piety with phrases like 'two-faced Wesleyans' and 'Hallelujah, keep your hands off.'"

The tumult of his upbringing is portrayed with unsparing honesty. Though a stranger, Victor is part of the family: "All of us, though peaceable enough, are liable to stick our chins out and take our superiors down a peg or two if our pride is touched."

Young Victor's pride as an aspiring writer was often touched in that household and his parents are taken down with devastating effect—"I hated my father"—yet Mr. Pritchett sees around and behind the figure of his young self so that Victor never appears superior or smug.

He accepts the fact that he is what he is and his parents are the people that they are. The line is drawn up between them with severity but little animosity.

This is the real impact of the book. We look over Victor's shoulder at vividly presented characters whom he hates and loves. His is a dazzling picture of lower-middle-class Edwardian society, as vivid and as pathetically jaunty as the worldd of H. G. Wells' Kipps or Mr. Polly.

The family's endless flight continually interrupted Victor's schooling and he never went to university. Instead, he studied life, and one can only thank fate that he did.

This is an absorbing book. It builds a world that is as well-rounded as that of any work of fiction. It is passionate yet well judged, and the sentences are bitingly perceptive in their smooth precision. Hopefully, we will not have to wait long for volume two to come off the presses.

It's a Good Question But Answers Fall Short

WHICH WAY GERMANY? by Harry W. Flannery and Gerhart Seger; Hawthorn Books, Inc., New York, 1968; 246 pages; $8.25.

Reviewed by
Walter E. Riedel
Department of Modern Languages, University of Victoria

Many changes have occurred in West Germany in the recent past. After Dr. Erhard resigned as chancellor, Dr. Kiesinger formed a new government uniting the Christian Democrats and the former opposition, the Social Democrats, in a grand coalition.

The National Democratic Party, described as neo-Nazi, has recently made further gains. Students have staged violent demonstrations. After such protests and talk of a new, more free and more democratic Germany — "Which Way Germany?" is a timely question.

Harry W. Flannery, a CBS correspondent in Berlin before the Second World War, and Gerhart Seger, a social democrat member of the Reichstag between the two wars, intend to give a comprehensive picture of the politics, the economy and the culture of present-day Germany in order to forecast its future.

'Front Line'

In spite of the book's title, the authors state in the foreword that the theme is only West Germany, which they view as the "front line for democracy in Europe." They deal with this theme as "seen in terms of United States interest" but express the hope of having been "successful in their efforts to be objective in a rather controversial area."

The book contains a great deal of information about Germany today. The authors begin with a sketch of the country's dark past of Nazism, deal with Germany's defeat and division, follow its reconstruction under Dr. Adenauer; the aims of the principal parties (the Christian Democrats, the Social Democrats and the Free Democrats) are discussed at length; the somewhat embarrassing neo-Nazi surge is considered by the authors as greatly distorted on the part of the press. The "world's most free economy" which produced the "economic miracle" is greatly lauded. On the other hand, information about East Germany is rather sketchy.

Left Wondering

The two journalists are so concerned with presenting facts that they include plenty of statistical information; unfortunately the reader is too often left to wonder about the sources. Statistics are meaningful only in their proper perspective, and the authors often present them in a misleading manner.

For instance, in a comparison of the average wages of a West German and a U.S. worker the authors convert the wage of the German worker into U.S. dollars, compare the two figures and conclude that the American worker earns twice as much as his German counterpart. The reader is left to wonder what the buying power of each worker's earnings would be in the respective countries.

Even cultural life is given in statistics: "25 million people attend 197 theatres in West Germany every year." The airlift during the blockade of Berlin is commented upon as follows: "Nearly 300,000 round trips to Berlin were made in the next 15 months. The mileage was more than that of 200 trips to the moon." This conversion is meaningful to every astronaut who has been to the moon and back.

Model Democracy

Flannery and Seger's West Germany emerges as a model democracy with close ties to the West and with a good chance for survival. Communism holds no attraction for the West Germans because they are fat and well provided for in their old age.

The National Democrats are brushed aside by gross oversimplification: the authors equate neo-Nazism with Hitler and the gas chambers and comment: "It is hard to believe that any people would want to bring back the gas chambers and other madness of the Hitler years."

Since the book's publication the National Democrats have made further gains and Germany has had its worst student demonstrations. These facts suggest that there is unfinished business: meaningful reforms as well as the reunification of Germany which has still to be dealt with at a peace conference by the victors of the Second World War.

The question remains whether the inability to find a solution to the German problem will lead to further unrest and contribute to further gains of right-wing elements, which could endanger West Germany's democracy.

SEA, COAST, PLACES

THE CURVE OF TIME, by M. Wylie Blanchet. Gray's Publishing (Sidney, B.C.) $5.75.

There is a special pleasure in reading about familiar places; consequently The Curve of Time is likely to be very popular with British Columbians, especially the boating enthusiasts.

The book is a collection of memories of summers many years ago when its author (who died in 1961) took her five children on long summer camping holidays up the B.C. coast in a 25 foot boat.

These were not luxury cruises by any means: The quarters were cramped, each person had only one set of clothes, and the skipper-cum-navigator-cum-engineer had to keep control in face of natural dangers that would send most mothers into hysterics.

It is a tale of excitement and adventure but there is a lot to be learnt from it too. The summer trips were extensions of the children's education as they followed the routes of Captain Vancouver, searched for marine life and explored deserted Indian villages.

Empty Village

One particularly interesting chapter describes a day in an empty winter village where the children found an Indian burial wood, with boxes-of-the-dead bound to upper branches by ropes of cedar bark.

This is essentially a book about the sea and coast places. People are less clearly defined and though the children are always very much there they are not character-ized; only the youngest emerges as a distinct person.

There is one exception to this in the chapter "Mike," a moving and credible evocation of a fine individual who had opted out of civilization to live for over thirty years in an isolated cabin, with an impressive little library and an orchard of apple trees.

This is the first Canadian edition of a book published some years ago in Britain. To the original version have been added chapters Mrs. Blanchet was working on at the time of her death.

These describe the family home, Little House and its Seven Acres overlooking Haro Strait.

The publishers do a real service in making this book available to Canadian readers. No doubt it will find its way into many a camper's gear this summer; it is ideal for dipping into at odd moments.

The Web Doesn't Like Meddlers

THE MIRACULOUS WEB. THE BALANCE OF LIFE, by Natalie Friendly. Illustrations by Bette Fast. For Grades 5-9. Prentice-Hall; 92 pp; $4.75.

Reviewed by
Derik V. Ellis.

This little book is the story of ecology, how animals and plants are dependent on one another and on their environment. It is very desirable that young people read as early as possible about the complexity of the web and the problems that can develop by interfering with it.

Wide Range

Mrs. Friendly covers much of the range of ecology. She has short sections on natural regions — the tundra, deciduous forests, grasslands, deserts, the sea and neatly parcels lakes, rivers and puddles into a section on inland waters.

She also brings in where appropriate the basic concepts of ecology, for example the adaptations of animals and plants to their environments, food chains and pyramid of numbers, plant succession and climax communities.

However, she rather badly mixes niche with territory. In most of the regional chapters she describes food chains, and there is often a drawing showing the animals and plants of the chain.

The smaller organisms in these are not always shown sufficiently clearly.

The book finishes with two chapters specifically on problems coming from our interference with the "Miraculous Web." She groups these as pollution and conservation, but in addition has scattered other tales of troubles through the book.

When we put together the subject matter of natural history, which is always interesting to young people, and Mrs. Friendly's frequent use of analogies from a child's world, then we have a book that children should enjoy. It seems suited though to grades 3-6, rather than teenagers up to grade 9.

By BRAD NUGENT

The high-flying Mamas and Papas are back in the groove with Papas and The Mamas Presented by The Mamas and Papas.

The album contains several standout numbers, notably The Right to Somebody to Love, Meditation Mama, Nothing's Too Good For My Little Child, Twelve Thirty, Midnight Voyage and a nifty version of the oldie Dream a Little Dream of Me.

●

A Canadian combo, The Collection, have made their first LP offering. They essay some advanced rock music ideas, including the use of dramatics and electronics above and beyond the call of duty.

For the most part they use these techniques effectively and further distinguish their product by giving the lyrics a meaningful place.

Some of the top pieces are She (Will-o-the-Wind), Howard Christman's Older, Lydia Purple and One Act Play.

A complex opus, What Love occupies the entire second side, being over 19 minutes long.

●

The Hook, an exciting new combo with a dynamic, striking attack have come up with an equally exciting album issue — The Hook Will Grab You.

Being heavily based in rhythm and blues, they pave no new roads but lift their rock 'n' roll to refreshing heights with lots of personality and thoughtful arrangements.

They have the appeal for younger teens, plus the musicianship to attract older hipper members of the younger generation, of whom so many are aspiring musicians.

Among the highlights are Homes, Everything's Groovy, Dimples, Turn Your Head, Son of Fantasy, Garbage Man and Dr. B. and His Friends.

People Get Ready for the Group Therapy is title of The Group Therapy's new LP.

The quintet has a variety of attacks, but keeps chiefly to the blues groove.

The songs are relatively straightforward, including oldies like People Get Ready and The Exodus Song, among some new material like Foxy Lady and Who'll Be Next.

I'm In Love is a striking success for Wilson Pickett, who seems to grow stronger with each outing.

While this set includes plenty of hard-driving rhythm song, the outstanding performances are the ballads — I've Gone a Long Way, Jealous Love, the title item and Sam Cooke's Bring It On Home to Me, which gets an awesomely soulful reading from the wicked Pickett.

●

Manfred Mann's The Mighty Quinn (Quinn the Eskimo) is featured on their new LP of the same title. They are one of Britain's more talented groups who seem to fuse jazz and various other elements into a distinct rock formation.

The album, excellent both instrumentally and vocally, holds Ha Ha Said the Clown, The Vicar's Daughter, Cubist Town, Everyday Another Hair Turns Grey, Country Dancing and others.

●

Country and Western fans will no doubt be waiting for Johnny Cash at Folsom. While I won't pretend to be a C and W fan I find this album most listenable.

The central fact of this issue is that it was recorded before an assemblage of inmates at Folsom Prison.

The title song, Folsom Prison Blues, is punctuated by the reactions of the prisoners and is followed by such numbers as Dark as the Dungeon, Cocaine Blues, 25 Minutes To Go, Orange Blossom Special, The Wall, Green Green Grass of Home and two numbers duetted with June Carter, Jackson, and Give My Love to Rose.

●

The soundtrack for one of the box office smashes of the year, Planet of the Apes, has recently been released. The main title theme is a compelling modernist conception.

The suspenseful and scarifying scenes in the film are also sharply underlined by a series of effective themes and instrumentation all recorded with obvious technical skill.

The Bee Gees look quite different in their second album, Horizontal; not nearly as multifaceted (perhaps because the songs on the first album were written over several years), more muted and calm.

Their style is still distinctive and they've learned how to control the thick orchestration and slow beat they seem to prefer in their recent songs — no one else could match the lumbering density of World on Horizontal — but the album lacks the excitement of their first.

Student Concerts Expanded

The number of student concerts presented by Victoria Conservatory of Music, terminating the year's work, rises from the originally scheduled four, to six, according to an announcement by Conservatory director Robin Wood.

To take place June 16 and 19, the former will be at McPherson Playhouse and the latter at the Conservatory, featuring pianist Allison Marshall and violinist Trudi Conrad.

A former pupil at the Conservatory, Miss Conrad has returned home for a few weeks after a very successful year studying and performing in Quebec City.

She will spend the summer studying under a Canada Council Grant in the Eastern United States.

This Sunday, the Conservatory program at McPherson Playhouse will be presented by a single artist student — Camille Inkman, winner of the Victoria City Medallion in this year's Music Festival.

Camille is 17 and a Grade XII student at Esquimalt Secondary School. Vancouver-born, she studied there with Eleanor Patch, one of Vancouver's leading piano teachers.

She came to live and study in Victoria last November.

She has won many awards and scholarships in her career to date, including the Canadian Composition category in the Centennial competition for all Canada, and second place in the general classification in a competion open to Canadian pianists up to the age of 30.

This year, as well as the Victoria City Medallion, Camille won four classes in the Vancouver Music Festival, including top place for Bach playing.

Her program for Sunday's recital will consist of the following numbers: Toccata in D. Bach; Sonata Op. 81 (a) "Les Adieux," Beethoven; Two Studies, Francois Morel (Canadian composer); Ballade in F minor, Chopin; Sonatine, Ravel; Hungarian Rhapsody No. 11, Liszt.

The recital begins at 2:30 p.m.

It has been decided to hold open auditions for all principal roles on this occasion.

A preliminary audition will be held Monday at 8 p.m. in Christ Church Cathedral Memorial Hall, Vancouver Street.

The three kings, bass, baritone and tenor or high baritone; Page, baritone; Mother, soprano, and Amahl, boy soprano, are the roles to be cast.

Anyone interested may attend, or obtain further information by phoning 477-3198 or 382-5321. Production dates will be Dec. 27, 28, 29, 30 and Jan. 2, 3 and 4.

SUMMER WORKSHOP

Plays to Swell Funds

The urgent need for scholarship funds to assist drama students at the University of Victoria, has sparked a number of activities.

University budget cuts having reduced the number of bursaries available for secondary school students in the province who wish to attend the Summer Theatre Workship, visiting Workshop director Martin Jenkins has swung into action.

For the purpose, Mr. Jenkins has revived a program he has presented successfully in Britain, It is a two-man show entitled Great Knights in the Theatre and is comprised of play excerpts and sketches concerning famous actors.

Mr. Jenkins, British actor, BBC producer, founder of England's Everyman Theatre and former assistant director of the Royal Shakespeare Company, will have as his partner for Great Knights, former Uvic professor and well known actor, Harry Hill.

The duo will stage the program at McPherson Playhouse, June 19, as a benefit performance for Summer Workshop bursaries.

A contribution has also been made to this fund out of the proceeds of the Modes in Motion fashion show presented in the Phoenix Theatre in April by the Women's Committee of Victoria Conservatory of Music.

To swell bursary and scholarship funds for the regular winter session of the Theatre Division, faculty and students are co-operating in a program of two short plays under the over-all title, Freedom is . . .

The plays, by two post-war German writers, are Freedom for Clemens by Tancred Dorst, being directed by Associate Professor Carl Hare, and Dr. Korczak and The Children by Erwin Sylvanus, directed by Assistant Professor Frederick Edell.

The program will be presented in the Phoenix Theatre June 25-29 and July 2-6.

Opening date for the summer workshop is July 2 and classes will be continuous through Aug. 9.

Evenings will be devoted to rehearsals for this year's major production of Shakespeare's Romeo and Juliet, directed by Martin Jenkins.

SEMI-ABSTRACT painting titled "Cyclamen Plant" is included in Victoria Art Gallery's current show.

Exhibit shows what emerging artists can do with new materials and what directions art will take in future.

Diamond In the Groove

Mussorgsky, Pictures at an Exhibition, Piano Suite; Horowitz; LM2357 Ravel's Orchestral Transcription; Karajan DGG 139010.

If you like stories, amply illustrated by detailed, colored pictures, you will probably prefer Ravel's transcription for orchestra of Mussorgsky's Pictures at an Exhibition. But if, like some readers, you prefer to endow the composer's sketched suggestion with your own creative imagination, you will find greater pleasure in the original piano version.

Both recordings are brilliantly executed and Ravel certainly deserves credit for popularising a work which pianists tended to shun.

Von Karajan uses all the textures and tone colors of the orchestral instruments to illustrate each picture; but Horowitz produces amazing numbers of varied tone effects from the piano.

The orchestral recording has a distinct advantage in engineering quality but even the occasional smothered, suffocating cough in the piano version cannot really detract from such a wonderful performance.

Mussorgsky, whom Tchaikowsky summed up as having killed his colossal creative genius with theories, has ever been a favored son of U.S.S.R. authorities.

Believing that Art should be the handmaid of Humanity, Mussorgsky refused to seek beauty for its own sake, but rather sought "to reach out the hand of fellowship to the liberated masses and learn from them the true purpose of life."

Fortunately, the Pictures at an Exhibition, written as a memoriam to his friend Hartman is in no way marred by ideology.

Several pictures are definitely more effective in the orchestral version. The Catacombs gains much from the mysterious horn effects, grating death-describing chords and organ-like hymn tunes.

The smooth saxophone melody in The Old Castle seems more anachronistic to a troubadour-serenaded castle than the piano version.

The unhatched chicks, the ladies in Limoge market-place and the children quarrelling in the Tuilleries gardens, all gain from the variety of orchestral instruments but the comic effect is better maintained by the unsoftened angularity of the piano.

In this respect too, the Gnome becomes more grotesque when described by a pianist.

The most famous picture of all, that of the arrogant prosperous Jew and his impoverished whining, nagging fellow-countryman describes a picture which Hartman had given to Mussorgsky because he admired it so much.

The one fault of Van Karajan's interpretation in general is that everything is too large, too heroic and grand and therefore too nearly a parody.

The promenade sections which link the pictures in the first section at least, sound more like a processional than a heavy-footed amble around a gallery.

Similarly, the Great Gate of Kiev is so magnificent that only a convocation of dignitaries would enter through it. Horowitz adds a bustle of activity to his interpretation which would open the gate to merchants and peddlers, grand though it is.

In either version, this is a fascinating work and lucky listeners will have access to both.

(First of Two Parts)

There is an important exhibit at the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria until June 9; important in the sense that it will afford a rather rare glimpse of several artistic worlds that are practically non-existent locally.

It is titled Cross-Section '68: Younger Vancouver, and ought to be seen by anyone remotely interested in what has been going on in this decade.

Lindberg

It is important enough to devote two articles to, which I will do this weekend and next.

Though none of the work by 11 artists is what would be termed earth-shaking, it is a respectable and competent reiteration of what is being stated in the international art centres.

But then, when contemplating Optical Art, Hard Edge Painting and Symbolic Realism, we supposedly suppress the emotions and speak more of perception.

In a scientific and technologically-oriented world, many painters and sculptors have come to think of themselves as technicians, almost in the medieval sense, rather than artists.

This may nettle the more romantically-inclined, including myself, but one cannot dismiss entirely the possibility that any of these techniques may eventually break through into a more timely and humanly satisfying art.

These young technicians, scornful of the emotionalism and accident of abstract expressionism, know where they stand.

Precision and a cool, dispassionate intellectualism is their pleasure.

Much of this art instantly engages the beholder, yet does not demand his involvement or insist that he relate it literally to the world of objects, emotions or experiences.

Actually, there is a tremendously wide range of interests and approaches put together in this single showing, and, if one is selective, he may take some giant steps in tracing the development of art in the '60s; assuming, of course, that abstract art by now is to be considered an accomplished fact.

There is some representational art here, but it is, still in all, conceptually abstract, suggesting the foundation for the other, more tangential show-companions.

Ross Bollerup, for instance, remains confidently in the realm of formal abstraction, in the best tradition of masters like Henri Matisse, wit flat, decorative patterns based on organic forms, employing a full range of warm, sympathetic colors.

There is no difficulty in accepting art such as this, nor is it challenging in any particular sense. It is really rather bland.

David B. Mayrs operates within another area, which I prefer to designate as "symbolic realism," wherein the recognizable object is retained, but the total meaning may be something other than imposed by the content.

In one of his muted, low-key paintings, a hand wearing a spring-driven stem-clipper "beheads" flowers in a row, with a prosthetic power and chilling determination, which may bring to mind all kinds of modern-day ritual murder.

In this sort of painting, there is a little more to think about; not pretty, perhaps, but more formidable.

Iain Baxter (who puckishly uses the corporate image, N.E. Thing Co.) is an idea man, primarily, who long ago abandoned formal sculpture for the real article; not only the found object, but the conscripted object.

He remains the king-pin of the Vancouver scene, as one of the most completely original thinkers on the Pacific Coast.

Baxter has sent, for our amusement and our absolute consternation, a Bagged Landscape with Boat, Air and Water (the last word in the plastic arts—), which I can only accept as a rueful comment on our own cover-the-earth plasticization; and, so help me, a hunk of steel fencing titled Chain-Link, Alberta, which may or may not be the outline of that province.

Baxter always extends you the benefit of the doubt, because it's not likely you will grant him anything.

He is entirely unremitting in terms of a kind of poker-faced satire, which tends always to point up the uneasy alliance we maintain with a world of mass-produced everything and soul-satisfying nothing.

In keeping with his enigmatic manner, he would probably be the last to admit to any such rationale.

Another sculptor, Glenn Lewis, demonstrates the phenomenon which began a number of years ago, when potters like the American Peter Voulkos (now an international sculptor) and satirist James Melchert burst down the barriers between ceramics and abstract sculpture, and brought fired clay into the fine arts.

The symbolic crack in his cup, saucer and tray (a piece wryly titled, Rip Torn) signifies the death-knell of an esthetic based on symmetry alone, traditionally thought to be the paragon of classical purity and grace.

D'Arcy Henderson, whose talents lie somewhere in the Twilight Zone between painting and sculpture, has sent a set of three vivid kandy-kolored kool-aid flake sheet-metal shapes that are hung on the wall, bathed in the glow of three spotlights of similar hue.

Henderson's shapes are spray-painted with car lacquers and elicit visual admiration by those especially affected by what I prefer to call "finish fetish."

This is another distinct reflection of the times, and is a more or less direct outgrowth of hot rod painting. Henderson is molding pure color, which alludes to many of the other light and color experiments going on at the moment.

Many of the objects in this show are designed to work as institutional art rather than private adornments, and in the former context would be much more effective.

Six other artists, concerned essentially with formal Op and Hard Edge Painting, will be the subject of some further analysis next week.

In the interim, drop by the Gallery and see what I am writing about.

'See Show First' Julia Tells Critic

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The most talked-about series of the new television season is a situation comedy called Julia, about a young Negro woman, played by singer Diahann Carroll.

The show is still four months away from its premier, and only the pilot has been filmed. But already it is the cause of controversy. In a Saturday Review article title Julia: Breakthrough or Letdown? Robert Lewis Shayon criticized the project for failing to deal with the "two target groups in American life—Negro youth and Negro men."

Shayon noted that the National Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders reported that unemployment is not a problem with Negro women; the real problem is Negro youth "hustling in the jungle" of their "crime-ridden, violence-prone and poverty-stricken world," many of them deprived of the presence of the "solid citizen" father.

"The Negro female accommodates to the white power structure; the Negro male is aggressive in his demands for responsibility, and such aggression would hardly be welcome in a TV series," said the writer.

Miss Carroll was recently in Hollywood briefly to hunt for a home before starting the NBC series, which was created and produced by Hal Kanter for 20th Century-Fox. She was scornful of the Shayon article.

"I'm sure if I were to review a book he wrote, I would read it first," she commented. "I would think that he might give us the courtesy of seeing our show before he criticized it."

"We're dealing with an entertainment medium," she remarked. Julia is a drama-comedy; it isn't politically oriented. Because I am black, that doesn't mean I have to deal with the problems of all black people. That's not my sole responsibility."

COSTUME design and construction for Roar of the Greasepaint has been in the gifted hands of University of Victoria costume mistress Dorothy Van Wyjk, left. She has been assisted by John Drean and Maureen Larkey. The musical which Robert Price and Associates is producing for Bastion Theatre, opens at McPherson Playhouse Thursday, for nine performances. IT WORKS IN BAND TRAINING

'Floating' Teachers Needed in Fine Arts

By AUDREY JOHNSON

Secondary education in this province "should enable pupils to select for themselves educational goals and patterns of study in accord with their proven interests and abilities . . ."

Graduate students should be "generally well informed . . . relatively versatile . . . possessed of some definite skills and knowledge in a general field of human endeavor . . ."

These quotations are from a department of education publication in which the objectives of secondary education are outlined.

Audrey

If after digesting the capsulized objectives you skip to a study of the curriculum organization chart for senior secondary schools, and then to a careful perusal of the curriculum guides for the fine arts at all levels, the spectrum of education in B.C. appears as wide as all panavision.

It's Permitted

In the fine arts, with the exception of classical dance, there is little that can be given in the form of group instruction that is not permitted to be taught.

The department approves, for example, such subjects as play writing and direction, stage lighting, make-up artistry, photography, sculpture, ceramics, linoleum printing, musical history and ear training.

Nevertheless it is not true that all B.C. school students with a bent in these directions will find them available within their schools.

Such factors as lack of qualified teachers, suitable space and "entitlement" render the impressive fine arts section of the curriculum inactive in many areas.

To begin with the least familiar of these factors — entitlement.

The scope suggested in the curriculum guides makes it a virtual necessity that teachers involved in the visual and performing arts programs, if the subjects are to be realistically implemented, should have a sound and thoroughly specialized training in their field.

'Floaters'

As only a relatively few teachers have had time and opportunity to develop such specialties in depth, educators already involved in the program tell you that the obviously satisfactory solution would be "floaters" — specialist teachers who would put in full time covering an area of several schools.

In band and orchestra instrumental training there are perhaps a half-dozen such teachers now working under Victoria and Saanich school boards.

But according to all that I have been able to gather and elicit, at least one or two teachers in a similar capacity are badly needed for the visual arts and theatre programs as well as in choral and general music.

And this is where the principle of entitlement becomes an, at the moment, insuperable barrier.

Entitlement means the number of teachers, based on student population, which the department will subsidize in any school.

They Must Pay

Teachers employed over and above entitlement are the sole financial responsibility of the particular district authorities.

As one secondary music educator points out — "naturally each principal wants a full-time teacher to help share the load of supervision, regular scholastic work and program activities.

"Rarely, especially at the elementary level, will he accept a teacher who will be at his school for only an hour or two each day."

This means that teachers having exceptional ability for inspired teaching in a specific art category, can utilize that ability to only a limited extent.

They must spend the maximum part of their day teaching and supervising in areas that would be at least as well served by teachers with less specialized gifts.

It also means that in many elementary schools in the province instruction in the arts is minimal and that at some secondary schools there is little encouragement for students to take fine arts electives.

Supervisors, and what arts specialists there are in the Greater Victoria school system, work hard at making this part of the curriculum a real and positive force.

Harry Bigsby, music supervisor for the Greater Victoria school board, feels that some progress is being made. The addition of orchestra instruction by visiting teachers in the elementary schools is new, for example.

His ultimate aim, Mr. Bigsby says, is one music specialist in every school having a minimum population of 500.

Next to the problem of trained teachers, comes the difficulty of finding space for arts activities.

Accommodation is pitiful in most schools, all arts educators interviewed declared.

Frustrating

In this situation no light glimmers, considering the present government freeze on school building. But the facts are frustrating in the extreme.

Only one school has a proper, acoustically doctored music room with adequate storage for instruments and permanent space for other music teaching aids.

Among senior secondary schools, again only one has a properly designed art room, according to a prominent art teacher.

The necessity of giving music instruction under such impossible conditions as in a vault-like echoing gymnasium or separated by a thin partition from a basketball game, is common.

These conditions, and the compulsion of having to teach a completely uncongenial subject in addition to the arts specialty, have driven out of the province and out of the country several first-class teachers.

When this subject was opened here, two weeks ago, there appeared to be material for a series of two articles.

Since then, the mass of information and opinion that has flowed in has been in such volume that it can only be adequately treated by adding a third.

Consequences of the Chant Report as it affected the arts at the secondary school level, what has happened since and the influence of the universities on secondary school elective courses, will be discussed next week.

Square Dancing Fishy?

Grab your partner, June 4-8 is Square Dance Week in British Columbia.

The cabinet proclaimed it in an order passed in April and Friday the government issued a reminder.

The proclamation describes square dancing as "combining friendship with physical exercise and the cultural advancement of participants of all ages."

It says that "the many facets of this pastime foster good relations between communities, provinces and nations," and that a square dance jamboree is being held June 7 at the PNE grounds in Vancouver.

If all that exercise is appetite-whetting, consider that the cabinet also proclaimed June as "Fish and Seafood Month in British Columbia."

25-Cent Fine For Mop Theft

QUEBEC (CP) — A young Quebec City housewife Thursday was fined 25 cents—believed the smallest fine ever rendered in a Canadian court—for the theft of a dishmop.

The 35-cent mop was taken from a downtown store.

Judge Alphonse Garon said "it is ridiculous to put the whole judiciary machinery in motion for such a small thing," and he sentenced the young woman to pay a 25-cent fine or spend 10 minutes in jail.

She quickly paid the fine.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Prices Sensitive To World News

By GERALD CLARKSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Canadian stock markets picked up at the end of the week and closed with firm gains. Prices had been supping since early May. Cause of the recovery was said to be President Johnson's statement from Texas that he would accept a $6,000,000,000 spending cut in order to win the 10 per cent income tax surcharge from Congress.

The news reached the Toronto and Montreal exchanges Thursday afternoon and mixed trading gave way to a small rise. American markets were closed for a public holiday, but the advance was general before the weekend.

Brokers have set much store by a large U.S. spending cut because they feel it will prevent tighter credit and higher bank rate.

A vote on the bill in the House of Representatives is currently scheduled for June 12 or 13. Although the Senate has already approved, pessimists still see a chance of it being thrown out.

However, if all goes well analysts say the market should move up in a revival of the Vietnam peace rally. At the moment, the Toronto industrial index is still nearly four points below its May peak.

Looking at other influences on the market, brokers say visibility is poor. Prices are highly sensitive to world news and the strength of paper money.

They believe only institutional funds can provide strength if foreign developments are unfavorable.

According to J. B. Sparling, president of the Canadian Mutual Funds Association, fund managers prefer to invest in New York in order to get the "best possible performance" for other people's money.

He was answering Finance Minister Edgar Benson and other critics who object to the growing trend.

Action on the trading floor showed investors are jumping at any unusual opportunity. Speculative industrials were strong, with the real estate group in the lead.

Takeover rumors were a magnet. CPR gained 3½ to 58½ on gossip that the company might make an offer for Trans-Canada Pipe Lines. CPR spokesmen immediately denied it.

Trans-Canada was up 2⅛ by the weekend.

Molson Breweies and Anthes Imperial shot up on news that Molson had made a stock and cash bid. Molson A advanced 2 to 21¾, Moslon B 2⅞ to 22¾, Anthes A 5¼ to 37½ and Anthes B 6¾ to 37¾.

FORD SOARS

Ford of Canada leapt 30 to 230. A Ford official at Oakville denied that the U.S. parent, Ford of Detroit, was buying up the stock. Brokers said it was being tipped for higher earnings.

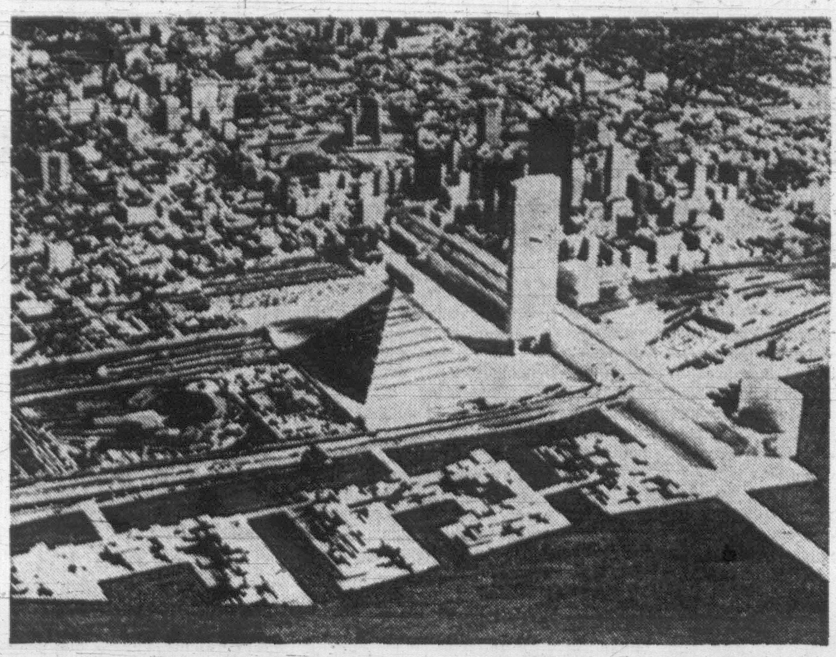
Among swiftly rising real estate issues, Bramalea gained 4 to 33, Revenue Properties 3 to 24¾, Peel Elder 3¼ to 22¾, Canadian Goldale 2⅛ to 19½ and Capital Building 25 cents to $2.60.

Ontario Store Fixture, which has acquired real estate interests in the Bahamas, rose 2⅝ to 25⅞. The stock had a low of 5 this year.

Other surging small industrials were Fleet Manufacturing, National Containers, Montex, Na-Churs International, Scott-Lasalle, Keeprite Products and Levy Industries.

Piggyback Link

TORONTO (CP) — Canadian National Railways has announced the start of a piggyback delivery service linking Montreal, Toronto and Vancouver. The service will originate four days a week in each direction.



AERIAL VIEW of downtown Toronto takes on a different look with the addition of an artist's conception (foreground) of a floating city as envisaged by Buckminster Fuller, designer of the U.S. pavilion at Expo 67. His design calls for huge steel-hulled rafts covering 4½ acres and capable of holding 5,000 dwellings plus stores and other conveniences on the Toronto waterfront. (CP Wirephoto)

COULD BE PATTERN-SETTER

Alcoa, Steel Workers Sign

NEW YORK (AP) — The giant Aluminum Co. of America and the United Steelworkers of America have signed a contract which could set a pattern for the U.S. aluminum industry.

Other unions and major producers holding separate talks were unable to reach similar settlements before the midnight Friday night deadline, however, and there were scattered walkouts today although some talks continued.

The other unions, the United Auto Workers and the Aluminum Workers International Union, set up picket lines at some Alcoa and Reynolds Metals Co. plants in several states.

A Steelworkers spokesman said the new three-year Alcoa pact provided an average wage increase of 55.9 cents an hour plus improved pensions, hospital insurance and unemployment benefits and a new $30-a-week vacation bonus.

Shortly after the agreement was announced, Alcoa said it was increasing its prices effective today to meet higher labor, service and material costs. Alcoa said unalloyed primary aluminum ingot would go up one cent a pound to 26 cents and the price of most fabricated products would be increased by four per cent.

M. C. Weston Jr., chairman of the Steelworker's Aluminum Industry Council, described the pact as a "pattern-setter." He said he considered the settlement "one of the top benefit agreements in the country."

The Steelworkers represent half of the 60,000 employees of the five major aluminum producers and their contract has traditionally set the industry pattern. The Alcoa contract covers 11,000 workers at eight locations.

HOLD SEPARATE TALKS

The other major producers are Reynolds Metals Co., the Kaiser Aluminum and Chemical Corp., the Ormet Corp. and Alin Aluminum, a division of Olin Mathieson Corp. All held separate talks with the unions.

Weston, the Steelworkers chief negotiator, said he wasn't able to immediately compute the cost to Alcoa of the new package but said he thought it exceeded the 6.1 per cent yearly increase the union recently won in a three-year contract with the can industry.

Current wages in the aluminum industry average from $3.09 to $3.28 an hour, wih the total costs to the companies of wages and fringe benefits about $4.50 an hour an employee.

Direct Talks Break Down

TRAIL, (CP) — Direct talks between Cominco and the United Steelworkers of America for a new contract for employees in the Trail area have broken down, the union said Friday.

Bob Kiever, president of the Trail local, said the union will now apply for a provincial conciliation officer.

He said the union is seeking an 80-cent-an-hour pay raise, plus improvements in fringe benefits, while the company proposed originally 12 cents an hour over one year or 24 cents hourly over two. Base rate is now $2.65 an hour.

WEEK IN U.S. BUSINESS

Economic Outlook Better

NEW YORK (AP) — The United States regained its trade surplus in April, brightening the economic picture.

The commerce department reported this week that exports rose 17.7 per cent to a record $2,888,500,000 last month while imports rose only 1.1 per cent to $2,640,500,000.

The export surplus of $248,000,000 compared with a deficit of $158,000,000 in March, which was the first time in five years there had been a monthly minus figure.

Part of the March decline was attributed to an East Coast dock strike that delayed movement of goods and a portion of the April rise was due to a catching up on shipments.

William H. Chartner, assistant commerce secretary for economic affairs, predicted the trade surplus will improve during the balance of the year.

But he said there is only "a glimmer of hope" that President Johnson's goal of a $500,000,000 improvement in the 1968 trade surplus over 1967 will be met.

President Johnson this week sent Congress a message on international trade but didn't propose any new import surcharges or other measures to restrict imports.

He asked Congress to turn down import quota legislation being asked by various U.S. industries.

George S. Moore, chairman of the First National City Bank, told a meeting of business men:

"We must get every exporter or potential exporter to examine the possibilities and problems of achieving a 10 per cent increase in exports in 1968.

Housing Starts Up

VANCOUVER (CP) — New housing units in British Columbia population centres of more than 10,000 persons increased 78 per cent in April, 1968 over the same month in 1967. Dwelling units for April this year totalled 2,066, compared with 1,155 for April, 1967.

McGregor Backs Seagrim As New Air Canada Chief

MONTREAL (CP) — Gordon McGregor retired Friday as president of Air Canada and pulled no punches in naming the person he hopes will be his successor — Executive Vice-President Herbert W. Seagrim.

"I would prefer someone from the company so badly I can taste it," Mr. McGregor said in an interview when asked if the new president should be a political nominee or come from within Air Canada.

Mr. McGreggor said a recommendation from a subcommittee of Air Canada's board of directors suggested in 1964 that he "devote part of my time" to groom a successor.

"This man, in due course, was H. W. Seagrim, who was made executive vice-president in 1966 and given complete responsibility for the operations, sales, purchases and stores department."

Mr. Seagrim, a Winnipeg native, got into flying as a bush pilot in northern Manitoba and Ontario, qualifying as a commercial pilot in 1931.

TESTED AIRCRAFT

He joined Trans-Canada Air Lines when it was formed in 1937 and during the early part of the Second World War was a military aircraft test pilot for the Boeing overhaul plant at Vancouver.

Mr. McGregor, 67, president since 1948, said he will not continue as a director of Air Canada. He feels Air Canada shares should be made available to company personnel particularly and also the general public.

Control of the airlines, now a Crown corporation wholly-owned by CNR, should be removed from the CN and placed entirely in the hands of the Canadian public.

Referring to Air Canada's Winnipeg maintenance and overhaul base, Mr. McGregor said: "Unquestionably, Winnipeg must go."

This year 1970 would mark the end of Winnipeg base activities, all to be transferred to Montreal. Only regular line maintenance would be done at Winnipeg.

Reached for comment at his home Friday night on the proposed Winnipeg closure, Mr. Seagrim declined comment.

Mining Companies Get Govt. Grants To Improve Roads

Grants totalling $36,900 to mining companies for construction or improvement to mining roads have been approved by a provincial cabinet order-in-council.

The money cames from a $500,000 fund allocated by the legislature earlier this year as grants in aid of mining roads and trails. Largest grant, for $10,000, went to the Cotton Belt mining group for Seymour River road in the Kamloops district.

Receiving grants of $7,500 were the O.K., IOV, IPEX, and M.C. operations for the Calling Lake Road, Kamloops district; Howson Basin Mines, Howson Creek Road, Omineca district, and the George Group, Tangier River road, Revelstoke district.

RETURN to business world was official today as Robert Winters took over as president of Brazilian Light and Power Co. Ltd., the Toronto-based public utilities company that made about $55,700,000 profit last year. The former Liberal trade and commerce minister said he plans to spend some time in Brazil learning about its people and studying Portuguese. Brazilian Light is the biggest company in Brazil and Canada's largest foreign-investment corporation.

DDD Phone Service Initiated

Direct distance dialing telephone service began today in Victoria and surrounding areas.

A half-million-dollar program to permit telephone customers in this area to dial station-to-station long distance calls directly reached its climax at one minute past midnight.

That's when the B.C. Telephone Company placed into full service the complex DDD equipment housed in its main Victoria exchange building on Blanshard Street.

Some of this equipment was in use earlier so the company could demonstrate how direct distance dialing works and these facilities were employed late Friday to mark the official start of DDD service.

MAYOR MAKES CALL

Mayor Steven of Victoria put the formal kickoff touch to the service by dialing directly from the telephone on his desk at city hall to Mayor Vincent Dantzer in Edmonton.

Gil Auchinleck, manager of B.C. Telephone's island division, said the completion of the DDD installations here enabled the company to provide direct distance dialing to 90,000 telephones in the Greater Victoria, Sooke, Keating, Sidney, Jordan River and Gulf Islands and Ganges areas.

These customers now can dial their station-to-station calls from their own telephones to any of more than 90,000,000 telephones in North America.

B.C. Firm Wins Hydro Contract

MONTREAL (CP) — Northern Construction Co. and J. W. Stewart Ltd. of Vancouver have been awarded a $7,600,000 contract for work on the Churchill Falls hydro-electric power development in central Labrador, it has been announced.

The contract covers work on excavation of the intake channel, excavation for the intake structure and four dikes in the intake area from where water will be funnelled into the 11-generator underground power house.

Churchill Falls Labrador Corp. Ltd. which is building the $900,000,000 project also announced that a $1,200,000 contract was awarded to Desourdy Construction Ltd. of Montreal for construction of sewers, water mains and roads during the expansion of the main construction camp and for the permanent community.

Newfoundland Engineering and Construction Co. Ltd. of St. John's was given a $300,000 contract for construction of service buildings.

The latest contracts brought the total announced so far this year to more than $20,000,000. The corporation spent more than $42,000,000 up to the end of 1967 at which time it had entered into contracts totalling $114,000,000.

OTTAWA WILL GIVE DETAILS MONDAY

$500 Million Bond Issue

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister Benson Friday announced new government financing that will include a cash offering of $500,000,000 or so in bonds.

A statement from the minister's office said details of the new financing will be announced Monday.

The statement said the bonds, which will be dated June 15 and delivered June 17, will have terms of 12½ months, 27½ months and six years.

The largest maturity will incorporate a new feature for "the convenience of investors seeking regular monthly income." Holders of $25,000 or more of the six-year maturity, in fully registered form, will have the option of receiving interest by cheque monthly rather than semi-annually.

The actual amount of bonds to be issued Monday will be determined at the time allotments are established.

The statement said the Bank of Canada has agreed to acquire $140,000,000 of the bonds, open as to maturity.

The bank also has agreed to acquire a further $75,000,000 of the six-year bond in exchange for Government of Canada bonds due this Oct. 1 and Dec. 15 and treasury bills due Nov. 29.

Cash proceeds of the financing will be used to redeem $284,581,000 of Government of Canada 2¾-per-cent bonds due June 15 and $135,000,000 of 4½-per-cent government bonds also due June 15 "and for general purposes" of the government.

Ginter Quits As President Of Eurocan

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — Ben Ginter Friday announced his resignation as president of Eurocan Pulp and Paper Co., a Finnish-controlled firm that is building a $100,000,000 pulp and paper mill in the Kitimat area.

"Due to all the work I've been doing during the last three years getting Eurocan started I have found it just impossible to continue as president," said the Prince George millionaire in a statement.

"I am developing a mine up north and I want to build breweries in Alberta and Manitoba." Mr. Ginter owns Tartan Breweries Ltd. of Prince George.

K. E. Ekholm, a Finnish businessman, has been "temporarily appointed" president, said Mr. Ginter, who continues as vice-chairman "in an advisory capacity only."

Mr. Ginter owns three per cent of Eurocan, with an option to purchase a further 12 per cent at a later date.

His announcement said his Eurocan work left him little time for his other interests.

Wine Company President Back From S.A. Tour

The wine-growing experience of the Rhine, Bavaria, Austria and South Africa has been imported into the flavor of B.C. wines.

Wine growers here are employing the same high-quality wine-producing techniques that are used in South Africa says Brian H. Roberts, president of Victoria-based Castle Wines Ltd., who recently retruned from a two-week tour of that nation.

Roberts was the only Canadian wine expert on the tour of his native land which included visits to all major wineries, vineyards, and wine estates in western Cape province.

South African wine industry leaders, he said, have imported a great number of winemasters and technologists from the Rhine area of continental Europe.

The technology of Castle Wines is based on three winemasters from the Rhine, Bavaria and Austria, Roberts said.

Arthur Mayse

Let me introduce you to Ed and Ella, a white Canadian couple of middle age who live in Saanich. I would have preferred to use their real names in this account, but those must serve.

Ed, a big, fairskinned, easy-going man, is a contractor by trade, and a sport fisherman of more than ordinary skill. Ella does most of the talking. She is brisk, tart, and kind. Her hair and eyes are dark, and so is her skin, especially after a few weeks of summer sun.

Two years ago, Ed coupled their 17-foot trailer to their station wagon and they set out on a vacation trip south with their daughter and her friend.

Through Washington State and Oregon, all went better than well. Then they crossed the Oregon border and loafed on down into California. Ella, by this time, had tanned to a deep chocolate-brown. Before leaving Victoria, she had got a perm, and a rinse that deepened her hair color to jet black.

They made a pleasant overnight stop at a trailer camp in the coast logging country. Next day they continued south and inland, pulling into a well-appointed oasis about 4 p.m.

★

Earlier trips had settled them into a checking-in routine. Ed, who does most of the driving, relaxed behind the wheel while Ella crossed to the trailer park office.

The man behind the counter gave Ella a considering stare, then admitted that he might manage to squeeze them in. The space he alloted them was down by the washrooms.

By dark, the mosquitoes were fierce, and several other rigs had joined them in the marshy area. These were battered and anything but mosquito-proof. They held Mexican families.

But next morning, with the California sun shining, they were disposed to be philosophical about the bad night. They'd landed unlucky, that was all.

Next day they returned to the coast, and heavy mist that made them glad to put in at a promising camp somewhat before their usual time.

The old man in the office told Ella that he didn't think he had room for them. But he walked with her to his gate. Close by, Ed leaned against the wagon.

"Is that big Swede your husband?" the proprietor asked.

"Yes," Ella replied, "but he's of English extraction."

Minutes later, their trailer was settled in one of numerous empty berths . . . and Ed was laughing fit to bust.

"You know," he said, "that fellow thinks you're Mexican."

★

At this point, laughter ended. Even though they still found it hard to believe that the color bar had been lowered, the fact was forced upon them.

Restaurants would serve Ed and their daughter, and the other girl travelling with them. But not dark Ella.

"They'd never come right out with it," she remembers. "They'd just forget to bring my order, and when I tried to get attention, the waitress was always busy somewhere else. In the stores it was the same. And the farther south we went, the worse it got."

Barred from the places they chose, they took to pulling in by the roadside for the night. They ate all meals in the trailer, sometimes parked between two meters in towns that had no welcome for Mexicans real or imagined. At a park close to the Golden Gate, Ed went to the office while Ella scrunched down in the front seat with head turned the other way. They were taken in.

Soon after, they cut a spoiled vacation short and headed for Canada, with Ed doing the honors at each overnight stop. Ella kept out of sight.

But it wasn't the snubs, the refusals and the ignorings that sent them home. What did was the first of the wild Negro riots, the one that flared in the Watts district of Los Angeles.

"We were luckier than the Negroes," says Ella, already darkening for another summer. "They can't get away. And believe me, I know better than most what they're up against!"

SMASHING PORTRAIT of "Mr. and Mrs. Tweedie," (who else could they possibly be?) as they relish a spot of that stuff before leading parade officially opening Oak Bay's Tea Party this morning. They are, of course, Col. and Mrs. Henry Thuillier, 2424 Beach, and moments later they relaxed in their 1937 Phantom Three V-12 Rolls-Royce at the van of proceedings. Victoria Chinatown Lions drum and bell corps provided the parade music for annual invasion. Tea Party continues Sunday.

SMOKE-FREE SUNDAY SET IN OAK BAY

Oak Bay's new burning bylaw goes into effect Sunday.

Passed last November after many complaints about incinerators churning out smoke, the bylaw restricts burning to weekdays between June 1 and Sept. 30.

No burning of any sort will be permitted on Sundays, or on the Dominion Day and Labor Day holidays, without special permit.

Fire department officials are prepared to stand behind the ruling: "If anybody complains, we'll send the police around."

For the first while persons caught burning rubbish on Sundays will be cautioned. But then the teeth in the bylaw will be set — it allows for fines of up to $100 for continued infractions.

Three Charged After Incident

Three Victoria youths appeared in court today charged with contributing to the delinquency of a 14-year-old girl.

Claude Comer, 19, and Ralph Isaacson, 20, pleaded not guilty and were remanded to Monday to fix a date for trial.

The third, David Weir, 19, was remanded to Monday for plea. All live at 740 Kings Road.

Charges were laid following an incident Thursday in Goldstream Park.

Bail was set at $500 each.

Tourists Fined For Shoplifting

Two Australian tourists today were fined $50 after pleading guilty to shoplifting at a local department store.

Gloria Natoli and Jean Cook appeared before Magistrate Byers.

Court was told the two women removed goods valued at $18 from the store without paying for them.

Passenger's Condition 'Critical'

A man involved in a fatal crash early Friday is in critical condition in Royal Jubilee Hospital.

AB John Dion McLaughlin, 817 Dunsmuir, suffered a fractured skull but is "holding his own," hospital spokesman said.

Driver of the car, AB Gregory Robert Dixon, 22, of the same address, was dead on arrival at hospital. He was Esquimalt's first traffic fatality of 1968.

Police said the car hit a pole on Esquimalt Road.

EVERY PARADE needs policemen to keep things rolling and Michael Harrison, 3, of 1880 St. Ann, does double duty as first tricycle "cop" in Ye Olde Oak Baye Police Department and as parade contestant. There's a touch of tradition here, too. Michael's father, Cliff, is a city policeman. Saanich float displays charms of Miss Open Ditches, armed with bug spray and fly swatter. She's really Mrs. L. W. THIRD TRY SINCE 1964

Battle Looms Again To Regulate Funerals

By ROGER STONEBANKS

A third attempt in just over three years will be made by the funeral industry in British Columbia to gain special legislation for itself.

And once again the move will be opposed strongly by the 15,000-member Memorial Society of B.C.

A statement by the B.C. Funeral Service Association, which represents 85 per cent of the B.C. undertakers, said its members will soon ask the government to bring in legislation "similar to that governing dental mechanics, insurance salesmen and so forth."

The next session of the legislature, however, is not until next January.

Main points of the requested legislation:

Requirement of minimum standards of service and facilities for the industry;

Setting up of a certified apprenticeship school;

Creation of an indemnity fund to which all in the industry would contribute to "protect the public from any loss suffered through the actions of anyone in the industry."

Last fall it was disclosed that the association had prepared a similar draft private member's bill for the legislature. But no MLA sponsored the bill. In 1964 a similar attempt failed.

Reaction to the new move was swift from Mrs. Jean Mohart, president of the Memorial Society of B.C. which opposed the last bid for special legislation.

'Put Up Just the Same Battle'

The society is an association of more than 15,000 members organized to provide simple, low-cost funeral services in the belief that other funeral homes promote services which are expensive and unnecessary.

"What concerns me is that they may be pressing for an order-in-council (cabinet order). The government does a lot of legislation by order-in-council," she said from her Vancouver home.

"We'll put up just the same battle we did before for any contol of industry other than what we feel is necessary. It now comes under the health department. They shouldn't need special legislation. I'm suspicious of any move they make. (Previous "Opposition" to legislation was based on a fear that the Memorial Society could be forced out of business by the act.)

"The Memorial Society is in a very strong position right now. We did a personal survey of MLAs (earlier) and they got between 50 and 100 letters each and no one wanted to sponsor the (funeral industry's) bill."

The B.C. Funeral Service Association, in its statement, said 36 undertakers have put into action a plan under which they will provide up to 700 funerals without charge for those who signed up for pre-arranged funerals with an organization that collapsed.

Participating in Victoria are McCall Brothers, Hayward's, Chaplin's and Sands Mortuary.

The undertakers have agreed to the plan for any B.C. residents known to have subscribed to Pineview Memorial Plan, a New Westminster group which signed up hundreds of elderly people for pre-arranged funerals, collected about $250,000 from them "and then, in mid-1967, locked its doors."

'Protect Good Name of Industry'

Association president Gar Jennings of Vancouver said "even though our association disapproves of promoting pre-arranged funerals in this way and none of our members are or have been involved in the Pineview or similar schemes, we are taking this step in order to protect the good name of the funeral industry as a whole."

Mr. Jennings said "only with" special legislation for the funeral industry can it "co-operate with the government in eliminating the possibility of such eventualities as the Pineview collapse and that the resultant upgrading of standards of ethics could only serve to work for the benefit of everybody."

"We hope too that it would serve to counteract the extremely distorted publicity which our industry has suffered at the hands of a few writers and commentators on the social scene, in the publication of such books as The American Way of Death."

Mr. Jennings said facts do not support charges that the funeral industry capitalizes on death and forces "extortionate" prices on the bereaved.

CRASH LANDING at Cassidy airport damaged plane slightly Friday but the pilot, Dr. Howard McDiarmid, Social Credit MLA for Alberni was unhurt. He said he was landing to refuel on a flight from Port Alberni to Vancouver when his landing gear collapsed. The accident was blamed on a malfunction. He owns the single-engine Seabee which wears sign, "This is not a Lear jet."

Standby Pickers Sought

Names of several hundred pickers are wanted as a standby in case Saanich strawberries ripen early.

George Bevis, manager of the Victoria Canada Manpower Centre, today asked adults and students to register as pickers as soon as possible to help harvest this year's crop.

Early picking has started, but this is expected to speed up next week when the main crop ripens.

"While weather will have an effect on the time either speed up or slow the ripening processes — we must endeavor to have several hundred pickers standing by ready for an early ripening," he said.

Growers expect an excellent crop if weather conditions remain stable.

SIGN PROTEST ABANDONED BY SAANICH

Political parties are free to post campaign signs in Saanich despite the tough anti-sign municipal bylaw, Acting Mayor Leslie Passmore said today.

The decision is the same as one in the city of Victoria where it was pointed out that a 1966 Supreme Court decision makes clear municipalities have no power to regulate federal election campaign signs.

"As far as we are concerned we have to accept the fact they can put signs up," he said in reference to New Democratic Party plans to place campaign signs on lawns of homes.

Ald. Passmore also said Saanich will amend its sign bylaw to explain the over-ruling authority of federal legislation.

Dr. Harvey Richardson, Victoria NDP candidate, said the party in both Victoria and Esquimalt-Saanich has no intention of "covering up the area" by erecting signs on lamp standards and telephone poles.

The plan involves the lawns of houses "where the citizen wants to do so, to support the candidate."

Last Chance to Get on Voters' List

By ERIC MAURICE

If you're not on the voters' list for the June 25 federal election, your last chance to get on is June 8.

Voters' lists have been posted on utility poles in all districts, and constituents can check to see if their names have been included.

If a voter was not enumerated in May or if his name has been left off the voters' list in error, he should check with the returning officer in his riding or go to the court of revision.

Revising agents started out Friday to make corrections and additions to the lists.

Court of revision will sit June 6, 7 and 8 from 11 a.m. to noon and 8 to 11 p.m. each day.

The court of revision for the Victoria riding will be held in the Eagles' Hall, 755 View St.

Five Esquimalt-Saanich locations are: Knights of Pythias Hall, Sidney; St. Luke's Church hall, Cedar Hill Cross Road; St. Martin's in the Fields Church hall, Obed Ave.; Esquimalt United Church hall, Admirals Rd., and St. Matthew's Church hall, Langford.

Anyone not enumerated by 11 p.m. June 8 loses his chance to vote in this election.

Anyone who had been enumerated but whose name has been left off the voters' list can be put on the list on election day by presenting the enumerator's slip to the deputy returning officer at his polling station.

Advance polls will be held June 15 and 17 from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.

There is no absentee poll in federal elections, and the Canada Elections Act provides that only persons ordinarily living in a riding may vote in that riding. This provision excludes persons who are spending only the summer in the Victoria area from voting here.

Victoria returning officer David Wilson expects a large number of Chinese, who were suspicious when enumerators called initially, to turn up for enumeration at an office in the Chinatown district.

Rocks Trampled By Early Assault

Regulars Missed As Carls Record Third Straight

VANCOUVER—Victoria Shamrocks missed some of their regulars Friday.

After that statement, and a look at the final score of a National Lacrosse Association game, there is room for a lusty "amen!"

Vancouver Carlings made the most of the situation and jumped on the Shamrocks, 16-5, for their third straight Western Division victory.

Missing from Victoria's lineup — for various reasons — were goalie Barry Forbes, Bill Munroe, Ron Zilkie, Glen Vickers, Larry McNabb and Chuck Hardy. Forbes, missing the trip to the mainland because of illness in his family, was especially missed.

FOUR UNSIGNED

At the same time, it was announced that the goalie was one of four players still not signed. The others are Hardy, McNabb and Ken Alexander.

All four, however, appear on the 21-man roster the Shamrocks had to turn in to league headquarters Friday night. The rest of Victoria's official list include reserve netminder Doug Thompson, Bob Harris, Ranjit and Nirmal Dillon, Munroe, Ray Beech, Ted Liebich, Don and Jim McNeill, Ed Kowalyk, Reg Foster, Bill Gray, Tom and Vern Black, Zilkie, Vickers and Bill Spotswood.

Victoria coach Dave Unwin said the lack of the four signatures on contracts "is nothing serious."

The signings are handled by the team directors. McNabb, out of town on holidays, simply forgot to turn in his contract. A technical question about junior-aged players has held up the signing chores of Alexander and Hardy.

WHO KNOWS?

He didn't know the reason Forbes has failed to turn in his signed contract.

The Carls, making the most of Victoria penalties, could have been conceded Friday's game after the first period. They blazed away to an 11-1 lead, scoring seven goals on power-play situations.

Three veterans led the assault on Thompson. Pete Black (three goals and four assists), and Bob Babcock (2-5) each had seven-point nights. Sid Warick checked in with four goals and an assist.

Warick has been a big gun in all three Vancouver victories this week, scoring a total of 10 goals and three assists.

TIME FOR PRAISE

Ross McDonald and Gord Frederickson each counted a pair while Bill Rawson, Bill Robinson and Ron Hemmerling added singles.

Ranjit Dillon, Lonnie Restall, Beech, Kowalyk and Liebich scored for Victoria.

Despite the thrashing, Unwin still took time out to laud his players.

"One thing you can say about them," he said, "they didn't quit after that first period." Vancouver out-scored the Rocks 5-4 in the last two periods and out-shot Victoria 45-42.

PENALTIES HURT

Rocks took 33 minutes in penalties while Vancouver drew only four minors and a major. Victoria's sum included a misconduct to Beech and a major to Vern Black for fighting with Val Roberson.

The first-period penalty sum, more than anything, unsettled Shamrocks. After Vancouver scored seven goals in their seven power-play attempts, Shamrocks appeared to move with undue caution several times during the final two periods.

IT'S MY VIEW . . .

By Ernie Fedoruk

Say, Hey, Here Come da Judge . . .

A man's moods are many and as variable as the winds. In one moment of sanity, he is apt to favor taxation, university students and police protection. Give him a parking ticket, his income tax notice or news of the riots, and a sensible citizen immediately offers a darn good imitation of lunacy.

Looking back, I remember some terrible thoughts about taxation when it was my turn to pay. In other years, when the government owed me, the feelings were quite different.

I haven't told my psychiatrist, but there always has been one feeling that never changes. It expresses a complete lack of sympathy for the fan who becomes physically involved with the players during the course of a sporting event.

This lack of understanding also includes the fan who relieves an emotion by throwing any form of debris on the playing surface, whatever the sport may be.

The price of admission allows the customer a great oral freedom. It is not a license to cause injury, which becomes possible when various materials are heaved onto the field, floor or ice surface.

●

The emotions of fans and the subject of undue force in sports came to mind after Toe Blake, the coach of Montreal Canadiens, and winger Claude Provost were ordered to prepare for trial on assault charges.

A California salesman and a housewife filed the suit after suffering injuries during a National Hockey League game in Los Angeles during the past winter.

The case of Players-vs-Fan has come up in the courts many times in the past. But you need the fingers of only one hand to count the number of times the fans scored a victory in the legal game.

From an NHL player's point of view, it is nice to have a lawyer (Clarence Campbell) as the head of your league. Also, past judgments indicate the courts recognize a limit on the certain liberties some fans claim.

●

A former referee, Red Storey, was the central figure in one of the few lawsuits the league of a club had ever lost.

Storey turned out to be a victim of his own good nature.

A souvenir-hunting youngster had been pestering Storey for a puck. As he was leaving the ice, the ref finally flipped a puck to the lad. In his excitement, the youngster fumbled the catch and the puck bounced away into another row.

Another treasure-hunter lunged forward. In his haste, he caused a woman to break her leg. She sued the league and Madison Square Garden, and won.

There have been incidents where charges were never laid, yet one wishes it had been otherwise. Such was the case at Memorial Arena, several years ago.

A Victoria fan tossed a fresh and still-steaming cup of coffee on a visiting player during a Western Hockey League game. A grand assault case never got into court because the dimwit proved speedier in street shoes than the player wearing his skates.

Because he was so anxious to avoid a lawsuit, that fan still holds the record for the fastest time down Blanshard Street (distance unknown).

●

The NHL's files would be empty — utterly and positively — without a story about King Clancy, the rambunctious assitant manager with the Toronto Maple Leafs.

Like Storey, Clancy had been named the defendant while refereeing. A fan in Boston sued Clancy for $50,000 but the case was dismissed.

Lester Patrick, then a governor of the league, popped around to advise Clancy to exercise a greater control on his Irish temper.

"You know," Lester informed Clancy, "If the (arresting) police officers hadn't been Irish, we would have lost the case."

His eyes twinkling, Clancy looked up at Lester and said:

"What about the judge, Lester, did you think he was Chinese?"

UNSER EARNS $177,523 FOR INDY WIN

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP)—Bobby Unser of Albuquerque, N.M., picked up a record $177,523 Friday night for winning the 52nd 500-mile race at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

The total purset of $710,219 was not a record.

UNSER EAGER . . . . . . TO RACE IN EUROPE

Grand Prix Tempting

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Bobby Unser, who won the biggest auto race of his life at Indianapolis Memorial Day, now faces the biggest decision of his 19-year driving career.

Dan Gurney, runner-up to Unser in the 500-mile race, has asked the Albuquerque, N.M., driver to run the Grand Prix circuit in Europe.

"Gurney promised me the best car," Unser said Friday. "It even has gotten to the point where I talked to my wife about it. She said if this is what I want to do, darn the money."

Unser has won the last four races in the U.S. Auto Club championship trail, has a commanding lead in the battle for his first USAC national driving championship.

The 34-year-old driver, who comes from a racing family, has wanted to run the Grand Prix circuit since he was a boy.

"This is one of the nicest compliments I've ever had, getting this offer from Dan," Unser said. "I told him he'd have to carry me first. He said that I'd probably run good, but that it would take a year to learn the courses."

Unser was offered a ride at the Le Mans 24-hour race last year but said he rejected it because he didn't think the car was competitive.

Unser's only two previous victories in USAC championship driving since 1956 were scored last year on the Mosport, Canada, road course, which is similar to those used in Grand Prix racing. He placed third on another road course at Indianapolis Raceway Park.

Students from Lansdowne found many cheering opportunities as their athletes retained team title.

Lansdowne Keeps Title As Track Marks Topple

Anybody who doesn't believe Victoria's steadily expanding and improving track and field training programs are producing results should have been at Centennial Stadium Friday.

Benefits of supervised training were on display for all to see in the annual inter-junior high school meet. Young athletes performed with more poise and efficiency than ever before and by the time the succession of exciting races had ended, records had been established in most events.

Four new marks were established in the boys' section and two in the girls' division. New standards were automatically set in the nine new events on the program.

ENTHUSIASTIC STUDENTS

Making things even better were well-organized officials who moved through the competitions in championship style and cheering students in the stands who set a new high for numbers and enthusiasm.

One thing wasn't new.

Lansdowne, which won the team title during the first seven years of the meet, retained the championship and made it 10 titles in 14 years since the school was opened.

Leading by 48 points after Wednesday's field events, Lansdowne pulled away in Friday's track contests to finish with a 74-point bulge over runner-up Gordon Head.

Central, second last year, was third with 163 points, nipping Oak Bay by a single point.

LAST HOPE ERASED

Second, third and fourth places were not decided until the boys' relays that concluded the meet. Central's last slim hope of grabbing second ended in the final event when Sid Chow dashed through his anchor leg to give Gordon Head a win in the senior boys' relay while Central was finishing sixth.

Leading individual performer was junior Bob Duncan of Central, winner of all three events he was permitted to enter. Duncan, winner of the discus throw Wednesday, set records while taking the 100 and 220-yard sprints.

Bob Harlan of Reynolds was a double winner in the senior sprints while cracking records in both events.

Central's Linda Eert (senior) and Lansdowne's Jo Carlton (junior) established new standards in the girls' 100-yard dashes.

EXCITING FINISHES

Jim Hunter of Lansdowne failed to set a new record but he came out on top in one of the finest battles of the day. Hunter held on in a tense stretch drive to nose out Gordon Head's Cam Kruger in the senior half mile.

The senior mile was also a thriller as Lansdowne's Doug Stefanek overcame a big lead in the home stretch and pounded past a surprised Mike Morrill of Oak Bay a few strides from the tape.

VETERANS RETURNING

CALGARY (CP) — Calgary Stampeders of the Western Football Conference have signed veterans Gerry Shaw and Ron Payne. It will be the fourth season for offensive flanker Shaw and the sixth for defensive end Payne.

PITY POOR TOM!

After Hot 68 Came Cool 83

ATLANTA (AP) — Affluent Tom Weiskopf is learning how to live with adversity on the golf course while unlucky Tommy Aaron is starting to enjoy the game.

Aaron, 31, still looking for his first tournament title after nine seasons on the tour, was two shots in front of the field going into today's third round of the Atlanta Classic.

Weiskopf, 25, who has already won $85,000 this year, was out of the tournament with the dubious record of shooting the lowest score in the first round and the highest in the second.

"I'm embarrassed," said Weiskopf after an 83 put him out of the $115,000 tournament despite his opening 68, which had given him the first-round lead.

Aaron rolled into the lead with a 70 for a 36-hole total of 139, two strokes better than Bob Lunn. Jack Nicklaus was third at 142 and a handful of veterans were deadlocked at 143.

The cutoff mark of 149, which trimmed the field to the low 70 scorers and ties, was the highest of the year on the tour.

MANNS ON MARK

Lions Tick Off Third Straight

Red Lions are starting to move up the Senior Men's Softball League ladder now that the pitching staff is showing its best form.

Glen Langsett fashioned a two-hitter Friday and Red Lions won their third straight by blanking Carlings 9-0 at Central Park.

Wade Burns bore the brunt of an 11-hit attack. Forced to shoulder Carlings' pitching load with Dave Norman away on a visit to Winnipeg, Burns tired noticeably as Lions scored all their runs in the final four innings.

Terry Manns led the Lions at the plate. He went four-for-four at bat, drove in two runs and scored another three himself. Langsett (two-for-three), Don McIntosh and Ralph Branting also drove in two runs apiece.

Only Ken Griffin and Ron Grant reached Langsett, each hitting off-field singles.

DRYSDALE EQUALS RECORD

Ninth-Inning Jam Temporary Threat

By Associated Press

Don Drysdale and Larry Jaster both flirted with baseball's record book. Drysdale made it. For Jaster, well, it was a nice romance.

Drysdale, Los Angeles Dodgers' right hander, pitched out of a ninth-inning jam for a 3-0 victory over San Francisco Giants Friday night.

It was his fifth consecutive shutout, tying a major league mark set in 1904 by Doc White of Chicago White Sox and breaking the National League record.

Jaster finished with a two-hitter and a 2-0 victory.

Cincinnati Reds edged Philadelphia Phillies 5-4, Atlanta Braves beat Pittsburgh Pirates 5-2 and Houston Astros took Chicago Cubs 3-1 in other National League games, all at night.

In the American League, four out of five teams used homers to decide the issue. The fifth—Chicago White Sox—leaned on a squeeze bunt to push across the winning run in a 14-inning, 2-1 victory over Minnesota Twins.

Home runs helped Cleveland Indians to down Washington Senators, 8-3; Willie Horton's shot carried Detroit to a 1-0 victory over New York Yankees; Bob Rodgers connected in the 12th inning and California Angels beat Oakland Athletics, 3-0, and Ken Harrelson and Carl Yastrzesmki powered Boston Red Sox past Baltimore, 3-0.

Drysdale Drew Benefit in Dispute

Drysdale was breezing along in great shape against the Giants, but almost blew it all in the ninth.

Willie McCovey led off with a walk, Jim Hart followed with a single and a walk to Frank Marshall loaded the bases with none out.

Then came a dispute. Dick Dietz appeared to be hit on the arm by a pitch, which would have forced in a run. But plate umpire Harry Wendelstedt said Dietz made no attempt to get out of the way and called the pitch a ball. Giant Manager Herman Franks was ejected in the discussion that followed.

Drysdale then retired Dietz on a shallow fly, got Ty Cline to ground into a force play at the plate and retired Jack Hiatt on a pop fly. He finished with a six-hitter.

Wes Parker had two doubles for the Dodgers, driving in one run and scoring another.

Jaster finished with seven strikeouts against the Mets and outdueled hard-luck Tom Seaver, who had a 1.91 earned run average going into the game but has only a 2-5 record to show for it.

In the junior circuit, Luis Aparicio's squeeze bunt pushed across the White Sox's winning run in a game threatened by a near fight. Central figures were Ken Berry of Chicago and Minnesota pitcher Bob Miller.

Dick Kenworthy had opened the 14th inning with a double. Berry then thought he was hit by a pitch and got halfway to Miller before manager Eddie Stanky intercepted him.

The umpires ruled that the ball struck his bat first and was a foul ball. Miller then hit Berry . . . for real this time . . . and the Sox had runners at first and second.

Sandy Alomar sacrificed and Russ Snyder was walked intentionally, loading the bases. Then Aparicio dumped his bunt past the mound and Kenworthy scooted home with the winning run.

TRAP TRIALS

Lead Shared At Half Mark

EDMONTON (CP) — Two Edmonton men, Ed Shaske, 40, and John Primrose, 25, were tied for first place in the national Olympic trap-shooting trials Friday with half the competition remaining.

Competition was to continue today and Sunday, with the top two finishers winning berths in the Mexico City Olympics in October.

Shaske and Primrose each shattered 96 out of 100 targets both Thursday and Friday for half-way scores of 192.

Gil Henderson of Toronto, with 96 Friday and 93 Thursday, was in third spot with 189. Harvey Willsie of Montreal and Joe St. Arnaud of Edmonton were tied in fifth spot with 185 each. Willsie, 1964 Olympic champion, slipped from an opening round of 95 to 90 Friday.

World junior champion Ricky McGarry of Niagara Falls, Ont., broke 90 Thursday and 94 on the second round for a 184 total.

School Titles To Miss Corby, Jim Armstrong

Stephanie Corby turned on the speed and Jim Armstrong displayed mighty muscles Friday in the inter-house track and field meet of Esquimalt High School.

Both had a successful system as Miss Corby captured the girl's individual aggregate championship and Armstrong collected the boys' crown.

Stephanie's efforts helped House I to the team championship but Jum's contributions were not enough to enable his House III escape a fourth-place finish.

House I athletes finished with 400½ points and were followed by House II (389), House IV (344½) and House III (339).

SHOT PUT RECORD

Armstrong, individual champion at this year's Island meet, won the shot put with a meet record toss of 48 feet, eight inches, and added victories in the discus and hammer events.

Miss Corby dashed to her crown by taking the 100, 220 and 440-yard events.

Four other new marks were established.

Linda Wilkinson, who also won the girls' discus event, set a standard of 31 feet, 10 inches in the shot put and Janet Stillwell set a new mark of 2:43.0 in the girls' half mile.

Mike Bishop, with a time of 53.6 in the 440, and Dave Lock, with a 12.8-second effort in the 100-yard hurdles, also cracked old records.

Lions Trade Claridge

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia Lions of the Western Football Conference Friday announced a two-for-one player trade giving Calgary Stampeders rights to retired Canadian end Pat Claridge.

Lions receive Bill Goods, fullback and place kicker, and rookie centre Bob Howes, both non-imports. Claridge, who retired in 1966 after five years with Lions, has said he wants to play for Calgary.

Goods is a former Calgary junior and Tulsa University player who has been with Stampeders three years. The 26-year-old teacher handled most of Calgary's kicking last year.

Howes was Stampeders' second draft choice in 1966, from Queens University. He didn't make the roster that year and sat out last season. He is 25.

Claridge played offensive end after joining Lions from University of Washington. The 30-year-old Vancouver native caught 162 of 204 passes for 2,437 yards with Lions.

ROOTIN', TOOTIN' AND SHOOTIN'

This Is Video Country

BRIDGEPORT, Calif. — Fans of television westerns will feel at home in this mile-and-a-quarter high vacation valley on the eastern side of California's High Sierra.

The county courthouse, a wooden, masterpiece of the gingerbread of the 1880s, has been headquarters for many a rootin' tootin' video sheriff, galloping off with his posse over the cattle ranch countryside.

Between filmings, the old building, spanking clean white and sound despite its 108 years, houses the county business of Mono County's 2700 residents (one person for every 1.2 square miles).

A favorite hunting and fishing region, Mono also offers the vacationer some of America's more unusual wonders of nature.

One is the Devil's Postpile National Monument. The earth cracked open here about 100,000 years ago and poured out a mighty layer of molten hot lava. As it cooled, the lava shrank and cracked into surprisingly even three to seven sided columns. A glacier mauled the lava mass for thousands of years but left a 900-foot wall of the stone columns, some 40 to 60 feet high.

ROCK MOSAIC

Some of the columns stand even and straight, as though stacked by a giant constructor. Others bend like a handful of mammoth spaghetti. Below is a jumble of broken columns. A trail leads up to see how the glacier wore the tops of the column smooth so the pattern underfoot looks like a rock mosaic.

On the short walk from the auto road to the postpile you can reach down for a handful of pumice rock, result of an ancient volcanic eruption. Drop a piece of this rock into the nearby stream or the soda spring, where you can drink natural soda water, and the pumice will float—it's that light.

CHIPS PRIZED

A few miles away the Black Cliffs are dark obsidian, natural glass from a volcanic eruption. Sharp chips were prized by the Indians for knives and arrowheads.

Mono Lake near Bridgeport is called America's Dead Sea — it's so full of chemicals no fish can survive. In a high wind the chemicals churn up soapsuds on the shore.

Big Lake Crowley in southern Mono at 6,781 feet is, however, a favorite for giant trout. It is a reservoir for Los Angeles city which draws water about 200 miles from this region. Han's Resort overlooking the lake also has trout-stocked streams on its land.

GHOST TOWN

Less than 20 miles from the county seat, at an elevation of 8,368 feet, the ghost town of Bodie slumbers in the sun. During its gold mining boom days, Mark Twain made it famous for the "Bad Man of Bodie" who, between his nefarious deeds, slept in the weeds outside of town. Bodie is now a California State Historical Monument.

The pot-bellied stove from the Miners Union Hall of Bodie is now in the lobby of the Bridgeport Hotel which was also built in 1860. It is still neat and sound and as much in use as the old courthouse, though modernized as to comforts. Its original furnishings, many still in use, came around the Horn in the 1800s.

Mid-summer visitors to Mono may be surprised at seeing people bearing snow skis. The snow lasts that long on the famous ski runs of Mammoth Mountain. U.S. Olympic ski team trained here in July.

They Surf Under The Lights

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Calif. — This is one of the best places to watch surfers riding their boards on the ocean waves. As many as 3,000 to 4,000 surfers will be in the water on any warm Sunday.

And it's not confined to daylight; they've installed high intensity lights on th long pier for all-night surfing.

Huntington Beach is located on the coast south of Los Angeles not far from such famous Orange County trave attractions as Knott's Berry Farm, Movieland Wax Museum and Japanese Dee Park, Briggs Cunninghan Automotive Museum and Movieland of the Air airplan museum.

It is known as the "Surfing Capital of the U.S." becaus of the character of its waves A long beach gradient start the waves breaking furthe out to sea and the result is ride perhaps as long as tw city blocks — at 20 to 25 mile per hour.

•

One of the best vantag points is the 1,800-foot muni cipal pier. You may see dozen or more surfers line up on the same wave. Darin surfers ride their boards righ under the pier, threading thei way between the pilings; tumble can mean nasty bar nacle scratches.

The U.S. surfing champion ships will be held here i September, drawing expert from Australia, New Zealand Japan and Peru as well a Hawaii and other states. Me and women will compete a riding tandem, two on th same surfboard.

The trick of surfing is t catch a wave at the righ instant, mount the board an slide down the face of th advancing wave. Experts sa it takes six weeks to si months to learn the trick Skiing experience helps.

And they say almost an swimmer can do it. The start here at 6 or 7 years c age and there are a few sti riding the waves at age 80.

LONG BEACH SHORT OF NOTHING

Travel in Any Direction, You'll Find Entertainment

By ALAN WHITE

The shore-bound Queen Mary hotel complex will put visitors to Long Beach, California right in the centre of one of the world's greatest centres of organized activity.

Any way they turn — east, west, north or south — they will find a million dollar development offering them entertainment.

Whether they want to relax indoors or out, on sea or on land, there is something to do within minutes of Long Beach.

And even if they want to stay close to home at the Queen Mary or nearby accommodation there will be something for them.

The stores and boutiques, museum and restaurants of the ship make it almost a total living complex for the visitor to the city; yet only a small part of what will be available — projected views of the area show a complete and luxurious development of the waterfront.

The berth where the Queen will sit, part of Pier J complex, will be just the first in a 5,000 ship marina. Surrounding the project will be what is already one of the world's most modern ports.

●

Much of Alamitos Bay is fringed by Long Beach Marina, the largest municipally owned marina in the world.

The biggest event of the summer season — which "packs an entire summer of ocean-oriented activity into nine days" — is the California International Sea Festival.

In its third year now, the festival runs Aug. 3 to 11. Comprising [illegible] separate competitive events and exhibitions, the festival can be enjoyed for $20 in admission fees.

●

Some 19 of the items on the schedule are admission free.

The nine day festival is the time when water enthusiasts of the city of 378,000 put their skills to the test — with races in three classes of sailboats, inboard speedboats, drag boats and ocean-going powerboats.

It also includes a two day international underwater photography exhibition, an art festival along six blocks of downtown Long Beach streets and a continuing treasure hunt for $1,500 in cash.

A four day international Sabot regatta gets under way the first day and an air show with aerobatics, kite-skiing, wing-walking and skydiving by the U.S. Navy underwater demolition team will finish the day off.

●

But the sea festival is only nine days in length — and port and marina facilities are available all year. The port offers access to the greatest sports fishing grounds on the west coast, from the sea or from 1,500-foot-long Belmont Pier.

Adjacent to the city — and untouched by rapid and extensive growth — are eight miles of sunny, sandy beach.

For indoor swimmers, the city will have completed by August the largest indoor facility in the world, other than the new Olympic Pool in Tokyo.

The pool, part of the growing Belmont Plaze Beach Centre, was designed for national, international and Olympic events in water polo, swimming and diving, as well as for public recreation.

The city offers boat tours of the port — 20 miles in two hours — and recreation in 25 municipal parks.

●

Adjacent to the marina, Marine Stadium has been revamped for the 1968 Olympic rowing, canoeing and kayak trials and is open for water skiing.

Boat launching facilities and fishing charters are readily available.

But getting away from the sea, and from Long Beach, can bring you to the attractions that have made this part of California world-renowned.

Fast, modern freeways take you to the mountains only an hour and a half away (they measure distance by the time it takes to get there in this part of the world), or south along the shore to the Laguna Art Festival in midsummer.

●

Within about 30 minutes are Disneyland, Knott's Berry Farm and Ghost Town, nearby Movieland Wax Museum, Marineland of the Pacific with a circus of the sea and downtown Los Angeles with its Chinatown, Olvera Street and Little Tokyo.

A little farther out of the city — about 45 minutes — are the Universal City movie studios, major league baseball games in Los Angeles, horse racing at Los Alamitos, Santa Anita or Hollywood Park and major league football and basketball games.

Outside the city of Los Angeles, only a short drive away, are the Hollywood Bowl, Malibu Beach, the Griffith Planetarium and Observatory and television studios.

●

Back in Long Beach are still more vacation attractions at the Nu-Pike Amusement Park, the historic Rancho Los Ceritos, site of one of the ancient Spanish land grants, Long Beach Auditorium with stage shows and concerts, and tours of the navy base.

And back to sea again — to the Island of Catalina just 26 miles offshore. Whether you travel by air or by sea the underwater gardens and colonies of seals and flying fish are only a short time away.

On the way to the island you pass over one of the best sports fishing grounds to be found.

●

Improbable as it sounds, this centre of land and sea attractions so carefully tailored for the tourist sits on the largest oil field on the continent.

It is the oil which provides most of the city's money for developments that appeal to visitors. And next week's article will tell what they are doing with it for you as a tourist.

PERT, blue-eyed blonde Marsha Bennett adds her own 36-22-36 adornment to the rigging of a yacht in Long Beach's marina area, taking advantage of early May sun. The 18-year-old, 5 feet, six inches tall and 118 pounds, was chosen Miss California International Sea Festival to reign over aquatic competitions Aug. 3 to 11. Last year's Miss Laguna Beach and contestant in Miss California contest, Miss Bennett lives in nearby Los Alamitos and plans to be professional golfer.

Low Rates Offered

VANCOUVER (CP) — Canadian Pacific Airlines has announced it will re-enter the trans-Atlantic charter market next year with the lowest rates it has ever offered and will operate split charters with two groups on a single flight.

●

Eligible members of a bona fide group flying in a specially equipped 242-seat one-class CPA DC-8 jetliner will be able to travel the London-Montreal route for $137, round trip.

The return unit to the chartering group from London to Toronto will be $150; to Winnipeg, $165; Calgary or Edmonton, $178, and to Vancouver $198. The estimates cover the travel season from May 1 to Oct. 31, 1969.

CPA president, J. C. Gilmer said the low rates are made possible by a planned program of charter flights in which the airline expects to get high utilization of its elongated DC-8 Spacemaster operating exclusively on charters.

India Spurs Tourism

NEW DELHI (UPI) — The India Tourism Development Corp. is planning construction of government-operated hotels at Bangalore, Juhu Beach at Bombay, Dum Dum Airport at Calcutta, Srinagar in Kashmir, Kovalem Beach in Kerala, Panjim in Goa and in Banares.

The proposed hotels at Srinagar, Kovalem and Panjim would form part of the tourist complexes being developed in those cities.

New Guidebooks

NEW YORK (UPI) — A strip map to follow across each page is one of the outstanding features of a new series of travel guidebooks offered motorists by American Express. The five books covering 18 states from Maine to Florida and the District of Columbia also list accommodations, restaurants, attractions and other detailed information. Included also are "courtesy coupons" worth up to $40 in discounts on admissions and rides and other activities. The 496-page guides sell for $2.95 each.

17 State Parks

Louisiana has 17 state parks for those who enjoy boating, water skiing, camping, picnicking and hiking. The Louisiana Tourist Commission says that these and other recreational areas in the state afford the sportsman excellent opportunities to indulge in his favorite outdoor pastime.

Simplify Your Fireplace

By PAULINE GRAVES

Although it is fun to jazz up your home or your person with fads of the moment, simplicity of line and of style outlive gadgetry and gimmicks.

Take this fireplace wall, for example, in the home of architect Young Woo. Use of varied materials achieves interest, but there is little to distract the eye from the nice proportions and the good colors.

The rough grain of the natural finished redwood panels sets off and dramatizes the smooth white plaster panel above the fireplace opening. And other types of textured wood could be used as well, such as re-sawn cedar. Available in panels, the wood can be applied directly over an existing wall.

Here, an inch space is left between the two-foot panels and across the top and bottom, giving the wood a meticulous, finished appearance.

Above the fireplace opening, the white panel remains free of architectural ornamentation, to be available for decoratives that can be changed. At the moment, a wire sculpture by Max Neufelt hangs there.

Because this is a hillside house, entrance is on the lower level, into a foyer, and a handsome staircase leads to the living areas on the upper level. The small living room seems larger than its actual size, because of its openness at one end, looking across the stairwell into the children's wing and play room.

TIPS FOR HOME GARDENERS

'Cypress Root Rot' Impossible to Halt

By JACK BEASTALL

Root rot of Lawson's Cypress is a comparatively new disease in this area and one which is causing increased condern to many home gardeners. It is a soil fungus that has been introduced in the soil of stock imported from infected areas.

Jack

Although named cypress root rot, the two species involved (cypress fungus and cinnamon fungus) attack a wide range of popular garden plants.

These root rots could be responsible for much of the rather sudden deterioration and loss of garden shrubs which home gardeners have reported in the past few years.

Lacking better information we have attributed these losses to heavy rainfall of the last two winters, believing that water collected in the root area had remained for a period of sufficient duration to cause root damage.

●

While this reasoning may be correct in some instances, the time has arrived when we must give serious thought to the possibility of other causes.

The two fungi are species of Phytophthora (fi-toff'-thor-er), not an easy word to pronounce but one which home gardeners will come across more frequently in future gardening literature.

Before we start to panic, it should be made perfectly clear that nursery stock of susceptible varieties is not all infected area, and those that Many nurseries have never imported any stock from infected areas, and that that propagate their own stock are disease-free.

Our problem is that a few infected plants did get into gardens sometime in the past 10 to 15 years and the disease has spread from garden to garden in the movement of soil water.

While both these species have been isolated at the Forestry Biology Laboratory in Victoria, most of the bulletins and pamphlets obtainable here are based on extensive work done during the early 1950s at the Department of Botany and Plant Pathology of Oregon State College.

Host plants are Chamaecyparis lawsoniana in the varieties Elwoodi, Fletcheri and Alumi; white birch; heathers (eight species of Erica and two varieties of Calluna vulgaris); chestnut; walnut; Rhododendron ponticum and Azalea mollis; Irish and Japanese yew.

●

Latest reports indicate that all varieties of Lawson's Cypress are susceptible to the cypress fungus, while other genera are mainly affected by the cinnamon fungus.

Once established in the soil, the fungus is extremely difficult, if not impossible, to eradicate. It will survive for long periods even when host plants are not grown, and has been discovered at depths of 30 inches, far deeper than chemicals or soil fumigants can penetrate.

Both fungi thrive under moist soil conditions and both can be spread through a garden, and through neighboring gardens, by the movement of soil water.

For these reasons the disease can become out of hand in the areas of heavy winter rainfall.

On the several varieties of Lawson's Cypress the fungus infects the secondary roots and progresses into the lower main stem, or crown, of the plant, killing the root tissues as it advances.

●

While this is progressing, the very observant gardener will notice a gradual decrease in the lustre of the foliage, most obvious when the plant is located near a healthy plant for comparison.

As the disease reaches the crown, or lower portion of the main stem, foliar symptoms become more pronounced, but it is unfortunate that these symptoms are almost identical with those which indicate root damage in transplanting, lack of sufficient water during summer, winter wind damage, and waterlogged soil over winter.

Thus it is almost impossible for the layman gardener to define the actual cause of slowly dying plants.

The trained nurseryman determines whether the disease is present by removing a small piece of bark and cambium layer at soil level and studying the color of the tissue. However, this method is not infallible.

Since the disease cannot be easily eradicated, the gardener with an infected soil must turn to other conifers for his landscape effects.

Fortunately we still have immune plants in the Arborvitaes (Thuja); the Alaska, Hinoke and Sarawa cypresses (Chamaecyparis nootkatensis, Ch.obtusa, Ch.pisifera); White-cedar (Ch.Thyoides); Junipers (Juniperus chinensis var. pfitzeriana, J.excelsa, J.sabina, J.squamata); Pinus mugo var. mughus; Rhododendron obtusum (containing many of the most desirable azaleas); Daphne cneorum and D.odora.

●

The plants in this list are superior to the more common varieties of Lawson's Cypress but not so well known to the average home gardener.

For years our garden designers have been lamenting the gross overplanting with Lawson varieties, and the planting of these trees in the most unsuitable locations.

Although initially cheap, they have proved expensive to remove after 10 years of growth in the wrong place.

When the disease is found in the garden, the affected plant should be destroyed immediately because it has no chance whatever of survival.

Nearby plants of susceptible genera of species should be closely watched, also those situated down-slope although some distance away.

Care should be exercised not to move infected soil from the area to infected areas, and not to allow soil from infected plants to drop when plants are carried to the burning pile.

Possibly the best prevention known at present is to plant these trees and shrubs only in very well drained soil.

WEEK'S WORK

Plant out rooted cuttings of hardy chrysanthemums into humus-rich soil and nearly full sunshine.

If space is wanted for bedding plants, polyanthuses and other early spring primulas may be lifted and replanted in semi-shady place for summer; wallflowers discarded, and soil well prepared with compost.

Zinnias, salvias, bedding dahlias, geraniums and ageratum are the most tender of bedding plants, but may go out now with reasonable hope of no further low temperatures.

Seed of some perennials can be sown now, either in a small prepared bed, in flats, or in a coldframe. Some shading from sun will be needed. Delphinium, lupin, columbine, gaillardia are all useful raised in this way.

Fruit-set hormone spray is sometimes used to ensure fruiting of holly, beans, grapes, tomatoes and apples. Worth a trial.

Sow beet, white turnip, squash, beans, corn and radish now soil is warm. Compost in bottom of row depression and a light covering of same will help to hold moisture around seed for germination.

Should be safe for planting out tomatoes, peppers, eggplant, squash, marrow, okra in most areas. Cover with cardboard carton or cone of double sheet newspaper at night if cool.

Trim mat-forming spring blooming rock plants such as phlox, aubretia, iberis, arabis, alyssum.

Disbud carnations and roses needed for shows this month, and water plentifully.

Remove faded flower trusses from rhodos, lilacs and azaleas, taking care not to damage growth buds already visible at base of old truss.

Avoid watering strawberries overhead while flowering, or pollen is spoiled.

Pinch out young tip growth of broad beans to prevent black aphis infestation.

Thin vegetable row sowings gradually.

QUIZZING THE GARDENER

By JACK BEASTALL

Q. When are chrysanthemums planted?—F.O.X., Brentwood Bay.

A. For outdoor blooming from late August through October, plant out rooted cuttings any time now. They need soil rich in compost, a sunny position, plenty of water all summer, and a strong stake to each cutting as it is planted.

BENNETT TO CANDIDATES:

'Get Federal Government Busy on Port Hardy Road'

Premier Bennett Friday challenged all northern Vancouver Island federal election candidates who want the Trans-Canada Highway extended to Port Hardy to get national party leaders signed "on the dotted line."

Mr. Bennett said he was throwing his weight behind the drive to link Kelsey Bay with Port Hardy by a direct highway.

The Victoria-Port Hardy road properly belongs in the Trans-Canada system, he said.

The British Columbia government is pressuring Ottawa and will continue the pressure to get federal money—50-50 sharing on Trans-Canada Highway costs—into the road extension.

He made clear the road link would not be built without the federal money.

A highways department spokesman said one survey showed that a 55-mile stretch of proposed road between Kelsey Bay and Port McNeill would cost an estimated $20,000,000 to build.

PRECEDENT

The premier said the Trans-Canada "runs right along" through Newfoundland in a way that shows the road should also be extended to north Vancouver Island.

He announced his support for the road extension by saying he had "noted with great interest" the number of northern candidates from all parties who were calling for the Trans-Canada to run up-Island.

The premier denied there had been a stoppage of work on the improvement of the Alberni-Tofino highway.

Tenders have been called for paving of about 32 miles of the road from a point four miles east of Tofino where the pavement ends.

Another six miles of pavement will be built in Tofino and Ucluelet.

Tenders are to be opened June 14 and work should begin a week later. The need to keep the road open for heavy tourist traffic will probably cause the job to last through the summer and it may not be finished before the bad weather hits, an official said.

Student Musicians Auditioned

PTA President

Mrs. R. A. Phillips has been elected president of the Willows Parent-Teacher Association.

Other officers are Mrs. J. Kirkham and K. Hurn, vice-presidents; D. A. Smith, treasurer; Mrs. W. F. McWilliams and Mrs. P. S. Henderson, recording and corresponding secretaries.

Officers were installed at the recent meeting by former president Walter Parker and Mrs. Laurin Restall of the Parent-Teacher Council.

Convicted Men Out on Bail

Two men who were to be sentenced Thursday for assault were released on $500 bail each because the pre-sentence report was not ready.

Rickie Barnswell, 1512 Fairfield, and Alfred Reid, 646 Admirals, have been in jail since May 23 when they were convicted.

At that time, court was told the two, accompanied by three others, went to the room of Gerald Meyer, 1321 Minto, and assaulted him.

The pair are now to be sentenced June 5.

Sentence Suspended On Shoplifting Charge

An 18-year-old girl was given a suspended sentence Friday for shoplifting, despite an earlier decision to await a pre-sentence report.

Frances Dennison was to have been sentenced June 6. Earlier, court was told she took $5.32 worth of goods from Woodward's May 29.

Magistrate Ostler accepted defence lawyer Dermod Owen-Flood's motion for immediate adjudication on the condition she fly to her home in London, Ont., today.

New Charges Laid In Marijuana Case

Magistrate Ostler Friday quashed an LSD charge against two men, but two new charges were read immedaitely.

Harold Wood, 25, of Seattle, and Ivors Zarins, 29, of California, were charged with possession of LSD "for sale."

The Magistrate quashed the charge after defence counsel Dermond Owen-Flood argued the offence was "unknown to the law."

A new charge saying they "sold" LSD was then read. The two were also charged with possession of marijuana.

The accused pleaded not guilty to both charges and trial was set for Tuesday.

Deep Diving Mini-Subs Will Search for Missing Scorpion

NORFOLK, Va. (CP-AP) — The U.S. Navy has flown two deep-sea submersibles, one of them accompanied by a Canadian export, to the Azores to explore the shallow waters near the last reported position of the missing nuclear submarine Scorpion.

The tiny submarines, Deep Diver and Link Perry, and an advanced diving system known as Ads Mark 4, were sent Friday to survey the ocean bottom south of the Azores where the Scorpion last radioed her position May 21.

All three can explore the ocean floor to a depth of more than 1,000 feet. The Scorpion and her crew of 99 were due to arrive at her home port in Norfolk Monday at 1 p.m. The sub was officially listed as missing Wednesday.

Dr. Joseph B. MacInnis of Port Credit, Ont., a specialist in medical problems of deep-sea diving, will be aboard the deep Diver as an observer when the 8¼-ton submersible probes the area for the missing sub.

Dr. MacInnes, medical director for Ocean Systems Inc., will be part of the submersible's four-man crew which aso includes a pilot and two divers who can be let out on the ocean floor through a hatch.

The Deep Diver is capable of reaching a depth of 1,350 feet. It can manoeuvre better than diving chambers lowered by cable.

Dr. MacInnes, a graduate of the University of Toronto medical school, has worked nearly five years on the physiology of deep-sea diving.

Meanwhile, destroyers and submarines are sweeping eastward along the 2,400-mile projected course of Scorpion from Norfolk to the Azores. The navy said the search fleet is expected to reach the Azores June 7.

While the fleet searches a 15-mile-wide track, three patterns of search planes are conducting visual observation flights along a 100-mile-wide track on the same course.

The focal point of the search now is around the Cruiser Banks, with depths as shallow as 100 feet, and the Irving Banks, 360 miles south of the Azores. The Scorpion's projected course would have taken it within 30 miles of these "sea mounds," or underwater ridges.

The nuclear submarine Gato was scheduled to arrive today in the area of the sea mounds to rendezvous with the submersibles.

He said the cut in ships was a "realistic reorientation."

Navy divers determined Friday that an underwater hulk located by sonar in 180 feet of water 70 miles off Cape Henry, Va., was a Second World War submarine, possible German. The hulk had a gun mount in front of its conning tower—something the Scorpion lacked.

CHATTERTON

'Share Salmon Catch'

An equitable division of the catch between commercial and sports fishing industries in B.C. was called for Friday by Esquimalt-Saanich Conservative candidate George Chatterton.

Speaking at the opening of his Sidney headquarters, Mr. Chatterton said the sportsfishing industry "is growing tremendously" around Sidney and the Gulf Islands but is restricted by the limited catch of sports fish species.

The value of the sportsfishing industry may soon exceed that of the commercial industry, he said.

Mr. Chatterton said that tourist boating, another growing industry on the west coast, is hampered by limited mooring facilities.

The number of U.S. boats visiting Bedwell Harbour on South Pender Island increased from 1,000 in 1960 to over 5,000 last year, he said.

He said the federal government should play a role, "perhaps in conjunction with the province," in developing docking facilities.

Mr. Chatterton proposed a breakwater for Sidney.

A $945,000 breakwater could provide 18 acres of water for mooring at low tide, which will accommodate 350 boats, he said.

As member of Parliament, he said he would try to obtain federal assistance for the breakwater project.

RICK MAKES COMEBACK

DUNCAN — A year ago Rick Harrison, 14, lost part of one foot in a boating accident. An outboard motor propeller sliced off four toes.

Friday however, Rick managed to take second place in the high jump and third in the shot put at the inter-school track meet here.

Rick was competing for George Bonner Junior Secondary against Mount Prevost and Quamichan students.

Rick's efforts could not put his school team in first place which went to Prevost with 366 points. Bonner trailed with 299 and Quamichan had 284.

Ganges School Hits the Books

By JAN GOULD

GANGES — Too often a school library is a disaster.

A current B.C. Teachers' Federation commission on education is finding that many school libraries are understocked, poorly staffed and unable to function as resource centres.

The library of the Gulf Islands Secondary School in Ganges should interest the commission. It is fast becoming a focal point of the school.

It has been operative for two years with, a previous summer spent in organization by librarian, Beth Hill.

Students expect their librarian to produce as much resource material as possible. They often work independently with it. They can flip through the card index and use the Reader's Guide to Periodicals, something a library commission found many university freshmen unable to do.

USE TRIPLED

Principal Don Hartwig keeps statistics to prove that book borrowing has trippled in the 1967-68 period. He credits Mrs. Hill for providing stimulus and incentive.

Currently the board allocates $6,000 a year to be shared among the libraries of the secondary school with its 340 students and the elementary school with 240 students. Both libraries are served by Mrs. Hill.

Some reference books are still to be purchased. Many books have been donated by local individuals and service organizations. The local public library has sent along some periodicals.

Mrs. Hill is enthusiastic about her work and projects empathy for students. She has her degree in library science and an arts degree, has worked in public libraries and with the public library commission in Peace River district.

In private life she's the wife of an industrial arts teacher, Ray Hill, and mother of two teens. She enjoys sailing, theatre and archeology. She writes poetry and fiction. One of her short stories appeared in the Anthology, Stories with John Drainie.

She sees the role of school librarian as a hyphen role, the link between teacher and student.

She cites several student projects, including an individual study on sleep and another on the intelligence of porpoises where students required university textbooks.

"It was fascinating to see a student research and research, then come to the point where experts admit they still have more to learn. It's exactly what today's learning is all about — continual learning."

As well as standard book and periodical material, students have access to pictures, documents, film strips, transparencies and a microfilm reader.

Currently some students are editing microfilm of early Victoira papers and indexing historical Gulf Island material as a social studies porject.

Social studies teacher R. McWhirter sees the library as a vital part of students work.

TRIGGERS STUDY

"I work closely with the librarian," he sayd. "After I've discussed a subject with students, I set projects and supply some leading questions to start them off on individual research.

"I find myself going from classroom to typing room to library, checking with my students and ironing out problems here and there. It results in a diversity of projects and more in-depth work on subjects. And there's a good relationship between myself and the students."

A current class project, "Earthquakes," has students choosing aspects such as volcanic action, or tidal waves. He's already held some class discussion, will hold more and will have each student give a five-minute talk on what he has learned.

ASKED HELP

Biology teacher Bob Pharis and students worked closely with Mrs. Hill to research a project on economic losses caused by plant fungus. University texts, department of agriculture and farm reports yielded only minimal information so Mrs. Hill wrote to the food and agriculture organization of the United Nations and promptly received scientific reports.

Students say they like their library and the feeling of independence that comes from using equipment there.

Learning is not as dull as it used to be. They're often there after school hours, studying or gathered around the microfilm reader. Others study display boards to read about literary contests, track meets or the Maharishi's thoughts on serenity or the baffling world of LSD.

Future plans for this school library include acquisition of more reference books, more microfilm, a language tape "lab" and an invitation to communtiy members to participate in a project to collect and use local historical records.

Ladysmith Vote Today

LADYSMITH — Polls will close at 8 p.m. in Ladysmith district tonight and shortly after the school board will know the fate of its $1,046,900 referendum.

In last minute exhortations to the public to support the referendum, board members warned about danger to students in the use of old and limited equipment in crowded science labs.

Recently schools superintendent D. H. McKirdy said: "I-live in constant fear of an accident in these laboratories and there is nothing either the teachers or myself can do until more space and better equipment is provided."

Board chairman Beatty Davis said if the referendum fails necessary capital expenditures will be financed by annual levies which will be non-shareable as far as the provincial government is concerned.

13 Want Top Job

VANCOUVER (CP) — Mayor Tom Campbell said Friday the Vancouver police commission will interview 13 applicants for the job of chief constable. All are from the 687-man Vancouver police force. Chief Ralph Booth retires Dec. 1.

POUNCED INTO MAPLE TREES

Pilot Unhurt in Crash

DUNCAN — Logger Bud Eckert was lucky to walk away with just superficial bruises after crashing a tripacer four-seater plane into trees at the edge of Duncan airport Friday evening.

He said this morning the 150-horsepower motor quit on him just as he was making his landing approach.

Mr. Eckert said: "It quit once, started again and then quit altogether.

"I was 500 feet off the end of the runway and hit right into a bunch of maple trees.

"I hit about 30 feet up in the trees and then the plane slid down and rolled over on its back on the ground."

Mr. Eckert said he was doing about 80 miles an hour as he made his landing approach.

He was held in by seat belts as the tripacer hit the trees "more or less in a flat position."

Mr. Eckert got himself out by loosening the belts and crawling through a window.

The $7,000 plane was extensively damaged. It is owned by Fred Call of Duncan and Mr. Eckert was bringing it back from Victoria for him.

Mr. Eckert has been flying for 10 years and had put in more than 70 hours flying this particular aircraft, without accident.

Cavaye Re-Elected

GANGES — Douglas Cavaye of Salt Spring Island has been re-elected to a third term as chairman of Lady Minto Gulf Islands hospital board.

Miss Joan Purchase of Pender Island was named vice-chairman and Harold Hoffman of Salt Spring secretary and treasurer.

A building committee will be named shortly by the chairman.

GRADS MAY PAY FOR VANDALISM

COURTENAY — High school graduates here may all be assessed for damages to their school and city hall following graduation celebrations.

Trustee Norm Seiffert suggested this course unless the culprits are caught.

Red paint was used to scrawl "Grad 68" on a city hall wall. School board chairman T. G. Ryan said the wall will probably have to be repainted.

So far two of the over-zealous graduates have been nabbed.

"We are hot on the trail of the others," said principal Henry Schellinck.

At the same time, at least 20 students have volunteered to help clean up, trustees have been told.

School district superintendent Ron Lucas said the damage spree was not representative of the student body.

To head off future incidents the board will meet with next year's graduate committee when it is formed.

9 IN MEMORIAM

SOMMERFIELD — In memory of a beloved son and brother, Allen, who passed away June 1st, 1937.

One sad and lonely year has passed,
Since our great sorrow fell.
The shock that we received that day
No one can ever tell.
God gave us strength to meet it,
And courage to meet the blow;
But what it meant to lose you
No one will ever know.
You bade none a last farewell,
Not even said goodbye,
You were gone before we realized it.

—Sadly missed but always remembered by Mom, and Sisters Lue and Ruth and families.

WILLIAMS — In loving memory of a wonderful son, Lee Gerald Williams, aged 19 years, who passed away June 4th, 1966.

"Tied with a golden thread of love,
Sprayed with a million tears,
A bouquet of cherished memories,
We keep through all the years
Our flower faded too soon."

—Sadly longed for and missed, Mom and Dad.

BRIDGE LESSON

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

We could discuss the bidding of today's hand for hours and still have more to say. South overbid a trifle when he pushed to the slam but we can't blame him much. Perhaps North should have bid three no-trump instead of three hearts. In that case South could have bid four no-trump as a no-trump raise instead of a Blackwood request for slam. The hand would have played at four no-trump and there would have been no column.

South looked over the dummy and saw that he needed the club finesse if he wanted to make six no-trump. Therefore he won the spade lead with dummy's ace and took that finesse. It worked and South was ready for the next step. He cashed a high club to see if the queen would drop. It didn't, so he went after hearts. There would always be time to get back to the clubs.

All this had taken enough time for East to visualize South's whole problem. East was sure that South held the king of spades. Obviously South was counting on three spades and two diamonds and would need seven tricks in hearts and clubs.

Assuming that South had 2-2-3-6 distribution it would be a give-up play for East to take his ace of hearts right away, so East ducked.

Oc course, East had done all this thinking early. Had he gone into a deep trance before ducking South would have known where the ace was. South returned to his hand with the king of spades and led a second heart. East ducked for the second time and South had to think again.

A third heart lead would drop the ace but South could not see his opponents' hands. He decided that hearts would not break but clubs would, so he came to his hand with the king of diamonds, led out his last high club, and lost his slam.

OAK BAY

With a view of the Marina and ships and boats bobbing in and out of the docks, and the pillar at the broad red porch a picture with flowering clematis tumbling down. Salt smells in the garden which sings with birds at eventide, and blue shadows reflect and refract on many faceted leaded windows. And inside the last light strikes the walls of the living room where, in a staunch pillared colonial hearth, an oak log glows. The separate dining room issues a tinkling of silver and plates being set for company and roasting beast smells drift from the kitchen. All the rooms are of generous proportions. 2 large Bedrooms, 1 en-suite, entrance Foyer, Dinette in Kitchen — Full Basement — An ideal small family or retirement home in the finest district in Victoria.

4-BEDROOM HOME
4.14 ACRES

You won't like this at all. On top of this home which needs about $4,000 spent on it (probably more) You have to put up with a real eyesore — 4,000 sq. ft. of greenhouse that could possibly rent for $50 per month. They tell me a lot might be subdivided from the property (doubtful) and that it could bring $6,500-$7,000. (Definitely too much for a piece of raw wilderness even though it's on city water). Then the slough. Sort of picturesque, with the stagnant waters reflecting tall pines and firs all the way (5 feet) to its peat bogged bottom.

YOU WILL LOVE ME!

I am a pretty nice guy and only 5 years old. Folks stop and admire my expensive shrubs and trees in my front yard. If they saw my fish pond and greenhouse and nice backyard they wouldn't want to leave. My owners sit in the enclosed porch patio and bird watch in the cool of the day. How relaxing — Oh yes! — I am cleaner than the day I was born. My large living room has an excellent dining room off. Loads of mahogany cupboards in my kitchen keeps my misses happy. 3 good size bedrooms are slumber specials. 4-pce. bath is convenient for everyone. My half basement has laundry room, rumpus room or fourth bedroom space and a drive-in garage. I am not too far from town and have top-notch neighbours. Come out and see me soon! Call my agent

. . . STANFIELD

The nation, the Tory leader said, is above all a place for people—a truly fulfilled Canadian people.

- "A place not of oppressive regulation, but of opportunity.
- "A place not of increasing conformity, but of individuality.
- "A place not of the common denominator, but of the human being.
- "A place not of division among Canadians, but of affection for all Canadians.
- "A place not like any other on this earth," he exclaimed. "A place that is our very own."

The opposition leader declared at the meeting at the Sault that he has great respect and affection for Great Britain and for France, but predicted Canada will surpass both nations — economically and in all other ways — within 20 years.

He said he has affection for the United States, but Canada will also surpass America "in many ways that count."

The quality of life in Canada, in fact, is already superior to that in the U.S., Stanfield said.

Canadians find it easier than Americans to express dissent; there is no tradition of violence in Canada; "We are not soft people, but there is a characteristic of gentleness."

The Tory leader, expressing these views with his voice filled with emotion, received a standing ovation from the audience.

At the Fort William rally, the leader dwelt at great length with the problems of housing and blamed the Liberal government for a "dire shortage of adequate and low-income dwellings.

"Where are the Liberal housing policies," he asked. "Where are their policies for controlling inflation? These are serious questions and they deserve an answer."

Separate Ministry Necessary

A Tory government would not be in favor of the proliferation of federal departments, but a separate ministry of housing is absolutely necessary.

Other Conservative housing policies would include:

Establishment of federal-provincial planning task forces to determine the areas of greatest housing need;

A program to allow persons with low incomes to buy older already existent homes at government-subsidized rates;

An increase to eight per cent from the current five and one-half per cent in the amount of profit a firm may obtain on its investment in limited dividend housing;

(This is apartment and row-housing construction in which the government loans a firm up to 90 per cent of the cost of the building, and regulates the profit permitted.)

Extension of Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation mortgages to persons buying apartments in co-operative or condominium buildings;

And establishment of regional land banks through which the government would buy up undeveloped land, then sell it to developers on the understanding that a reasonable price would be charged people building a home.

This last proposal would put an end to inflated land prices due to real estate speculators.

To Eliminate 11 Per Cent Sales Tax

"Finally," Stanfield said, "to stimulate construction, a new government will eliminate the 11 per cent sales tax on building materials.

"If necessary, we will make up the revenue from some other source of taxation which is less damaging to the economy and more fair."

The latter statement puzzled newsmen travelling with the leader because just 24 hours earlier — in Wingham, Ont. — Stanfield said a government led by him would not raise taxes in any way.

The surprisingly successful day for the Tory leader was not entirely without problems, however.

Even a four-leaf clover Stanfield sported on his lapel most of the day failed to protect him from pulling a blooper in the Sault.

While making his speech, Stanfield referred a couple of times to the local Conservative candidate as "Doug" when the poor chap's name was really "Russ."

The leader has only one rally scheduled for today (Saturday) — an evening meeting in Sudbury.

He will spend the weekend in Toronto, then stump the Maritime provinces the first three days of next week. After a quick visit to Quebec next Thursday, Stanfield will spend the rest of the week preparing for "the great debate" with Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau and NDP Leader Tommy Douglas the following Sunday on network television.

POISON CONTROL WARNING

If Anything Looks Good Some Kid Will Eat It

By PAUL MUSGROVE

Kids will eat anything — match heads, floor wax, deodorant sticks or even rat poison.

They'll gulp down syrups, nail polish remover, aftershave lotion.

But thanks to Royal Jubilee Poison Control Centre, they do these things and usually survive. Last year 403 people were treated there for real or suspected poisoning. So far this year there have been 172 cases — and not all of them children.

Most are children however — and strangely, one of the things that brings them most often is a children's medicine — baby aspirin.

It's only a fifth as strong as aspirin for adults but because of its candy coating it's a popular item with the young swallowers. Some have taken down as many as 50 at one sitting.

An overdose of aspirin can produce vomiting, ringing ears, abdominal pain, sweating, dizzyness and convulsions.

RAW RHUBARB

Among the more exotic poisons local children can consume are Rhubarb leaves. They contain a corrosive agent known as Oxalic acid which reduces body calcium, producing violent muscular stimulation, convulsions and collapse.

Various pest baits are often consumed by inquisitive youngsters. One child ate a quantity of slug bait.

Mushrooms and toadstools figure in a substantial number of complaints.

People ignorant of the toxic types should refrain from picking mushrooms at all.

The most poisonous mushroom — called Amanita Virosa — closely resembles the edible variety sold in food stores.

Amanita Virosa takes eight to 12 or more hours to reveal itself in symptoms such as abdominal pain, vomiting, thirst, and sweating.

By the time symptoms are apparent there is little hope. The usual procedures to induce vomiting or pump the stomach are useless.

Although relatively rare, Amanita Virosa may be found locally.

A source of continual complaint is the family medicine cabinet — often containing old, ineffective drugs or potential overdoses of potent ones.

Some drugs gain in strength with age. A good example of this is iodine. As it evaporates the remaining solution becomes more and more concentrated.

A drug like Hydrogen Peroxide, on the other hand, tends to lose strength with age.

Apparently harmless items such as iron tablets can in fact be dangerous. An overdose of the tablets — containing ferrous sulphate — may cause complex and damaging blood chemistry changes.

Some people are fond of giving old drugs to friends suffering symptoms similar to their own.

The word from the Poison Control Centre is "don't." Get rid of old drugs — flush them away — and keep medicines and household cleaners away from children.

People have been known to be violently allergic to certain drugs such as penicillin.

WINTERGREEN

Oil of Wintergreen, though chemically close to aspirin, has produced a number of deaths across Canada in the past.

The chief pharmacist at the poison control centre, J. E. Smith, said "Basically any substance could be a poison if taken in sufficient quantities."

Fortunately most possibly harmful substances induce vomiting long before enough is consumed to cause poisoning, antibiotics for instance.

The dug Ipecac is used extensively in the centre to induce vomiting. Often it is far more toxic than the poison it is being administered for, but as little as five cubic centimetres of it produces the desired effect.

Various cleaning solutions containing lye produce instant burns and are almost impossible to swallow.

Statistics indicate one out of every 800 Canadians may suffer poisoning this year. Children are the victims in three quarters of the poisonings recorded every year across Canada.

If a poisoning does occur, speed is essential. The poison control centre may be reached for advice or help at 386-3131. It is located in the Royal Jubilee emergency ward.

Shooting Of Newsmen Protested

SAIGON (Reuters) — The South Vietnamese government has submitted two protests to the International Control Commission concerning the deaths of four foreign correspondents and a West German diplomat in Saigon May 5.

The commission was set up in 1954 to supervise implementation of the Geneva agreements on Vietnam. The Vietnam liaison committee to the ICC submitted the protests two days ago deploring the deaths.

The four correspondents, shot when they drove up to a roadblock as Viet Cong were trying to infiltrate Saigon, were Bruce Pigott and Ronald Laramy of Reuters, Michael Birch of Australian Associated Press and John Cantwell of Time-Life. The diplomat, Baron Rudt von Collenberg, was shot in a separate incident.

An ICC official today confirmed the notes had been received.

Fires Controlled

EDMONTON (CP)—A spokesman for the Alberta department of lands and forests said Friday 62 of 69 forest fires burning in the province were under control. Five were under partial control and two out of control at Lesser Slave Lake, 190 miles northwest of here, and Calling Lake, 100 miles northwest of Edmonton.

Charge Laid Again After Withdrawal

A man was convicted of careless driving Friday after a previous similar charge had been withdrawn when police identified the wrong man.

Kenneth Hawkins, 848 San Juan, was fined $35 and had his licence suspended.

At a previous hearing March 28, James Tschritter, 4028 Cumberland, stepped forward when Hawkins was called for trial and was identified as the accused. Charges were then withdrawn but later re-laid.

A youth in the gallery who protested when the sentence was given was ejected from the courtroom.

During the trial court was told Hawkins "laid rubber" while driving on the Town and Country parking lot Jan. 22.

Engineer Wins $92,500 Suit

VANCOUVER (CP) — Damages of $92,500 were awarded structural engineer Boris Netupsky against architect Gerald Hamilton Friday in a British Columbia Supreme Court suit.

Mr. Netupsky sued the architect for breach of contract and loss of opportunity to enhance Mr. Netupsky's reputation in a dispute involving design of the new $8,000,000 Ottawa Civic Centre.

He alleged Mr. Hamilton breached his contract with him by allowing Dominion Bridge to assume the role of structural design engineer and redesign the Ottawa centre's superstructure using Mr. Netupsky's original design concepts.

IWA-FIR TALKS START AGAIN

MOORE

Negotiations in the coastal wood products industry will resume Monday in Vancouver.

Agreement to restart talks came late Friday as the International Woodworkers of American announced a 92 per cent vote in favor of strike action "unless a satisfactory settlement is reached."

The vote compares with 94.17 per cent in favor of strike action in the same dispute two years ago. About 23,000 union members cast ballots.

Eight IWA locals — four on Vancouver Island and four on the mainland coast — are involved in the current dispute at 113 timber companies. Other companies in the same industry bargain independently.

After the votes were counted, IWA president Jack Moore of Vancouver requested a meeting with Forest Industrial Relations, the companies bargaining agent.

'NOT SURPRISED'

This was agreed to and at the request of both sides, labor department conciliation officer Jack Sherlock of Victoria will attend.

The only comment from FIR president John Billings of Vancouver after the strike votes were counted was: "You don't expect me to be surprised?"

The dispute affects many phases of the forest industry including logging, sawmills, plywood mills and shingle mills. Pulp and paper mills have different negotiations with other unions.

The current contract expires at midnight June 14, meaning a legal strike can start — under present legislation — the following day providing 48 hours strike notice is posted.

The truck, containing 500 sacks of dimes, was on the way from the U.S. silver depository in West Point to Oklahoma City. Authorities continue's their search for the dimes.

Dollar-a-Day Fees to Jump?

The provincial government plans to change hospital financing, a move which could mean an increase in the $1 a day patients now pay.

Health Minister Loffmark told the annual meeting of the Canadian Hospital Association in Vancouver Thursday there will be an announcement soon on extending powers and responsibilities of local and regional hospital boards, particularly in respect to day-to-day care.

"The government does appreciate the need to confer upon a hospital board powers and responsibilities commensurate with its ability to function at a high degree of efficiency."

Hospital construction programs will be carefully assessed to avoid duplication of sophisticated facilities, he said.

And changes in the pattern of service must be expected to make more efficient use of doctors' and staffs' skills.

"To get maximum use from existing facilities, the provincial government will look at the use of hospital "hotels," centes which provide sleeping quarters and meals for patients who can walk to and from the hospital.

"There will also be discussions with the federal government on means to developing financing formulas.

. . . TRUDEAU

break and in this cycle of despair — poverty breeds poverty.

"Unity is on everyone's mind," he said. But too often it was seen only as a problem which had only a single dimension — the relations between French and English-speaking people and the solution proposed was overly simple: Revise the constitution.

Action was being taken already on this question. The constitution needs a full scale re-examination, but action only touched on one aspect of a multi-dimensional problem.

"No less a real threat to our country' unity is the presence of economic inequalities between the people who live in the various regions of this country. The need to strike at the roots of regional economic disparity is one of the top priorities of any government. Unity can be secured only when people from coast to coast are able to feel that they are assured of that equality of opportunity which will make them full participants in a just society," said the prime minister.

Must Co-Ordinate Programs

He said experience has taught the government that succesful regional development must be based on coordianted programs which are integrated into an overall development plan.

The plan itself must include methods of promoting industrial development — expanding what exists and attracting new firms. Public services, education, health, housing and transportation, must be improved, developed and consolidated. These were guidelines the government has followed in plans it has already implemented.

Mr. Trudeau said it was worth reflecting on the lessons learned form the government's experience because the government hoped to improve on them in the future.

First there has not been enough contact with the locality for which plans were developed. Without that local contact, without full local participation, the necessary sense of urgency and realism is lost, he warned.

The difference between a progressing regional project and one that is stalled is the degree of local participation, local initiative and local enthusiasm. There can be no successful development and change unless those who are affected by it have a say in its planning and an active role in its implementation, Mr. Trudeau said.

Out of this re-organization he expected to see a three-fold thrust.

- An action group to implement the improvement projects speedily and effectively.
- A planning team to set both short-range and long range targets of perhaps five and 25 years.
- A policy group whose responsibility will be to fully understand the process of regional development and to decide in which direction the regional economy should be moving.

Only through this constant process of examination and re-evaluation will it be possible to improve planning and implementation methods, said Mr. Trudeau.

He spoke to a large enthusiastic audience in Moncton Arena before taking his chartered jet for Newfoundland.

He spent today touring the province under the careful guidance of Premier Joey Smallwood. Sunday he was due to take off from Gander on a cross-Canada flight to Penticton.

SPRINKLE TINKLES ON BEER CANS

Yachts Washed Down for Start

Swiftsure excitement bloomed in the Inner Harbor Friday night and a sprinkle of rain was just an added refreshment.

Crowds lined the walls of the Causeway to see the largest contingent of sailing craft ever to compete in the 136-mile race and the shorter Juan de Fuca race.

And the rain didn't dim the colors flying on the nearly 80 vessels assembled for the opening ceremonies.

The weather, termed by one spectator as "fit only for ducks" promised uncomfortable sailing conditions for the 134 entrants if it continues for the two-day race.

But crews and spectators alike refused to have their "spirits" dampened and were obviously ready to set sail today with hopes raised for a rough race and a glorious finish.

Color ship HMCS Cowichan, "dressed" with pennants for the ceremonies, was the only vessel assured of a place in the harbour Friday. It was not possible for all the yachts to get in the harbour.

Towering above the assembled craft was the navy sailing ship HMCS Oriole, tied up beside a U.S. Coast Guard vessel.

The roll-call and introduction of special guests took place from her deck.

Race official Humphrey Golby took the roll call and said this year's groups of sailing vessels was "the finest fleet of racing yachts ever gathered" for the annual bluewater classic.

Cheers from crews and toots from horns followed introduction of each ship. The ceremony took place with familar strains of Blow the Man Down played by Herman Bergink on the new Centennial Carillon.

Ald. Ian Stewart, representing the city, welcomed participants and wished them good weather and sailing in the race.

Meanwhile spirits ran so high during the festivities that police called city garbage crews down on a special trip to empty garbage cans overflowing with empty beer cases.

Police tolerance reached new heights as celebrants were allowed to proceed unhindered from the Causeway up Government Street with open beer bottles in their hands.

Following introduction of officials and welcomings the Rainbow Sea Cadets performed the year's first Sunset Ceremony on the lawns of the Legislative Buildings.

Crowds thinned considerably towards the conclusion of the ceremony as the light drizzle grew heavier and steadier.

A navy official described the complete ceremony and its "obscure origin" to the assembled crowd.

The race, which started early today, is expected to finish late Sunday afternoon at Ogden Point — weather permitting.

CHAMPS MEET FRIDAY

3,000 Youngsters In Track Contests

More than 3,000 children competed Friday in the first round of the Greater Victoria elementary school track and field championship.

The school district has been divided into eight zones with three to six schools in each.

Zone champions meet Friday at 6:30 p.m. at the University of Victoria's Centennial Stadium to decide the championship.

Doncaster and Willows schools tied with 132 points each in Zone 1 competition between three schools. Oaklands came third in the meet which included track events only. Field events will be decided Monday.

Five Zone 3 schools competed at Glanford elementary, Frank Hobbs winning with 115 points. McKenzie finished second with 62 and Glanford was third with 47½.

Six Zone 4 schools met at Hampton Park. Hampton won with 84 points while Marigold came second with 65 and Bank Street third with 60.

Five schools clashed in the Zone 5 meet at Topaz Park. Quadra nailed first place with 94½ points, Richmond placed second with 93 and Cloverdale tied for third with Tolmie, each with 60 points.

Hillcrest won the four-school meet in Zone 6 but information was not available on placement of the other schools which were Fairburn, James Bay and Cedar Hill.

Zone 8 schools met Thursday at Centennial Stadium where Uplands won the most events to finish first. Shelbourne came second and View Royal third.

Results from Zones 2 and 7 were not available.

A NEWLY-HATCHED whooping crane chick gets a taste of fresh air in Ottawa Friday. Eight eggs and two chicks were flown from Fort Smith, N.W.T., to a wildlife research centre in Maryland in the continuing attempt to keep the rare birds from becoming extinct. Glenn Smart, assistant director of the Patuxent centre, holds the chick during the stopover.

New Leaders Emerge In 'Poor' Campaign

WASHINGTON (AP) — The emergence of new leaders in the Poor People's Campaign has been accompanied by statements that the demonstrators will accelerate their protests in the halls of Congress and government buildings.

"We are shifting gears and making changes," said Rev. Andrew Young, executive vice-president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, which organized Resurrection City, the shantytown encampment near Lincoln Memorial.

In the absence of SCLC President Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, out of town for the day, Young said Friday that Hosea Williams now will spearhead demonstrations.

Two new figures who led a demonstration Friday at the department of health, education and welfare were J. T. Johnson and Leon Hall. Like Williams, they are laymen. Previously the prominent figures in the campaign were clergymen.

Rev. Jesse Jackson, who led some demonstrations in the last two weeks, was relieved as "city manager" of Resurrection City. No replacement was announced.

LSD Factory Closed Down By 'Yard'

LONDON (AP) — Scotland Yard was credited today with smashing a back street operation aimed at flooding the United States with LSD worth more than $38,000,000 on the black market.

On a tip from the FBI, 30 British detectives spent one year tracing the LSD-making enterprise to the back room of a little pharmacy in North London.

At London's Old Bailey Court Friday, the pharmacist, Victor James Kapur, 38, wept as he was sentenced to nine years in prison. A distributor of the pharmacy's big money product, Harry Nathan, 54, an antique dealer, was given seven years.

Detective Sgt. Arthur Kilner, head of the investigating team, told the court that nearly all the LSD made by Kapur had been smuggled to the United States.

No estimate was made of how much that was. But the prosecution charged that sources in Germany had supplied Kapur with enough ergotoxine to make 1,600 grams of LSD, with a market value of $38,000,000.

U.S. HONOR DECLINED

Oak Bay's Stuart Linnell was chosen "All-American Boy" of a U.S. Army unit at Fort Lewis, Wash.

But the award which followed basic training was declined by Mr. Linnell, 21, because of his Canadian citizenship.

Seeking the necessary training to become a helicopter pilot, the Oak Bay-educated soldier joined the American Army and has now been transferred to Virginia to study helicopter mechanical maintenance.

His home is at 1550 Hampshire Road.

U.K. College Shutdowns Discussed

LONDON (AP) — Student leaders discussed Friday shutting down another 25 colleges in support of Hornsey College of Art students in North London, who have taken over their building.

The leaders drew up a list of colleges from all over southern England. Telegrams of support from other colleges arrived at Hornsey throughout the day.

The Hornsey students seized control of their building three days ago and Friday evicted Principal Harold Shelton from his office. They installed him in a six-foot-square storage room.

The students said they occupied the principal's office after they discovered he had a telephone that did not pass through the college switchboard, which they control.

They are protesting an alleged lack of communication between the governing body and the students.

New Industry Need Outlined

CHEMAINUS — If Chemainus wants to grow rather than stand still it must attract secondary industry.

Chairman of the district's new industrial development board Karl Schutz Friday suggested establishing a fund to be used to attract secondary industry.

Mr. Schutz set the district a personal example a few years ago by building a furniture manufacturing plant here.

In his Friday statement he echoed a speech made last week by Mayor Jim Quaife of Duncan that the local business community must pull up its socks or see customers shop elsewhere.

Mr. Schutz said: "With a pitifully few exceptions Chemainus businessmen have stood still for 15 years."

The development board will meet Tuesday to consider setting up an operational fund, and define the bounds of its operation.

Buyer Protections Given New Strength

Changes designed to tighten up British Columbia's Consumer Protection Act come into effect today.

Their purpose is to close loopholes in earlier legislation covering door-to-door sale of goods and calling for itemized interest costs on instalment payments.

Last April 17, the B.C. cabinet decided the amendments to the Act should come into force June 1.

Among them is a provision requiring all lenders of mortgage money, who refer in an advertisement to terms of credit, to set out sums actually received in cash by a borrower.

Lenders must also state the amount of each instalment and the number of instalments required to pay off the debt.

Previously, mortgage lenders had not been bound by the same regulations as other lenders.

Another change in regulations permits retail stores to hold an indemnity bond to cover the maximum total of lay-away deposits.

Welfare Fund Launched By Legion

PENTICTON (CP) — The Royal Canadian Legion convention wound up Friday by making two more demands on the federal government and launching a new welfare fund.

The new campaign aimed to raise $150,000 for the British Commonwealth Ex-services League which aids needy Commonwealth veterans abroad.

The government criticism was contained in two resolutions approved during the closing session of the five-day 22nd biennial convention.

In one, delegates criticized the lack of a medal to honor men who participated in the Dieppe raid, and suggested a new medal should also be struck to honor Canadian veterans who have spent time in enemy prisoner of war camps.

In other resolution, the convention called on Ottawa to eradicate what were termed "anomalies" in the Canadian Forces Superannuation Act and urged increases in annuities with future increases based on the cost of living.

There also were demands to the government for altertness in defending Canada, for establishment of a new forces base in Newfoundland, and for better facilities for veterans in hospitals.

Information On Laos War Kept Secret

BONN (Reuters) — A West German Bundestag (lower house) deputy said Friday the true extent of the war in Laos is largely unknown to world opinion because one member country of the International Control Commission in Laos has blocked information.

Christian Democrat Deputy Walter Kiep told a news conference following a recent visit to Laos that Prime Minister Prince Souvanna Phouma termed it a forgotten war.

But he said 40,000 North Vietnamese troops are fighting on the side of the Pathet Lao rebel movement against the government army of some 35,000.

The North Vietnamese were separate from those used on the supply routes for the Viet Cong in South Vietnam, he said.

"But the International Control Commission is paralyzed because its reports are made lame by the veto of one member," Kiep said.

"An army of 40,000 is operating aggressively in this country."

The commission is made up of Canada, India and Poland.

Pair Sentenced To 48 Years For Robbery

TORONTO (CP) — Two bank robbers Friday were sentenced to a total of 48 years in prison.

Norman Gerrard, 42, of Vancouver was sentenced to 20 years for bank robbery and two years for escaping custody while awaiting trial.

In 1959 Gerrard was sentenced to 15 years for the $5,000 robbery of a Toronto bank but was released on parole in 1965.

In February, 1967, he robbed the same bank of $320. Gerrard now will serve 22 years plus the remaining seven years of his previous sentence.

Maurice Joseph Lemieux, 42, of Toronto also pleaded guilty to bank robbery and was sentenced to 13 years to be served consecutively with a six-year term outstanding from a previous conviction.

LATEST FASHION FLUTTER

Beau Brummels Take to Chains

By PAT DUFOUR

Instead of the proverbial millstone around the neck, Victoria men are adorning theirs with chains . . . and loving every minute of it.

The latest fashion flutter began last March when the manager of a downtown store's men's wear department received his first shipment of the dandy danglers. He reports selling 300 in a month.

Hippies have long been addicted to flaunting flowers and beads but what's surprising about the new fad is that the 'flower children' aren't the addicts. Says the operator of a turtleneck bar where the new jewelry is sold, "We sell to everyone from eleven to 70. Hippies don't buy, they can't afford them."

She tells of going to one party where she saw a man, grey-haired and tall, looking smug and smart in a mauve turtleneck shirt and its complementing chain. "He was perfectly at ease and thoroughly enjoying the attention he received from the women."

Another surprising factor that a downtown survey revealed was that wives are doing most of the buying, about 75 per cent.

SEXY HUSBANDS

"They buy the turtlenecks and jewelry because they say it makes their husbands look sexy. When the men come shopping it's usually the fat short ones that buy them."

To date, these Beau Brummels of all ages are hesitant about showing their "fine feathers" on city streets. They prefer to wear their jewelry at home or when attending intimate parties.

One wife tells me that she bought the first set of shirt and chains for her husband. He made as much fuss as if she'd tried to persuade him to attend a swimming party in one of junior's diapers!

Then one evening she saw him surreptitiously preening himself in front of the mirror, bedecked in his gifts.

The amazing sequel to this story is that a week later he went shopping on his own, arriving home with three satin turtleneck shirts in varying shades, each to be bedazzled with its toning beads or chains!

Most males appear to be cautious when trying out a new fashion trend. One saleswoman tells me that in March conservative white was the 'in' shade. Now, gold has hustled it out of first position and mauve is coming on strong.

While their wives hark back to the old days when frills and furbelows were the rage, husbands are revelling in a little nostalgia of their own. From all reports they're throughly enjoying a return to the days when the male, like his counterpart in the bird and animal kingdoms, was conspicious for his finery.

Some of them, though, are a little diffident about showing their delight.

JOINS CHAIN GANG

Piqued with curiosity, I couldn't help asking one shopper in a turtleneck sweater and high-buttoned jacket if he was thinking of joining the 'chain gang.' Rather shyly, he opened his jacket to reveal a set worthy to be worn by a Lord Mayor and asked, "I think they're smart, but do you think I should show them on the street?"

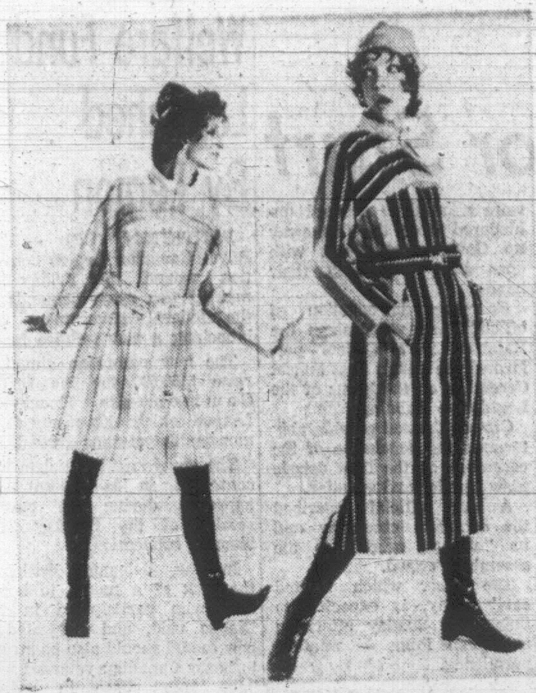
After being reassured, he went on his way, jacket buttoned at a more conventional height, wearing his chain like a challenge. Perhaps it was the news that women thought them sexy that gave him the needed nerve.

It might, too, have been his pride as a westerner.

I'd told him that a Montreal store was selling 1,000 a day compared to Victoria's 300 a month batting average.

After all, no Victorian's prepared to admit that Montrealers have the corner on sex appeal!

"Which one would you choose?" Don King is just like a woman let loose in a hat shop as he goes shopping for the latest in men's finery.



The Long and the Short of It . . . Identical zingy striped spring and summer raincoats. One in the popular just-above-the-knee level and the other in the much-touted almost-maxi length. Hudson Sportswear of Toronto have included several maxis in their new collection but do not expect to retire on the profits. Canadian manufacturers are going very slowly with the new longer lengths.

IN STEP WITH STYLE

By NONA DAMASKE

Skirt Length a Teapot Tempest

THE QUESTION BOX

Dear Nona: Please give us a little news of hemlines. Are they or aren't they coming down? Have you seen any "Midi" or "Maxi" outfits in Victoria?

Rosemary.

Dear Rosemary: I, personally, have not seen any midis or maxis in Victoria, either on the street or in the stores. I can only speak for myself, but I think the whole thing is a tempest in a teapot. I realize the big slick magazines have been showing them being worn by women of New York's social register set but these women can afford to buy a dress and maybe only wear it once.

Damaske

Dear Mrs. Damaske: My daughter is to be married in a formal church wedding this summer. I have chosen a bright pink summer suit in fine knit, as I do not look well in lace or chiffon. I would like the shoes to match the suit, but what would you suggest for a hat and bag? I don't want to be overdone in pink as I am a small person.

A Faithful Reader.

Dear Reader: Yes, do have the shoes in the same color, but then stop with the pink. For a wedding, the gloves must be white. The hat could be in an organza, crepe, dressy straw . . . the type that looks light and dressy. The hat could be a floral chapeau of many colors or the organza could be of several tones. With a solid shade suit you have more choice with the hat. Keep it light however and remember that white is traditionally reserved for the bride.

The bag should be small. This could be in pink (as you don't want it to break the line of your costume) or pale beige. For a wedding, your bag should be small and unobtrusire.

Dear In Step:

At the end of last summer before I put away my light clothing I sent the clothes that would not wash to the cleaners and stored them as they returned in the plastic bags and this was fine. I washed all the washables and put them in drawers in a spare chest and now as I get them out I cannot seem to press the creases out. Any suggestions?

Wrinkled.

Dear Wrinkled:

Your intentions were good but you should have ironed everything before storing. I suggest washing everything again and ironing before completely dry. Otherwise commercial pressing would be your only answer.

Dear Fashion Editor:

I am a teen-ager and I wear pretty short skirts. Why can't Victoria stores carry bikini panty hose? I have had some sent to me from the United States and they are great . . . no lines showing no matter how short my skirts are.

"Mini."

Dear "Mini":

I made enquiries and it seems it is not the fault of Victoria hosiery buyers but the fault of Canadian hosiery manufacturers. They just cannot seem to make enough panty hose of any kind. It was one of those fashion things that just mushroomed. I spoke to a saleslady at one store and she said they have had bikini panty hose but even without advertising they just sell like wink.

MODERN YARNS HARD TO RESIST

Mac Lean

There are so many beautiful knitting yarns in the shops these days that it is sometimes very hard to make a choice. I often wonder if there are many people with a weakness like mine? I just cannot resist beautiful yarns when they are shown to me in their boxes, nestled in tissue paper.

The colors are simply gorgeous, and the yarn is so beautiful and soft to the touch. I invariably end up buying far more than my immediate requirements. Eventually my cupboards are bulging and I reluctantly have to part with some of the boxes.

It's fun, though, deciding who would like which color and quality — the outdoorsy type, the heavier wool — the dainty-petite person, the soft-as-a-cloud mohair. I am always sure to tuck instruction to use with the yarn inside the box. It makes a wonderful gift and I know it is appreciated.

There are many more weights of yarn on the maket these days. During my mother's time, it was the old standby of three and four-ply fingering, and not much choice of colors. Women knitted mostly for utility reasons, whereas today, spinners are out to capture the fashion-conscious with the current vogue colors.

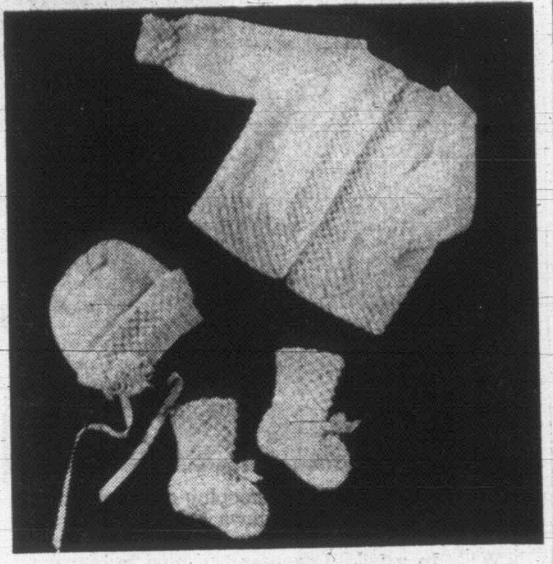
Try to locate and use the exact yarn that the pattern calls for. This is most important, as the garment was specifically designed for that particular yarn. I am not saying other yarns cannot be substituted, they can quite successfully, but they may require more yarn, and give a different appearance to the finished fabric of the knitting. If you do use an alternative yarn, be sure they are of comparable weight and quality.

Are you expecting an addition to your family circle this year? If so, this three-piece baby outfit shown here will have special appeal, and would make a truly lovely gift for the new arrival.

The jacket features the roomy raglan armholes, knitted in stocking-stitch with dadinty cuffs and borders in popcorn stitch. The bonnet has a little stand-away brim, with ribbing for a snug fit around the face.

The bootees too are in popcorn stitch with garter-stitch soles. It's a dream to knit in three-ply baby wool.

To order leaflet No. 6725, send 35c in coin or money order, together with a long self-addressed stamped (5c) envelope to: May E. Mac Lean, "KNIT & CHAT," c/o The Victoria Daily Times, please state pattern number when ordering.



If you are expecting an addition to your family circle this year this little set will make the new member look just that much more adorable.

SEW WITH EUNICE FARMER

YOU CAN REPOSITION DARTS TO MORE BECOMING LINES

Dear Miss Farmer,

You tell us that pattern companies very rarely make mistakes, but I must ask about the position of a dart on a new pattern. There is no bust line dart. Instead, the dart extends at an angle from the armhole to a point above the bust. I have read that a dart may be repositioned to the most becoming line for the individual. I have never heard of a dart that extended from the armhole and wonder if there was an error in the pattern. If not, can the position of this dart be changed? — Mrs. E. H.

Dear Mrs. E. H.:

Yes, the position of any dart may be changed, but if you are a complete beginner at sewing I wouldn't suggest you begin by changing darts. Follow the instructions carefully, step by step, and then try your next experiment on an inexpensive piece of fabric. If this works out, you will have new courage to experiment more often.

If you wish to change your dart to a French dart, one that extends from below the waistline at the side seam and angles up to the point of the bust, you must draw a line on your pattern for this dart. Slash your pattern on this new line (a).

Now, cut your pattern at the centre of the dart you wish to take away. Lap the seam lines of the original dart over each other and pin closed (b). This will automatically open the new dart to the correct width.

You have one more important detail to complete. You must know just how large the side seam extension should be for the new dart before cutting garment. Pin a piece of paper under your pattern, forming an extension at the side. Next, fold your pattern on the new dart, bringing the lower edge of the dart up to meet the top edge (c). The extended paper should be included in this fold.

If there are any changes to be made at the side seams such as adding extra width, draw this extension while the dart is still folded in place. Cut your pattern on your new side seam marks, unpin the pattern and fold down the new dart (d). You will be amazed to find the shape of the side seam to accommodate this dart.

I hope you won't be discouraged by mentally trying to follow these instructions. File this column away until you wish to change the darts and then follow my instructions step by step — it really works!

A New You

by Emily Wilkens

DEAR EMILY WILKENS:

LIP SERVICE

I'm a high school student. Many of my friends and I share the same problem.

1. How can we keep lipstick from caking after it's been on a while? We've tried applying powder first, then blotting, but it still cakes.

2. Since there really isn't time between classes to go to the washroom to apply a fresh coat, can you recommend some of the longer-lasting types?

3. Is it possible to keep lipstick on while eating?—B.L.

1. and 2. If your lipstick is caking despite the powder and blotting, why not switch to a colored lip gloss which is very moist and certainly in fashion. Since it doesn't feel "heavy" on the lips, you probably will be less inclined to lick it off. Remember, one reason lipstick wears off so quickly is that being a student has its nervous moments and, undoubtedly, many people of all ages cope with nervous situations by licking their lips!

3. Why fuss with your lipstick while you're actually eating? I suggest that you forget all about after your lunch, apply a nice fresh coat.

Complexion Beauty

The secret of beautifying the complexion is said to lie in the saturation of the skin with a new type of tropical moist oil. The skin takes on an immediate healthy bloom as the tiny lines and blemishes are gently smoothed away. This saturation treatment with the moist oil of Olay is recommended by skin care consultants, who advise its daily use as a powder base to give the complexion day-long beauty. Your druggist will help you obtain a supply for your personal needs.

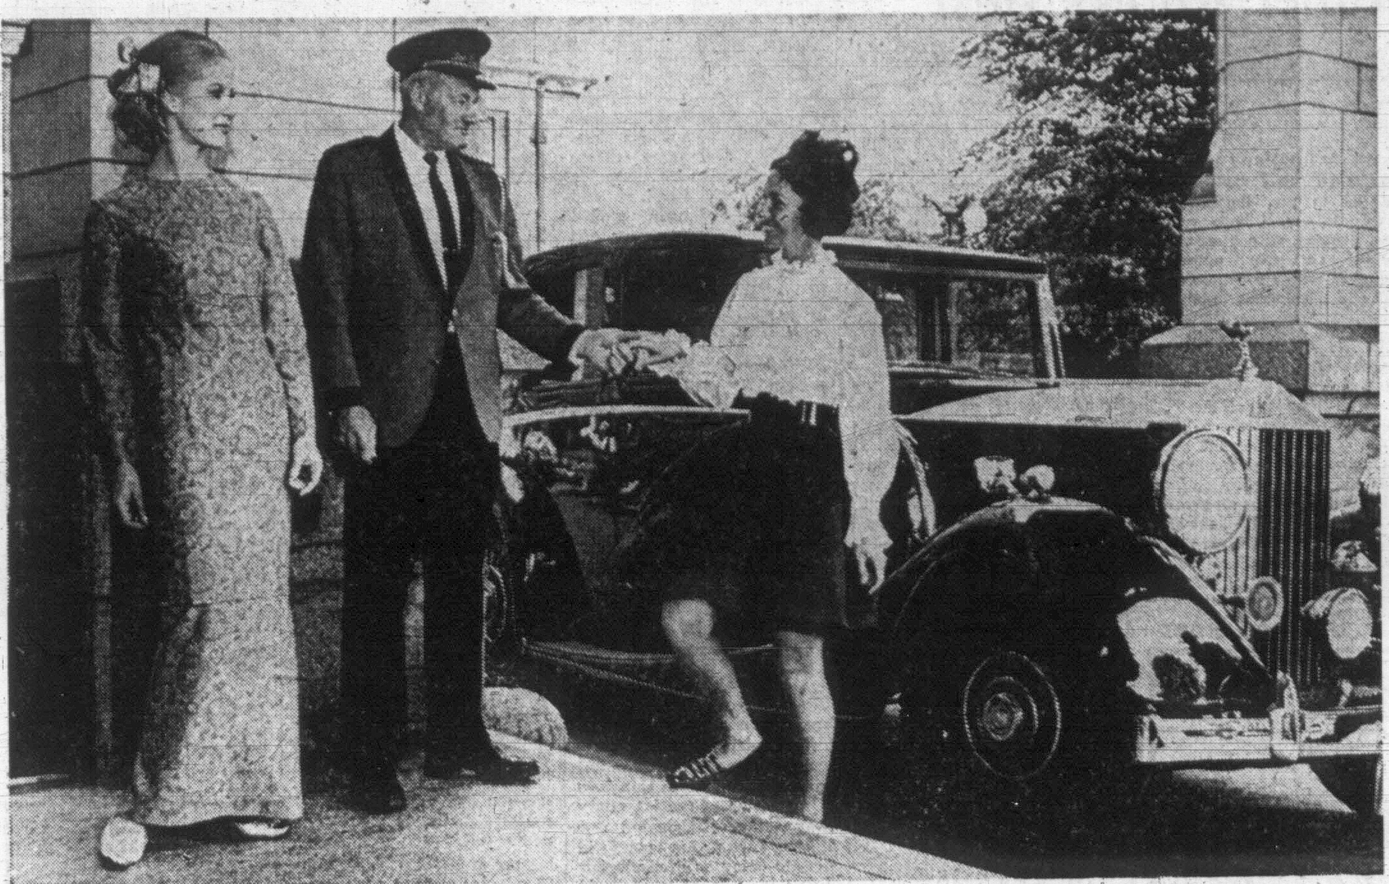
The British Are Coming . . .



Highlight of the "British Festival of the Arts", to be sponsored by the Bay from Thursday until Friday, June 15, will be a mammoth show at the Empress featuring the latest from Britain's leading fashion houses, including Digby Morton, Paul Blanche, Frederick Starke, Frank Usher, Cliver Set, Cojana, Jean Allen, Sheraton, Simon Massey and many others. The show will take place at 8 p.m. this coming Friday, in the Crystal Ballroom. It will be followed by a Scotch Whisky Tasting Party in the Georgian Lounge, to be hosted by the deputy British trade commissioner, Mr. J. C. Sloman. Models Eleanor Moilliet and Florence Walther arrive for a dress rehearsal, to be greeted by doorman Tom Scott. Their Rolls Royce is driven by Howard Hill.

Hat set at a jaunty angle, Chris Philip welcomes Carmella Costigan aboard the yawl Tiffany. The "Jill Tars" are two of the 12 models who will appear in Friday's show. The Women's Committee to the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria are co-sponsors of the presentation. Mrs. Gerry Bryson is in charge of tickets. These are available at the Gallery.

The salute to Britain will be city-wide from June 6 to June 15 when The Bay presents "British Festival of the Arts."

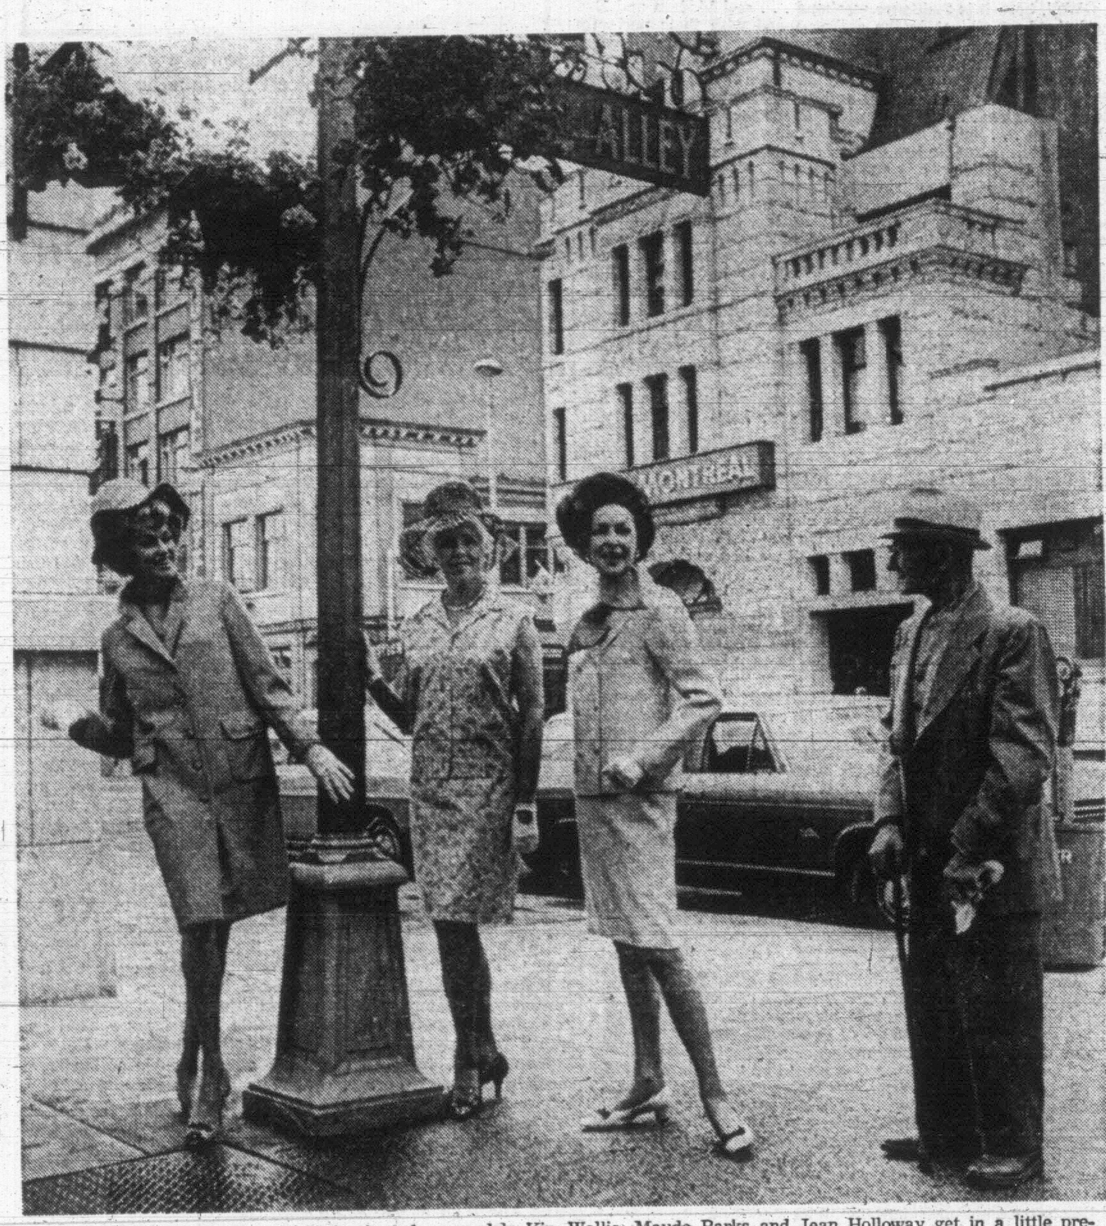
Sir Henry Lintott will read a proclamation at City Hall Thursday at 9:30 a.m. and will then go to the Bay to cut an official ribbon with store manager Howard McKay at 10 a.m.

In conjunction with the festival, the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria has an exhibition of British paintings and 18th century china scheduled from Friday until July 25. Artists include J. M. W. Turner, Sir Edwin Landseer, Sir George Richmond, Thomas Sidney Cooper, David Cox, Copley Fielding and others.

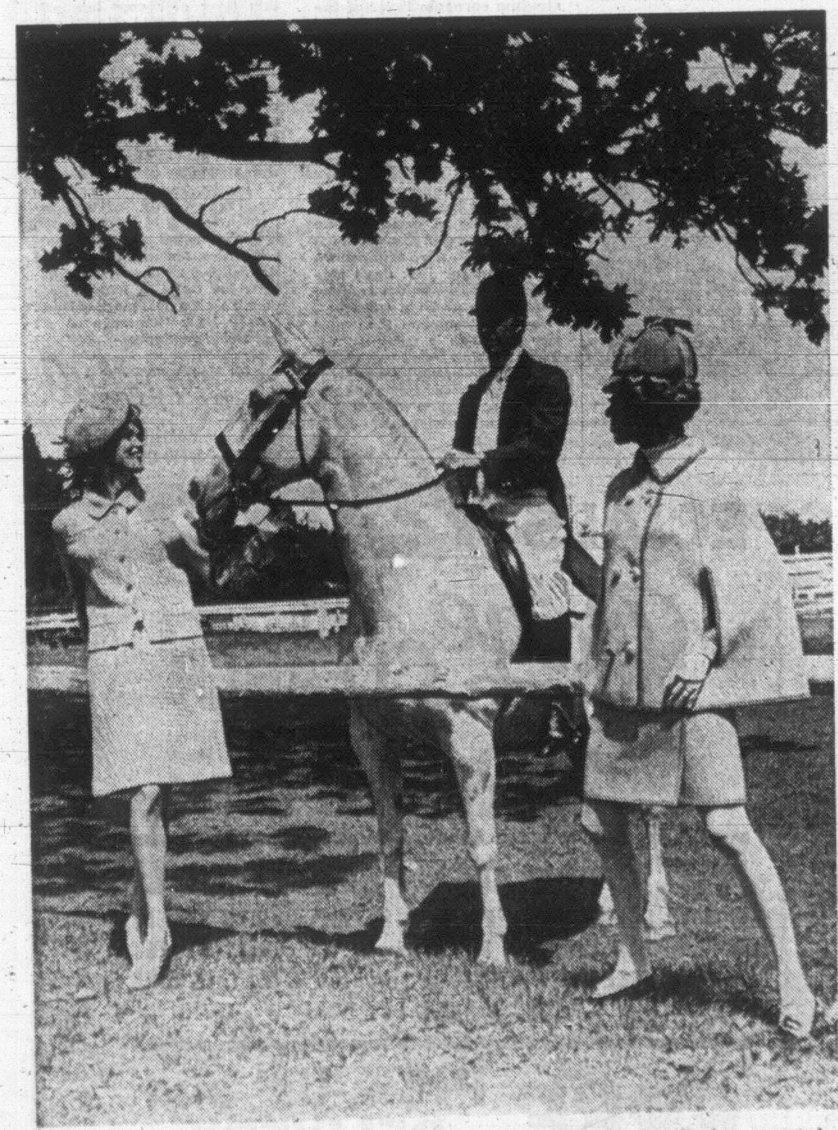
During the week, the Bastion Theatre will present Anthony Newley's "The Roar of the Grease Paint, the Smell of the Crowd" at the McPherson Playhouse. A wine and cheese party will follow the opening performance on Thursday.

The British musical "Half of Sixpence" will be showing at the Odeon Theatre.

And, the Gorge Road Hospital Rehabilitation Centre Auxiliary will also do its part in lauding the "old country." It plans to have a British tea party on the grounds of the hospital on Wednesday, June 12.



One surprised bystander stands fascinated as models Kip Wallis, Maude Parks and Jean Holloway get in a little pre-show training at Trounce Alley. His only comment, "It's sure great scenery around here!"



Tallyho, yoicks . . . and all that! Doug Alexander looks as British as John Peel as, mounted on Grey Lady, he stops to chat with models Kip Wallis and Lorraine Travis. Grey Lady confides that restricting fashion shows to humans isn't exactly her idea of "cricket".

Skippers of yachts that arrived at the Inner Harbor early this week found it difficult to concentrate on the Swiftsure classic and its problems of tide and wind when they were treated to this scene by Lorraine Travis, Chris Philip and Eleanor Moilliet. As one skipper put it, "Those outfits are a lot easier on the eye than the wet weather gear aboard our boat".

Doing The Town

with DOROTHY FRASER

Dresses that strike the right summer note . . .

They say it's going to be a long, hot summer . . . Well, we're not quite sure just who "they" are . . . but WE say it's a great idea to be prepared . . . and not wait until the first hot day strikes us and find we have nothing summery to wear! . . . Miss Frith's has a collection of summer dresses that will make your head spin . . . we were shown some of the highlights the other day, and it was just as if all the delightful new styles we've been seeing pictured in the high fashion magazines had been brought to life before our very eyes! . . . One thing about Miss Frith's, you can always trust them to be firstest with the mostest! . . . There are bright, gay colors a-plenty . . . stripes treated in interesting ways . . . ruffles and yet more ruffles . . . frills and ruching . . . and if this isn't the acme of femininity, we don't know what is! . . . But what we liked best of all were the neutrals . . . the soft grey or brown voiles with white pin stripes . . .. be-ruffled in the manner of the 30s . . . There's something about these sheer neutral dresses which gives a woman a particularly cool, fragile look . . . (after all, isn't it nice to look helpless once in a while . . . especially if you're really as efficient as all get-out?) . . . Miss Frith's collection of summer dresses is tops . . . so do try to get in to see them soon . . . Miss Frith Millinery & Fashions, 1617 Douglas St., 383-7181.

The abdication of fashion king Balenciaga marks the "end of elegance," say French couturiers.

At Wilson's, the service is EXTRA-ordinary!

When our favorite columnist commented last week on the miserable brand of service meted out by salespeople in some downtown stores . . . we thought it high time to put in our own five cents worth and tell you about the superb service you get from everyone . . . every day . . . at Wilson's . . . And believe us, we know whereof we speak! . . . Far from being indifferent, the salespeople at Wilson's literally live to serve you . . . Most of them have years of selling experience . . . ALL of them enjoy their job and enjoy people . . . they get real personal satisfaction out of selling Wilson's beautiful clothes . . . helping you find exactly the RIGHT things . . . Nothing is too much trouble . . . from phoning for a taxi, or to another store on your behalf . . . to gift-wrapping a parcel . . . to personally making a delivery if you're in a hurry and the regular delivery has left . . . From the moment you walk in the door at Wilson's you're treated like an honored guest . . . and this is true whether you're dressed in mink or in blue jeans . . . whether you buy a $200 suit or a $2 hankie . . . or whether you just browse around and walk out empty-handed . . . You'll be thanked for your visit and invited to return soon . . . with a pleasant smile thrown in! . . . Now isn't this a nice way to shop . . . particularly when it doesn't cost you any more than at an ordinary store? . . . W. & J. Wilson Limited, 1221 Government St., 383-7177.

How to look and feel like a new woman . . .

You know those days most of us live through occasionally . . . when nerves are stretched taut as violin strings . . . and we're certain we look like hags? . . . Well, we had one ourselves not so long ago and were fit to be tied . . . until we bethought ourselves of Miss Dorothy at the House of Glamour . . . and the perfectly marvellous facial treatments she gives . . . facials which not only seem to give you a new face, but make you feel like a new woman . . . all over! . . . Soon we were relaxed in a reclining chair having deliciously fragrant creams smoothed into our face . . . Then gentle, soothing massage of neck, spine right down to the waist, hands and arms, legs and feet . . . Dorothy's skilful hands certainly know which buttons to push to relieve tensions! . . . Next came a fragrant facial pack to stir up circulation . . . hot towels caressed our face and neck . . . the chair began to vibrate, ever so gently . . . and soon we felt ourselves sinking into a delightful state of euphoria . . . without a care in the world . . . a feeling we can only describe as sybaritic! . . . "It's almost sinful to feel so good" . . . we murmured drowsily! . . . Final stage was a brand-new and becoming makeup . . . and we were more than ready to face the world again . . . feeling like a million dollars . . . One of the most important decisions you'll have to make is your choice of movers . . . for your own peace of mind and the sake of your precious possessions . . . (and aren't ALL our possessions precious to us who own them?) . . . If you're planning to move . . . anywhere . . . we strongly recommend you entrust the job to Cantin's . . . biggest mover of household furniture in B.C. . . . who through their affiliation with United Van Lines . . . have the equipment, knowledge and highly-trained personnel to move you anywhere on the North American continent . . . As for Vancouver Island, it's no accident that you see so many Cantin trucks travelling up and down . . . Cantin's now have FOUR branches on the Island . . . Victoria, Duncan, Campbell River . . . and the newly-opened Port Hardy branch to take care of the north end of the Island . . . This means even better service for all us Islanders on the move! . . . On the Mainland, Cantin's office is in Richmond . . . So if you're going to move, contact Cantin's and have them give you one of their amazingly accurate estimates . . . The Victoria manager, Mr. Cyril Smith, who's an old hand in the moving business, will be happy to discuss your problems . . . you may even phone him at home after business hours, if you wish . . . His telephone is 386-9649 . . . Cantin's Moving & Storage Ltd., 742 Pembroke St., 385-3476.

The new pullover . . . longer, leaner and more fitted . . . is now the sweater tunic. It mixes well with slacks or pleated skirt.

Whipped cream is a MUST for berries . . .

It's strawberry season again . . . our own sweet, luscious B.C. berries are ripening on the vines . . . and soon we'll all be able to enjoy strawberry shortcake and other such berry delicacies to our heart's content . . . Now, to our mind, the ONLY way to really savor berries is with fresh, rich, whipped cream . . . the kind of dairy whipping cream Northwestern Creamery delivers to your door . . . Any substitute you might buy is pretty palid compared with the real thing . . . and that good, old-fashioned favorite, strawberry shortcake, just ISN'T unless it's piled high with whipped cream! . . . (If the thought of calories scares you, listen to this—calorie for calorie, there's more high protein in dairy products than in any other food) . . . So live a little this month, and ask your Northwestern milkman for plenty of whipping cream . . . Save money, too, by getting your milk in Northwestern's 3-quart plastic jug . . . Even if you don't use much milk, it's still a worthwhile economy . . . because Northwestern Creamery milk is so fresh when it's delivered to your door that, properly refrigerated, it will keep sweet for ages! . . . Getting back to berries, this month's feature flavor in Velvet Ice Cream is Fresh Strawberry . . . and when we say "fresh" strawberry, we mean just that . . . It's absolutely delectable! . . . Northwestern Creamery Ltd., 1015 Yates St., 383-7147.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Take Heed, Abby, Mother Knows Best

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am 16 and am going with a guy who is 18. We plan to get married as soon as I graduate from high school. I have a part-time job after school and on Saturdays, and here is our problem:

We don't want to start our married life with nothing, so we started a joint savings account at the bank. My mother found out about it and said it wasn't "right" for us to have a joint account. Why not? My mother says that she believes in saving but he should have his and I should have mine, and she has never heard of a 16-year-old having a joint savings account with a guy before they get married.

Abby, I don't see what's wrong with it. My mother listens to you, so please put your answer in the paper.

UPSET.

DEAR UPSET: I am pleased to learn that your mother listens to me, but since you wrote to me, I hope you will, too. I agree with your mother. Send me your name and address and I'll explain more fully in a personal letter.

DEAR ABBY: What is your opinion of a man, 42, dropping his bride of 10 months off at the hospital to have their first baby, and then driving over to play 18 holes of golf during the event?

On the following weekends he was also out playing golf when friends drove from distant cities to see the baby. He said having this baby made him the hapiest man alive.

WONDERING.

DEAR WONDERING: You have a right to be teed off, trapped by a hacker like that. I'd say that your husband's conduct was below par, especially while the baby was being born.

★ ★ ★

DEAR ABBY: Please help me. I am so depressed. I am 56 years old and have always thought I had average intelligence, but now I am beginning to have my doubts.

For years I have wanted to learn how to drive an automobile, but my husband strongly objected to paying for a driver's course. Well, three years ago I saved up my own money and secretly took a driver's course, but I failed the driving tests three times!

My instructor told me that I was a very good driver, but Abby, for some reason every time I sit down before an examining officer to take that written test I can't seem to come up with the right answers.

I can't confide in my children (the youngest is 19) as they would think their mother is a first-class idiot. (They all got their driver's licences on the first try.)

Abby, do you think there are some people who just shouldn't drive an automobile?

DEPRESSED.

DEAR DEPRESSED: Yes, but you may not be one of them. Try again. Ask your husband to drill you on the written material that most motor vehicle departments provide. Don't be ashamed that you failed three times. Lots of drivers (and good ones, too) freeze on the paper work.

Weekend at the Cabin Demands Supplies

By PENNY SAVER

This is the weekend of the cabin. By the time this column appears I will have already spent many glorious hours far from the bustle of the city. I will have slept a night rolled in a sleeping bag on one of the bunk shelves and will have wakened with the smell of the woods seeping through the window on an early-morning sunbeam. Perhaps I will have taken a walk or spent many hours watching a honey bee explore the inside of a flower. Maybe it will rain, and I will spend the day grumping at the children and preparing dry clothes for my husband who will fish in any weather. In any case, I will be far from it all until Sunday afternoon.

This is the first weekend we have spent entirely at the cabin and the past week has seen us buying some extra supplies. One item that we will be trying for the first time is a solid fire starter. This is made of petroleum (90 per cent) that has been whipped up into a solid foam. Safe and clean to handle, it kindles at the touch of a match into a hot flame, eliminating the need for newspaper, kindling or liquid starters. A split or feathered log is all you need. Ideal for campfires, fireplaces, barbecues — any fire, this solid fuel comes in packages of 12 for 89 cents. The 12 white bricks are attached to keep them from being scattered and can be easily broken off for each lighting.

Handy Emergency Camping Kit

We will be travelling fairly late the first day and the access road to the cabin is quite rough. As a precaution against a late stop far from anywhere, my husband has bought himself and "emergency" camping kit for the car. This kit is $5.25 and comes in a plastic bag with a carrying handle. It includes a hand axe with a rubber grip and a leather sheath, a hunting knife in a leather sheath, an all-purpose knife with a couple of blades, a screwdriver, bottle opener, corkscrew and punch; and a knife, fork and spoon set. The knife and axe blades are of steel. With this in the car we will be prepared to chop wood and open cans should we have to camp a night in the open.

Save yourself and everyone else from falls with the abrasive strips I have found. One and a half inches wide by 12 inches long, these strips come in a package of six for 89 cents. They are like a fine sandpaper and give instant traction on stairs, boat decks, cement, showers — anywhere the footing is slippery. Self-adhesive, these strips last and last. A storekeeper I know has had these strips on the busy sidewalk in front of his store for years without having to replace one. These strips can be trimmed to any width or length you may require. Try putting them on the floor under scatter rugs so that they will hold the rug in place. Jayne swears this works for her.

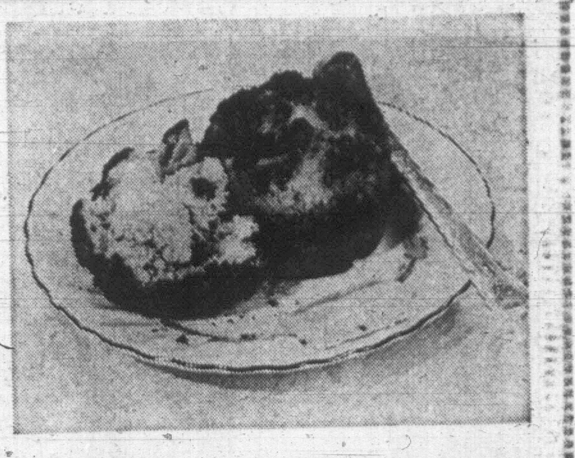
COOKING CAN BE FUN By MARY MOORE

Muffins Reputation Boosters



Hot muffins are pleasers for family, expected guests or those who drop-in for a surprise visit. You can make Apple Cornmeal Muffins in a hurry if you follow the recipe given below.

Moore

Because hot breads are reputation boosters I urge you to serve more.

We tested these Apple Corn Muffins twice and agree they are easy to make and have good flavor and are different. You must be sure to soak the cornmeal in the scalded milk while you prepare the apples.

APPLE CORN MUFFINS

(twelve 2¾")

Two-thirds cup corn meal, ½ cup sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 cup scalded milk, 1 egg, 1 cup sifted all-purpose flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon cinnamon, 2 cups finely chopped pared dessert apples.

Scald milk.

Into a medium-large mixing bowl measure corn meal, sugar and salt. Stir in scalded milk and let stand to soak while you prepare apples.

Add apples as soon as they are prepared and measured. Beat in egg.

Sift together sifted flour, baking powder and cinnamon and stir in only enough to blend. No not overstir.

Spoon into 12 greased 2¾" muffin pans, filling them nearly full.

Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. 30 to 35 minutes or until puffed and golden. Do not underbake.

NOTES: (1) Now that I have said, "Do not underbake" I want to modify that. If you want to make them in advance of mealtime, when they are well puffed but not golden, you may remove them from the oven and cool and chill. Then at mealtime reheat at 350 deg. Fahr. for 15 to 20 minutes. (2) If desired before baking sprinkle tops with finely chopped nuts.

ARTHUR LIVED

LONDON (Reuters). — Debrett's Peerage, the 3,221-page "who's who" of British aristocracy, suggests in its latest edition that Queen Elizabeth is a relative of the legendary King Arthur of Camelot.

King Arthur is news in Britain today as archeologists probe the site of what could have been his sixth century court to try to answer the question: Did he exist?

Debrett's editor, Patrick Montague-Smith, 48, believes Arthur really lived. He tells why in the 1968 edition of the book, which weighs six pounds and costs £15 15s ($41).

Here is how Montague-Smith links the Queen with the enigmatic Arthur in an article in Debrett's:

It started with a tough Scottish king, Cunedda, who crossed Hadrian's Wall in the fifth century and started a royal dynasty in North Wales. His granddaughter, Eigr, was Arthur's mother.

Cunedda's family were also the ancestors of the House of Tudor, from which the Queen is descended.

Montague-Smith's article will give a boost to archeologists digging at a hill called South Cadbury Castle, 110 miles south-west of London, hoping to unearth the remains of Camelot.

The Most Important Bottle Ever to Enter the Life of any Woman

When the contents of a bottle win world-wide acclaim for helping make older, lined, female faces look younger, pre-eminence is but one of the laurels accorded it. The power of 2nd Debut is now acknowledged wherever people read. This exotic emulsion is relegating facial lines to at least semi-permanent residence in the never-never land of happy forgetfulness. Applied nightly to the skin surface, the CEF (Cellular Expansion Factor) ingredient enters, aggressively, the outer or stratum corneum layer of the facial skin. As each particle of CEF enters the stratum corneum it carries in with it a particle of water. These water particles start a refreshing action that causes those dreaded facial lines to seemingly fill in. As the water level in the stratum corneum is raised to normal, the skin's surface improves noticeably; many surface lines vanish as though a magic wand had so commanded them. Others of deeper nature find their nagging importance squelched into near nothingness. Continued for just days this simple, pleasant before bedtime routine results in a smoother, younger presentation than your face has made in many a year. You'll find 2nd Debut (with CEF 600) and 2nd Debut (with CEF 1200) mightily rewarding and the 2nd Debut satellite preparations more than justifying every claim made for them.

2nd Debut is made in two potencies. One contains CEF 600 and is for the woman with early worries; that is, for the woman under 40.

The double-potency CEF 1200 is for the face over forty; or for the impatient lady who wants visible results without delay—or for you if your facial lines are deep. It should smooth age lines faster.

To prepare your skin to receive CEF there is 2nd Debut Liquid Cleanser. Its application is different, for it is to be applied in a thin layer over your face and throat. Then rinsed off with cool water. Now your skin is clear, and clean. Really clean!

2nd Debut Liquid Makeup (with CEF 600) is probably the most covering make-up in all the world. Imparts a flattering, flat matte finish and hides most blemishes completely. Moisturizes, too, with CEF 600. Six shades.

Finally, 2nd Debut Body & Hand Lotion (with CEF 600) imparts a feeling of luxury to the body that makes you regard yourself with extra importance. And its CEF 600 richness quickly defeats the cause of hands chapping. This is a dual-purpose balm. Money Back Guarantee on all 2nd Debut products.

SWIFTSURE GUESTS AT COCKTAIL PARTY

Friday evening, on the eve of the Swiftsure race, Royal Victoria Yacht Club members were hosts to visiting yachtsmen at a cocktail party. Will Examine All On Peace Issues

Members of the British Columbia branch of the Voice of Women voted to send questionnaires to all candidates in the federal election when they met for the branch's seventh annual meeting, held in Parksville. It was decided that members would also attend meetings of national leaders when they visited local communities and ask what their stand on peace issues were.

Mrs. D. Birmingham of Nanoose Bay was elected provincial president. Victoria women elected to the executive were: First vice-president, Mrs. D. MacDermot, and literature chairman, Mrs. T. Cox.

Seventy-five women from all parts of the province attended the meeting in Island Hall. Voice of Women, a Canadian peace organization, was founded in 1960 and has a national membership of more than 6,000.

Victoria delegates at the up-Island meeting were Mrs. Mavis Payne, chairman of the local group; Mrs. G. Blair, Mrs. Cox, Mrs. K. Peaker and Mrs. MacDermot.

As Women Rattle On

MENS' MINDS WANDER

By ROSEMARY SPEIRS

WINNIPEG (CP) — Adult women and teen-agers have a lot in common — both are just learning how to deal with the world, the royal commission on the status of women was told Wednesday.

"We're just learning now even how to talk so that men will pay attention," home economist Judy Gaudin, 24, told the public hearing.

"Men's minds wander when we rattle on and on. But they welcome women who speak briefly and effectively."

Miss Gaudin, an attractive blonde who is to be married today, spent the afternoon outlining attitudes she found prevalent among about 100 young Manitoba women she surveyed for her brief.

Both she and Sharon Overwater, 27, a mother of two, complained that news about the commission's inquiry into women's problems is consistently relegated to women's sections of newspapers.

"My husband is not going to read the women's pages," Mrs. Overwater said.

Miss Gaudin said the young women she interviewed seem to look on their jobs as "a necessary evil, a stop-gap till marriage."

"The majority of single or married working girls do not seem to derive a large degree of personal satisfaction or pride of accomplishment from their jobs."

Most took jobs to earn money or to meet people, preferably eligible men.

She said unmarried girls and young mothers usually live full lives taken up by their jobs, boyfriends, young husbands or babies.

But mothers, whose familes were at school "are left sitting in a dried up rut."

Neither jobs nor housekeeping, then, were graded as creative challenges by women whose own apathy might in the end prove their greatest obstacle to self-fulfillment.

WANTS SPECIAL FORCE

At a night hearing Wednesday, Anne Ross, executive director of a private health clinic, suggested a special police force should be set up to deal with domestic conflicts.

"These domestic police should have the right to walk into a home when furniture is being smashed and eyes blackened. They should be able to interfere before someone is killed or charges are laid."

Mrs. Ross said the special force should be empowered to remove an abusive husband from a household, even jailing him if necessary.

She spoke on a 200-page brief from the 100-member Manitoba Volunteer Committee, which also recommended setting up of special apartment blocks for unmarried mothers or widowed or deserted women.

These blocks would provide extensive services, including day care and medical facilities, for the children of women living alone.

The brief called for elimination of all legal restrictions on dissemination of birth control information and said abortions should be made available on the request of the woman.

Encourage Indians

CAMPBELL RIVER, B.C. (CP) — The North Vancouver Island branch of the Women's Institute has aked the federal government to allow Indians living on reserves to borrow money for homes. The institute also said Canadian native pepoles should be encouraged to develop their own lands and industries.

Professors Blossom at Spring Graduations

THE WILDEST HATS IN TOWN

By MAUREEN DUFFUS

There is nothing quite like a straggle of professors wandering to their appointed places on graduation day, slightly bemused, never quite in line, a parade master's despair—but a colorful and exotic collection of individuals in their billowing gowns and way-out headgear.

The annual scramble for caps and gowns has been simplified since the University of Victoria has provided a rental service for its graduating students. These gowns are also available for other academic personages as long as dates do not conflict with Uvic's own graduation.

There was a time, though, when gowns were scarce, and professors as well as students appeared in unlikely combinations of academic dress.

Even now, there can be a last-minute snafu that will leave a professor of engineering appearing, to his humiliation, in an arts hood. The general public may not notice, but the engineer is uncomfortable.

VINTAGE GOWNS

Two years ago professors at Royal Roads who didn't use their own gowns were caught short when Uvic's rental service couldn't provide. The two graduation ceremonies conflicted.

Anyone with cap, hood or gown of any sort dug them out of mothballs and tossed them into the grab bag.

One venerable garment that came to light in the search was a vintage Edinburgh MA gown, circa 1880, which, when the mothball fumes disappeared and the dust was brushed off, appeared in excellent condition, if slightly green.

This same gown had served its original owner and his son on legal occasions, his grandchildren and others for graduation.

Once, it was worn with an archdeacon's mortarboard, stuffed with tissue paper and held on with bobby pins.

Most professors have their own gowns, but those who have graduated from European universities aren't always able to order them quickly. The doctoral gowns are especially fancy, and correspondingly expensive.

A woman scientist, an Oxford graduate married to another Oxford D.Phil., made gowns for herself and her husband after taking the pattern from a gown belonging to a well-heeled senior professor who had actually bought one. It was a triumph of mathematical measurements over material.

Quantities of red flannel are used in these flapping garments (Oxford buildings being damp and draughty) and the yoke consists of hundreds of shirred pleats. Sleeves and lapels are lined with bright royal blue taffeta and the effect is decidedly gaudy.

WHIMSICAL HATS

It is also, I'm told, a garment totally unsuited for heated Canadian auditoriums on hot summer days.

As for headgear, it's usually possible to rustle up an ordinary mortarboard, but graduates of European universities, and some Canadian universities at exalted degree levels, have no choice but to order their own whatever the cost.

It is not easy to find purple velvet berets trimmed with gold, or wine-red velvet poofs or floppy black velvet tams.

Still, I hope the universities continue to exercise their imaginations in the design of these traditional symbols of academic prestige.

The variety of color, design and trim provides a fascinating focus of attention during the duller speeches that launch the young into the world.

IN LILY POND

That ermine trim (real or fake?) is good for at least five minutes' meditation, and the rain dripping off the point of that scholarly gentleman's mortarboard onto his nose is positively hypnotic.

A final fashion note: There is one mortarboard belonging to an administrative official at a local institution of learning that has an original slant.

This is because top and bottom were glued back together at a rakish angle after the cap blew off into the campus lily pond during an address to the students—a highlight of the afternoon.

Male Montrealers Bemoan Hemline Dive to Kneecap

By KARIN MOSER

MONTREAL (CP) — The female thigh was nestled in yards of wool and plush fur Monday as hemlines dived almost to the kneecap for fall and winter coat and suit fashions.

While Montreal's males may bemoan the visual loss of the shapely femine leg, Joshar Inc. of Montreal, has compensated for its heartlessness with a gorgeous array of colors and fabrics which enhance the entire womanly shape.

Stealing the spotlight with a look that is completely feminine, is a new shade of burnt-orange lavishly cuffed and collared in white fox.

Longer seaming and sectional construction shape and contour the fashions to gently emphasize the bustline and accent a small waistline.

THE ROUNDED LOOK

New bouffant skirts and the dirndl look were evident in both coats and suits, lending a softly-rounded look to the female silhouette.

Tweeds, too, made a gala showing, fashioned into an elegant combination of teal and black herringbone ensembles with popular matching neck scarves and ties which, draped over the shoulder a la Valentino, are completely detachable.

Color combinations of gold and black and forest-green and black tweed were also applauded

The Montreal woman will be much warmer this winter as longer hemlines are complemented with casual long-sleeved dresses. Many dresses were two-toned and co-ordinated with wide belts which finally have found their resting place at the natural waistline after riding up and down for two years.

Black is back, more dramatic than ever in softly-clinging jersey tops coupled with skirts of imported wool fabrics to match coats or suit jackets.

Bold Prince of Wales plaid is cut skillfully into flowing capes with stand up collars beginning from the shoulder line rather than being attached separately at the neck.

INTRICATE DETAILS

The usual intricate details associated with the Joshar line made their appearance again and again in the form of pockets slashed at a surprising diagonal angle, or tie belts and removable collars which could be worn casually as stoles or shawls over black jersey tops when the suit jacket or coat was removed.

The look of the thirties took over in hats designed for the collection by Acme. Chapeaux featured the Robin Hood look in shades of sand and amber, complete with feather.

Black veiling, too, made an appearance on a black hat, with several inches of the alluring see-through material falling over the eyes and more veiling attached to the back of the hat.

Elegant color combinations of antiqued-pewter, sand and brass tones made a showing in a rich wool fabric coat luxuriously trimmed at the collar with ocelot fur and topped with an ocelot fur beret.

New Ship of Faith Smaller, Faster

By NORMAN CRIBBENS
Church Editor

All the year round, through winter storms and summer calm, into hidden bays and lonely inlets, goes the Anglican mission ship MV Columbia.

From a small beginning, when Dr. John Antle had a vision of an Anglican coast mission that would bring spiritual, physical and mental comfort to isolated loggers, villagers, fishermen and their families, four Columbia ships have plied the coastal waters.

For many years a 63-foot Columbia has ridden the Pacific swells with a crew of chaplain, doctor, captain and cook deckhand.

CHAPEL, SURGERY

There was a chapel on board for services and a surgery for the doctor's work.

Now this fourth Columbia has finished her service. She has been sold to a Vancouver yachtsman for $37,000 — and soon a smaller, 42-foot ship with a faster engine will take her place.

The new Columbia is being re-fitted, at a cost of $10,000, with radar, radio telephone, sounder, stove, fridge, chapel and surgery.

"She will be dedicated in a few week's time," says Archdeacon J. W. Forth of Victoria, who is superintendent of the Columbia Coast Mission.

Rev. Ivan Futter, former innkeeper and merchant seaman, will continue as chaplain of the mission and skipper of the new Columbia.

His parish includes Quadra and Cortes Islands in Johnstone Strait and Sayward on Vancouver Island.

"I've always been attracted to the sea," says red-bearded Mr. Futter. "Even my pub at Maldon, Essex, England, was called The Ship. Now I'm as much at home in the pulpit as I was behind the bar.

"That experience was of great value to my church work after I took holy orders. Theological colleges only prepare you for one side of the ministry; you have to learn the other side, too.

"It was in the pub that I first learned to listen to other people's problems."

Mr. Futter says the weather is unpredictable in Johnstone Strait, with winds sometimes roaring up to 80 and 85 miles an hour.

Two years ago an 80-mile gale blew the dinghy right off the ship; but a huge wave heaved it back on board.

Another threat, summer and winter, is fog.

Once the ship had an emergency call to pick up a woman on Gilford Island Indian reserve, who needed an emergency operation. The fog was so thick the crew couldn't see 10 feet beyond the bow.

"That was before we had radar," Mr. Futter said. "But the Columbia is a ship of faith and we managed to land by carefully picking our way through the rocks."

At Christmas, with a tree lashed to her mast, the mission ship sets out from headquarters loaded with supplies, gifts, candies and magazines, and the chaplain plays Santa Claus to isolated families.

Archdeacon Forth says the pastoral ministry of the mission has been adequately fulfilled by Mr. Futter assisted by Capt. Tom Armstrong of the Church Army, who is stationed at Kingcome.

NEARLY COMPLETE

"Now that the reorganization of the mission is almost complete," he said, "we look forward with optimism to carrying on the work of our founder, John Antle, and taking the ministry of the Word and Sacrament to isolated people along our coasts."

The old Columbia was built at New Westminster in 1956 by Star Shipyard (Mercer's) Ltd. She is 63-feet long and has a registered tonnage of 49.75.

She has done her work well and will continue usefully in private service.

What's Happening To Day of Rest?

Sunday is rapidly becoming a forgotten day in Canada where rest and worship are concerned, says Rev. A. S. McGrath, general secretary of the Lord's Day Alliance, Toronto.

"People who sell paint, autos, and clothing on Sunday do so in flagrant disregard for the law. The local excuse that the Lord's Day Act is federal and therefore not a local responsibility is nonsense."

Now visiting Victoria, Mr. McGrath said it is written in the act that all provinces have the right to enforce their own provisions if they wish.

"British Columbia should rewrite the act, as they have the right to do."

Mr. McGrath said, whenever the Lord's Day Act is broken, the attorney-general must give consent before a charge is laid.

"Some utilities in our highly technological society must keep open seven days a week. But shopping centres are not in this category."

FEELINGS ASKED

The minister met the executive of Greater Victoria Council of Churches Thursday at the Church of Our Lord to discuss the feeling about Open Sunday in Victoria.

Bishop Denys Rankilor asked Mr. McGrath what local churches could do to assist the Lord's Day Alliance.

He replied:

"Our aim is, let every man consider his brother and not deprive him of his day of rest. The Lord's Day Alliance takes no puritanical view of Sunday.

"But it does seek to educate Canadians to the value of a day which has long proven beneficial to society. It is highly questionable whether even Christians in Canada are behind the Lord's Day Alliance."

'WHAT RIGHT?'

Canon Grahame Baker, president of the council of churches, said many people ask: "What right have we to impose Sunday observance on our citizens?"

Mr. McGrath said it is the responsibility of all churches to uphold Sunday as a social institution.

"The duty of a Christian society is to preserve Sunday as a sacred heritage."

Rev. Dr. Samuel Parsons, former president of the council of churches, said Sunday provides three essentials to modern man — opportunity to rest, to worship and to be with his family.

'Hold Thy Right Hand'

"They that war against thee shall be as nothing, and as a thing of nought. For I the Lord thy God will hold thy right hand, saying unto thee, Fear not; I will help thee." These verses from Isaiah are the text of the lesson-sermon to be read in all Christian Science churches this Sunday.

World Church Leader Retires

NEW YORK (AP) — Dr. Franklin Clark Fry, president of the 3,300,000-member Lutheran Church in America, announced Friday he is giving up his church post for reasons of health.

The word came from New Rochelle Hospital, where Dr. Fry, 67, is a patient. Associates said he entered the hospital last week for tests, and that he is "gravely ill."

Dr. Fry is the long-time chairman of the central committee of the World Council of Churches, its interim policy-making body, as well as head of its executive committee. It includes most major protestant and Orthodox denominations.

His resignation will be effective, he said, at a date to be set by the U.S. church's executive committee, following election of a successor at the church's biennial governing convention in Atlanta, Ga., June 19.

'I'M A PARISH PRIEST, FIRST AND FOREMOST'

Canon Charles Bishop, director of missionary education at Church House, Toronto, will become rector of St. George's Anglican Church, Cadboro Bay, on July 1.

He succeeds Rev. Dr. N. S. Noel, who is retiring.

Asked why he is giving up his job at Church House and returning to work as a parish priest, Canon Bishop said:

"I am a parish priest, first and foremost, and any other work I do in diocese or at national level will always have to stand on that basis.

"I'm convinced that priests who work at Church House should come in from the grass-roots level of parish work and do a specific task; then return to the field, never remaining for more than five years at most."

"In recognition of her work through the years, the church gave her an honorary Doctor of Divinity degree, and she was honored by the Queen with an MBE.

Canon Rogers said Miss Hasell would like to hear from any who are ready to give their time to this type of missionary enterprise.

Miss Susan Gibson of 36 Howe Street is her official representative in Victoria.

Early Service For Weekenders

DUNCAN — To combat the call of the outdoors during the summer, Trinity Lutheran Church will experiment with an 8:30 a.m. service on Sundays through June, July and August.

Rev. Baldwin Camin said the 11 a.m. service will be continued but the earlier service is to accommodate members of the congregation who want to take off for the rest of the day.

He said he hopes in future years to experiment with Thursday evening services on an all-year-round basis.

On Sunday, June 9, a concert of sacred music will replace normal evening service at St. John's Church.

PREVIEW

Young music teacher from Queen Margaret's School for Girls, Miss Isobel Davies, will play the organ and regular organist C. A. (Bob) Howard will conduct the choir. Mrs. John (Margaret) Sargeant will be soloist.

Rev. Gordon Walker of St. David's, Cordova Bay, will be at St. John's Hall Wednesday evening next week to preview a June 14, 15 and 16 conference which he will convene in the parish dealing with public relations.

St. John's rector, Rev. Allan Kerr, describes Wednesday's session as a "mini-lab." Anyone interested in the public relations work of the church is invited.

PICNIC

The annual St. John's parish picnic is venturing further afield than usual this year. Children and adults will go by bus June 23 to Yellow Point Lodge Beach, Cedar, after the morning service.

Monday evening there is to be a mother-and-daughter banquet of the CGIT branch of Duncan United Church.

A unique feature will be that the toast to the mothers will be proposed by Shannon Braithwaite, and responded to by her mother.

Ten members of the Hi-Cs group of teen-agers of Duncan United hope to attend the Christian leadership training course at Naramata this summer.

To help out in meeting their expenses the group will hold a car wash next Saturday at the local Shop-Easy parking lot.

DONATED $150

The Church Sunday school and AOTS club have already donated $150 and $50 respectively to the Naramata bursary fund.

Canon Hilary Butler, Anglican chaplain at Uvic, will speak on faith healing at the June 9 morning services at St. Andrew's, Cowichan Station, and St. Peter's, Quamichan.

A combined parish picnic for the parish will be staged on the grounds of the home of Mr. and Mrs. David Pite, June 23.

Prior to the picnic the church Sunday school awards will be presented in the two churches of the parish.

The youth of the church will conduct the evening worship in Duncan Bethel Baptist Church.

Thursday evening the congregation's Pioneer Girls' group will have its winter program finale.

Guest speaker will be Mrs. Harry Shepherd, wife of the minister of Brae Road Gospel Church. She will also show slides of missionary work in Nigeria, where her daughter and son-in-law are working in a hospital as doctor and nurse.

Rev. Bruce Molloy of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Victoria, will occupy the pulpit in the Namsake Church in Duncan Sunday morning, June 9.

Teenager Leads 'Dance' Religion

TOKYO (AP) — A 17-year-old high school junior is the new spiritual leader of a popular post war Japanese cult known as the "dancing religion."

Kiyokazu Kitamura is the head of Tensho Kotai Jingu-kyo —Great Heaven Singing Goddess religion—often referred to as Odoru Shukyo, or "dancing religion."

She succeeds her grandmother, Sayo Kitamura, a farmer's wife who founded the cult in 1944 when she claimed God entered her abdomen and gave her directions on how to behave and speak to cleanse the world of its sin and evil.

Out of Mrs. Kitamura's teachings was born the "dance of ecstasy," a child-like, praying, chanting, slow twisting, turning and twirling of the arms, hands, head and body.

Mrs. Kitamura died last Dec. 28 at the age of 67. It was her dying wish that Miss Kiyokazu replace her.

Known as the Great Goddess, Mrs. Kitamura built up a following estimated at 350,000 in Japan, with another 30,000 believers in 32 other countries. She travelled far, although thousands also journeyed to her farm at Tabuse in southern Japan.

When Miss Kiyokazu, formerly known as the Princess Goddess, became Dancing Goddess II, she told her audience: "I shall carry on the teachings of the Great Goddess and help build a world faithful to her teachings."

DIDN'T FEEL LONELY

At her first press conference, dressed in a dark mini-dress, the youthful goddess said: "I don't feel as lonely as I thought I would. I was prepared for her death. I've always been with the Great Goddess. When she was travelling abroad I took her picture to bed with me. Now I feel her presence closer than ever."

Miss Kiyokazu was separated from her parents and grew up with her grandmother. Miss Kiyokazu was aware of her mission in life as she went to primary school with other youngsters in the neighborhood.

She had been told often that grandmother would die some day and that she was to become the second Dancing Goddess.

She says she wanted to study vocal music. "I wanted to study in Vienna," she said. "But I guess I can still take voice lessons as a hobby."

Miss Kiyokazu often meditates alone in the huge auditorium of the spacious, completely unadorned ultra-modern temple,, which sits on a hill overlooking Tabuse.

On one occasion, Mrs. Kitamura's parish gathered at the pier in Yokohama to wish her bon voyage on one of her many missionary pilgrimages to Hawaii. As the steamship slowly pulled away, the flock broke into the "dance of ecstacy." Several whirled themselves right into the sea.

DEAN BURKE
. . . prominent, well-liked

Memorial Service Held for Dean Burke

A memorial service was held in Christ Church Cathedral, Vancouver, this morning for Very Rev. Northcote Burke, 64, dean and rector of the cathedral for 15 years.

He died in Vancouver General Hospital Wednesday.

Dean Burke came to Vancouver in 1953 to take over Christ Church Cathedral. His profound preaching, unfailing energy and man-of-the-world approach soon won him many friends.

He worked with youth and on general synod committees and was a prominent and sometimes controversial preacher.

In 1961 he said he would oppose any movement to stop people attending sports events on Sundays.

The son of a newspaper editor, Philip H. Burke, he was born at Kingston, Ont., in 1903. After graduating at Trinity College, Toronto, he was ordained at Kingston at the age of 22.

He was rector of St. John's Church, Ottawa, from 1937 to 1948, and rector of Christ Church, Deer Park, Toronto, before coming to the coast.

Surviving are the widow, Dorothy; a son, Philip, in Vancouver; and his mother, Mrs. Philip H. Burke at Kingston.

Camp Registrations Invited

Children from 9 to 16 can now register for the 20th season of Camp Miriam on Gabriola Island.

The camp is sponsored by the Habonim Camping Association which operates the world's largest network of Zionist camps.

There will be three two-week sessions, July 7-21; July 21-Aug. 4; Aug. 4-18.

Would-be campers should contract Miss Susan Aizenman, Camp Miriam Registrar, 911 West 71st Avenue, Vancouver; phone 327-4277 or 266-0712.

"The camp offers young people a unique experience of camping in an atmosphere which is vibrant and relevantly Jewish," Miss Aizenman said.

"It provides happy, wholesome recreation, coupled with a Jewish experience to be valued forever. There are Zionist and Israeli study programs, arts and crafts, boating, swimming and athletics, Jewish cultural and religious programs, scouting, hiking, photography, archery and nature study."

Improve Water Supply At Columbia

A new 5,000-gallon storage tank is to be installed at Camp Columbia — the Anglican church's retreat on Thetis Island.

"The present well is to be re-equipped," said Dick Batey, spokesman for Camp Columbia.

He added that Archbishop Harold Sexton has approved expenditures for improvement of the fresh water supply.

"The archbishop's prayers on behalf of water are particularly efficacious," said Archdeacon A. E. Hendy, a member of the finance committee of the Anglican Synod of British Columbia (Vancouver Island).

Mr. Batey said the annual series of summer camps for youngsters will begin at the end of June and continue through July and August.

"There are some vacancies in all camps and parents or their youngsters should contact their local clergy as soon as possible for application forms."

Rev. Leonard Jenner of St. John's Church is working out a program for the camps.

"He is lining up a high-calibre volunteer staff," Mr. Batey said. "Anyone wishing to participate in this work should contact Mr. Jenner."

No Politics From Pulpit, Rules Cleric

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — There will be no "politics from the pulpit" in St. John's Anglican Church in Kingston.

Rev. Arthur N. Thompson said Friday he sent letters to the three candidates seeking election in the riding of Kingston and the Islands but "at no time did we invite them to use the pulpit."

He said that he and the church warden had verbally agreed that the candidates would speak from the chancel steps.

Mr. Thompson said Brendan McConnell, New Democratic Party candidate, would speak from the chancel steps Sunday, June 9, and Bogart W. Trumpour, Progressive Conservative candidate, would speak from the same location June 16.

He said E. J. B. Benson, Liberal incumbent and finance minister, preferred not to speak during a religious service but would speak to the parishioners in the parish hall June 23.

Mr. Thompson said the letter to the candidates did not specifically name a location from which the speakers could make their address, only that it could be made during the time usually taken by the sermon.

Organ Recital By Assistant

Peter Bishop, assistant organist at Christ Church Cathedral, will give an organ recital in the cathedral Wednesday at 8 p.m.

Mr. Bishop, now studying at Victoria Conservatory of Music, will play Bach's Passacaglia and Fugue, a Gibbons Fantasia, a fanfare by the modern English composer Kenneth Leighton, and Litanies by Jehan Alain.

INSIDE CITY HALL

Making Waves About A New Swimming Pool

By JIM HUME
Times City Hall Reporter

The mail, as suspected, wasn't heavy: but the vote was solidly in favor of Mayor Hugh Stephen's ideas on swimming pools.

Readers may recall that a couple of weeks ago we invited comments on the ideas being kicked around for the design of the pool to replace the Crystal. Ald. Percy Frampton leaned the utilitarian way. Mayor Stephen favors the forward look with the pool designed basically as a relaxation, recreation area with competive swimming provided for, but de-emphasized. The dribble of mail and flood of telephone calls were unanimous: a recreational pool with waterfalls and waves is what our readers would like to see.

Hume

Jean Gonsalves, 2535 Cranmore Road, used her vote for Mayor Stephen in her first paragraph, took a quick swipe at Oak Bay council and went on to get a major complaint on record while she was writing.

"Hurrah for Mayor Stephen. Do let's have some forward thinking SOMEWHERE in Victoria. A recreational pool could be a gold mine for the city. Since we can't get one in Oak Bay, please make it soon."

* * *

But that was just for starters.

"Whilst I have pen to paper, the downtown area, particularly the Inner Harbor vicinity, just has to provide, visitors and residents, with a decent rest station. That is, washrooms, emergency station, first aid booth and some sort of chairs or benches for weary or sick people.

"With a full-time attendant."

There was more, but I think the brief quote sufficient to sum up once again what must be one of the oldest demands in the city.

If the information is of any use to the mayor or Ald. Frampton, most of the telephoned opinions came from young people.

Whether the column was required reading (heaven forbid) in school that week or whether the word just got around I don't know. But the youngsters, all in the 15 to 17 bracket, thought the mayor's suggestion "groovy, mint and really in."

And that, according to my sons in the same age bracket, means they think the mayor's proposal excellent.

A progress report on the pool site stands this way: land acquisition is proceeding quietly with an announcement on the site scheduled shortly.

* * *

When the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities is called to order Monday morning Greater Victoria will be well represented.

Mayor Stephen will be there, chairing one of the study seminars. Mayor Hugh Curtis will be there, two days ahead of others, to assist with getting resolutions into debatable form. Mayor Ray Bryant will be there and, at the last count, so will Mayor Fred Hawes and Mayor Gordon Lee.

That should make a fairly strong lobby for any moves the Saanich Peninsula needs support.

Keynote speaker at the four-day conference is a young fellow named Pierre Elliott Trudeau who appears to have a better than average chance of staying in office as Canada's Prime Minister.

Two other well-known names will also be in Edmonton next week, men like Robert Stanfield and Tommy Douglas. Could make for the brightest election meeting of the federal election campaign if they're invited to share a common platform one night.

If it happens, the Times will be on had to tell you what they look like side-by-side.

ANGLICAN Archbishop Harold Sexton was presented with Silver Sword of the Catholic Knights of Columbus at dinner in Red Lion Inn Friday night. Sword is given annually to one who best exemplifies public service for his fellow men. There are no restrictive rules as to race, religion or station in life. Archbishop Sexton has retired as metropolitan of B.C., but continues as bishop of the diocese on Vancouver Island.

Relic Search In Desert Reprieved

YERMO, Calif. (AP) — Archaeologists are back at work uncovering evidence of ancient man's presence in this arid land —with a 30-day reprieve.

A miner, Glenn S. Gunn, who holds claims to the barren Mojave Desert site of the diggings, had given the scientists until sundown Friday to leave, but said later: "We'll have it worked out in 30 days.'

The researchers are working to prove that rock fragments taken from 20-foot-deep pits in the Calico Mountains, 10 miles east of Barstow, are Stone Age tools which may date back as far as 120,000 years, or that the fragments show evidence of being worked by such tools.

This would be the earliest evidence of man's existence in the Western Hemisphere.

Dr. Louis Leakey, discoverer of the earliest known human remains, supports their contention. He has said the findings are "unquestionably the result of human activity."

But the first problem for the scientists is to remain at their diggings long enough to further substantiate their find.

Gunn says the excavation work is complicating attempts to complete negotiations involving part of his claims and is keeping him from mining bentonite, a rare earth.

Youth Attack Rest Homes

A magazine which promises "an expose on Victoria rest homes" will be published here in mid-June.

It will be the second issue of "Peter's Magazine" produced by the Social Education Centre and edited by the well-known, youth leader Charles Barber.

Fifty pages, it will be similar to the first edition published last October said Mr. Barber.

"I will describe one rest home which is really a composite of the things wrong with various rest homes here," he said.

Also included in June's issue is an article on drugs, warning against the use of "speed" — methedrine.

Remand Granted In Theft Case

A Burnaby man convicted Friday of stealing a camera worth more than $200 was remanded to next week for sentence.

Court was told Peter Holbrook, 41, shared a hotel room last October with Harry Bos, who later noticed his camera missing.

A watchmaker, Henry Lyus, testified that Holbrook had left the camera with him as security for $20 and $30 loans.

Holbrook told Magistrate Ostler he told Bos he had borrowed the camera and received his approval.

Sentence will be passed Friday.

B.C. Funeral Service Association members will provide funerals without cost for all B.C. subscribers to Pineview Memorial Plan

Although no members of the B.C.F.S.A. were involved in the defunct Pineview Memorial Plan or other similar schemes, and even though the Association disapproves of promoting prearranged funerals in this way*, in order to protect the good name of the funeral industry as a whole, B.C.F.S.A. members have agreed to furnish an adequate funeral for anyone living in British Columbia who is known to have been covered by the Pineview Memorial Plan. The Vancouver Crematorium will furnish any cremations involved, without charge.

While we are endeavouring to make this commitment as nearly unconditional as possible, there are some minor qualifications to our offer - for instance, we regret we cannot be of assistance in cases where the funeral took place before our members assumed this project. Pineview Memorial subscribers in B.C. are invited to contact the B.C.F.S.A. at 806 Granville Ave., Richmond for details and confirmation of our undertaking.

*We recommend the Canada Purple Shield Plan for those wishing to buy funeral insurance. The plan is operated by Pierce National Life Assurance Co., whose B.C. branch office is at 1909 W. Broadway, Vancouver, B.C. Phone 736-5220.

40 B.C.F.S.A. members throughout the province have agreed to participate in this project. In this area, participating funeral directors are:

POLITICAL ROUNDUP

Grit Levies Charge Of 'Go for Broke'

VANCOUVER — Jack Davis, federal minister without portfolio, Friday accused New Democratic Party leader T.C. Douglas of inciting workers in Southern Ontario to "go for broke and ask for money money."

Mr. Davis told a Liberal rally: "If they get more pay, people in the rest of the country get less. We're going to have to pay for it in increased prices.

"This is merely transferring power from the less powerful to the more powerful," he said.

He said Mr. Douglas was a "mouthpiece of big unions" and said the NDP leader is "beholden to the U.S. because he has the backing of these organizations — international and often American-dominated unions."

★ ★ ★

PRINCE GEORGE — Former Manitoba premier Duff Roblin said Friday a vote for the Liberals is a vote for higher taxes.

Mr. Roblin, Progressive Conservative candidate in Winnipeg South Centre, told a rally of supporters in this central British Columbia city that tax increases are inevitable if the Liberals are given free rein in Ottawa.

He said the country is in "serious trouble" financially because of "bad management" by the Liberals. Mr. Roblin, who lost the Tory leadership to Robert Stanfield last Fall, said the government has been trying to borrow large sums on the New York money market.

"But the Americans haven't given it to them yet," he said.

Mr. Roblin said a Conservative government would bring back discipline in government financing and introduce a system of priorities in future developments.

The former Manitoba Tory leader flew here from Fort St. John in the Peace River district earlier in the day. Speaking to about 40 persons there, Mr. Roblin emphasized unity.

★ ★ ★

EDMONTON — William Hawrelak, former mayor of Edmonton, announced today he will run as an independent Liberal candidate in Edmonton Centre.

Mr. Hawrelak lost to Don Gray by 90 votes May 16 in a four-man contest for the Liberal nomination in the constituency.

Mr. Hawrelak, who served six terms as mayor before being defeated by Vince Dantzer in 1966, was a Liberal candidate in Edmonton East in the 1957 election but lost by 284 votes to a Social Credit opponent.

★ ★ ★

EDMONTON — Agriculture Minister Greene pulled a couple of tactics out of his Liberal leadership campaign bag Friday night when he appeared before an election rally on behalf of Edmonton West candidate Tevie Miller.

"There was never a time when we needed new members from Western Canada like we do now," Mr. Greene told about 700 Liberal faithful.

When he campaigned for leadership of the party earlier, this year lack of representation in Western Canada was a major plank in his platform.

Mr. Greene said the Liberals couldn't "really say we were a national party."

He said it was difficult to keep a firm liaison with the West because of poor representation in Ottawa and said the party "is challenged to reaffirm that the Liberals are indeed a national party."

★ ★ ★

QUEBEC CITY—Jean Marchand said here Friday night he will take immediate action on a report that discrimination has been practised by Canadian Manpower centres.

A request for an investigation into the charge is contained in a letter to Marchand from Arthur Gibbons, chairman of the national committee on human rights of the Canadian Labor Congress. A copy of the letter, sent earlier this week, was made public in Toronto earlier.

In it, Mr. Gibbons notes that an April, 1967, study by a Jewish labor organization showed discriminatory practices in 17 of the 21 federal employment offices.

Only in four offices, the Jewish Labor Committee of Canada said, did federal civil servants state a clear refusal to accept requests by employers that the office discriminate in choosing persons to fill jobs.

$350 Fine

Hugh McGillivray 3955 Holland, was fined $350 Friday for impaired driving.

Court was told he was observed April 26 driving in an erratic manner on Tilicum Road.

His driver's licence was suspended two months.

Checkers is a highly scientific game. If you doubt this, just try winning with the White side in 10 moves at right.

Clue: White's strategy is to press a relentless attack, forcing Black to jump in each of six consecutive turns.

Millard Hopper's solution is provided below.

Solution: White 28-19, Black 24-15, White 20-16, Black 12-19, White 10-7, Black 3-10, White 14-10, Black 5-14, White 6-2, Black 15-16, White 2-9-18-25, Black 30-21, White 8-15-24-31-22-18, Black 21-25, White 13-17, 25-30, 17-22, etc.

THIS HAS A SOCK TO IT

After taking his bath, Doakes came into his bedroom to get a clean pair of socks. In one of the drawers of his bureau there were four pairs of grey socks, four pairs of blue, and four pairs of brown, but Doakes is messy about his things and the socks were in a jumbled pile, not gathered by matching pairs.

Just as Doakes reached his bureau, the bulb in his room burned out, leaving him in darkness. But Doakes took a number of socks from the drawer at random, and went into another room into the light, confident that he had a matching pair.

State, within 15 seconds, the smallest number of single socks he had to pick up to be sure of a pair.

Solution: He had to pick up four.

WEIGHT-AGE GIVEAWAY STUNT

You can determine a person's age and how much he weighs from the following computation: Ask the person to take his weight, double it and add five. Have him multiply this sum by 50.

Next, ask him to add to this a sum of 1718. From the total have him subtract the year of his birth. The resulting amount reveals first his weight and then his age.

"Pussycat, Pussycat, where have you been?" reads a nursery rhyme. Recall the rest and you have a clue to something that's missing from the diagram above. What can it be? To find out, simply draw a line beginning at 1, draw to 2, to 3, and so on to dot 20. Where two numbers are beside one dot, use dot twice.

Coloring clue: Purple and gold are appropriate colors for the missing object. Add them imaginatively and neatly.

Answer: Missing object is the queen's crown. Pussycat went to London to see the queen, if you recall.

Poverty Program

CUT RED TAPE TRUDEAU AIM

By VICTOR MACKIE
Times Ottawa Bureau

MONCTON, N.B. — Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau charged here Friday there has been "too much red tape" and insufficient co-ordination in the organization of regional development programs to end pockets of poverty.

Formation of a proposed new department of Atlantic regional development was aimed at cutting down on the "red tape" and improving the development programs, he said.

Mr. Trudeau, making a four-day election swing through the Maritime provinces and into Newfoundland today, told a cheering audience here that the Liberal party does not stand for "give-away programs." He said the Liberals "know there are no such things."

"I am convinced that the voter is not interested in a party that wants to levy its way into power with taxes. It is you voters and taxpayers who will have to pay.

"But we will not hesitate to spend the money that must be spent to bring equality of opportunity to those regions, and to those groups of people who have as yet little share in the affluent society," said Mr. Trudeau.

Preaching his proposals for a "just society" he said he was speaking not only of the areas in Atlantic provinces which were suffering from economic disparity but of groups all over such as the Eskimo, Indian and Metis populations — in the west and in the east.

There were also areas which in a marginal economy of primary resources — forestry, fishing, subsistence farming, which lacked those well developed service industries offering jobs and a decent living. The result was that there were areas where there was a poverty cycle that was hard to

New Housing Plan Pledged

Special to The Times

FORT WILLIAM — A Conservative government would create a new federal department of housing with a full-time cabinet minister, party leader Robert Stanfield pledged Friday.

A Tory administration would also eliminate the 11 per cent sales tax on building materials to make housing construction less expensive.

These two promises — and several more dealing with the housing crisis in Canada — were made by Stanfield before an audience of more than 1,000 persons in the Fort William Coliseum Friday night.

They were made at the conclusion of a day which saw the Stanfield campaign suddenly catch fire in central and western Ontario.

At both Sault Ste. Marie, where 400 businessmen turned out to lunch with the leader, and at Fort William, the crowds were overwhelming, noisy, excited and turned on to Stanfield.

It was the best campaigning day the Conservative has had yet, and his broad smile at the end of the day showed the effort was worth it.

Friday also saw Stanfield depart from his usual speech for the first time in two weeks and deliver a colorful and emotional expression of what being a Canadian means to him.

His comments on Canadian life, delivered first at the Sault Ste. Marie gathering and then again at night, brought tears to they eyes of more than a few listeners, and wild applause from the others.

DRUG PRICE LAW DOOMED—NDP

GUELPH, Ont. (CP) — T. C. Douglas says a gigantic lobby spelled the doom in the last Parliament of a government bill aimed at reducing the cost of precription drugs.

The New Democratic Party leader, speaking Friday night at a NDP rally here, said the bill would not be revived after the June 25 federal election by either a Liberal or Conservative government.

Mr. Douglas, on a campaign tour of southern Ontario, ran into his first serious heckling but the interrutpion only enlivened what otherwise was a quiet meeting.

About 50 persons, slightly more than half the capacity of the Ross Collegiate auditorium, sat quietly as Mr. Douglas flayed the Liberal government for what he termed lack of policies to combat the high cost of living.

Earlier in the day, the NDP leader got a warm reception from about 300 students at the Ontario Agricultural College when the theme of his address was what he said was United States domination of the Canadian economy.

He told the evening rally the government had allowed the Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association of Canada "to hold up the sick for ransom for far too long." The government bill to amend the patents and trademarks acts would have been a start in forcing down drug prices. He said these costs could be reduced by as much as 45 per cent.

Mr. Douglas said the Manufacturers Association, which produces 85 per cent of Canadian drugs, makes the highest percentage profit of any manufacturing industry in Canada.

His party's program included a commission to control advertising and promotion costs, he said. It would reduce patent, trademark and tax barriers and stimulate real price competition in the drug field.

YACHTS SWARM BEFORE SWIFTSURE START LINE

Mary Bower Takes Lead In Swiftsure

By ALAN WHITE

Sloops of the Royal Vancouver Yacht Club took the lead as the Swiftsure entered its third hour.

Positions just before press time at 12:30 were:

First, Mary Bower, skippered by J. H. Long of the RVYC; second, Crusader, skippered by Ken McKrae, also of the RVYC. Third place was held by Mongolo III, whose skipper's name was not available.

In the Juan de Fuca race, Shenandoah, a sloop skippered by Ken McKrae of the CYC, held the lead. She was followed by Lara, a second sloop out of the CYC skippered by W. Herman.

(See story Page 35)

A light breeze from the southeast scooped in from behind the Swiftsure starting line this morning to give H. L. Kotkins' yawl Diamond Head a good lead in the annual classic.

The rest of the yacht-pack shot across the line so tightly bunched the second boat across could not be determined.

By midmorning Seattle Yacht Club's Diamond Head was still holding her lead over 90 challengers.

Winds were strong enough to move them rapidly out of sight, boding well for the race that almost didn't run last year for lack of wind.

Then the boats that started from the line off Brotchie Ledge just sat becalmed, with the midway point in the race 68 miles away. But today's wind made it much more a racer's

NOT ONLY WRONG WAY —BUT THEY MISSED!

LONDON (AP)—A Royal Navy frigate accidentally fired two shells toward a government atomic research station on the south coast of England, the navy reported today. The shots missed.

Officers at Portland Royal Navy station said the frigate Arethusa somehow banged off two practice shells Tuesday with the ship's guns pointing toward shore instead of out to sea.

The shells landed in farm country two miles west of the Winfith Nuclear Centre in Dorset.

The missiles were duds filled with sand but one of them started a cattle stampede.

CLOTTING PROBLEMS

Heart Patient Turns 'Critical'

MONTREAL (CP) — Albert Murphy, Canada's first heart-transplant patient, was reported in "critical" condition today, some 30 hours after the 59-year-old retired butcher was given the heart of a 38-year-old woman.

In a bulletin issued today and signed by Dr. Paul David, director of the Montreal Heart Institute, Mr. Murphy was reported as having been "able to maintain satisfactory blood pressure without the assistance of the mechanical heart during a five-hour period" overnight.

"However, blood coagulation problems have appeared and his condition remains critical," the bulletin said.

"Mr. Murphy is conscious and continues with us his struggle for survival."

Friday night, Dr. David reported Mr. Murphy's condition had "stabilized" and the electrocardiogram readings were "encouraging."

DEEP FREEZE NO THREAT TO PENSION

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Detroit pensioner thinking of having his body frozen alive for 10 years and then thawed out is chilled by the prospect of losing his social security cheques in the meantime.

But Senator Robert P. Griffin (Rep.—Mich.) says he checked the matter out for the man and finds he'd get his money "as long as competent evidence shows the person to be alive."

There has been talk of freezing live bodies as a way of saving victoms of fatal diseases until cures are discovered.

But there is no record that anyone has tried it.

34 MEN, WOMAN SAIL IN OCEAN CHALLENGE

PLYMOUTH, England (Reuters) — Thirty-four men and a woman with her dog sailed in pouring rain today on the third, 3,000-mile single-handed trans-Atlantic yacht race.

Hundreds of persons thronged Plymouth Harbor as a light breeze carried the lone mariners out into the English Channel.

Then they set a course west for Newport, R.I.—more than three solitary weeks away.

The yachtsmen are striving to beat the record of 27 days set by Frenchman Eric Tabarly in the last race in 1964.

Tabarly is strongly favored to win this year's race in his 65-foot trimaran Pen Duick IV, the biggest craft in the event.

West German secretary Edith Baumann, 26, accompanied by her French mongrel Schatz, was among the starters in her 39-foot trimaran Koala III.

The race, sponsored by The Observer, was first held in 1960.

It was won by Briton Sir Francis Chichester who became a national hero by circling the world alone in his yacht Gypsy Moth IV last year.

Sir Francis came second to Tabarly in the 1964 race. He is not competing this year.

N. Viets May Ease Bomb Halt Demand

PARIS (AP)—North Vietnam may be preparing to outflank its own barrier to progress in the Paris talks and move the discussion to broad peacemaking issues without insisting on an immediate end of the bombing in the North.

This possibility is being studied by U.S. officials. It arises from wording used in the North Vietnamese Communist party paper Nhan Dan today.

Nhan Dan said that before other problems in the peacemaking process can be discussed, the U.S. "must first of all clearly acknowledge its responsibility to put a definitive and unconditional end to bombing and all other acts of war on the whole Democratic Republic of Vietnam territory."

Hanoi had previously said flatly that the U.S. must end the bombing and other acts of war against the North before progress could be made here. The new element in the Nhan Dan statement was the demand that Washington "acknowledge its responsibility."

Observers felt this might mean Hanoi is now prepared to accept only an admission of responsibility, rather than continuing to demand an actual bombing halt, in order to take a new tack in the talks.

NEW ADVISER

This new formulation of an old North Vietnamese demand coincided with the assignment of a new North Vietnamese adviser to the delegation here headed by Ambassador Xuan Thuy.

WINNIPEG EYES 'BOND' LOTTERY

EDMONTON (CP) — Winnipeg Mayor Steve Juba said his city has a plan for raising money through bonus prizes on savings bonds, but the plan is being delayed until a legal opinion is obtained from the Manitoba attorney-general's department.

Mr. Juba told the Edmonton Chamber of Commerce the scheme is based on the voluntary tax plan recently introduced in Montreal.

He said the Montreal plan "is a lottery in the true sense of the word, and they're being pretty successful in raising money."

He said the Winnipeg proposal is to sell $10 savings bonds maturing in 36 months.

During the life of the bond, the buyer would qualify every month to win $20,000 in a raffle. No interest would be paid; after 36 months the bond would be redeemable at face value.

He estimated the system would allow the city to raise funds at about 2½ per cent instead of about 7½ per cent.

He said the money so raised would be used for such services as sewage plants, pollution control and hospitals.

Mr. Juba said he feels there is nothing immoral about lotteries even though they are illegal.

"Our whole criminal law is stupid in many respects and needs revision.

"If I had my way I'd go down to the printers and start on these bonds today."

Industrial Turmoil Ends In France

Times News Services

PARIS — The wheels of industry creaked slowly into motion as France today began emerging from two weeks of paralyzing student-worker turmoil.

The new French cabinet, extensively reshuffled to bring in nine new faces and to axe all ministers directly concerned with student and worker unrest, was scheduled to meet for the first time this morning.

Informed sources said the new ministers probably will introduce new measures to capitalize on the salutary shock of President de Gaulle's tough speech Thursday.

Tension seemed to dissipate after de Gaulle ordered general elections but threatened to use force if government authority was challenged.

Trade union leaders who had been demanding a change of regime in return for an end to the strike retreated to their original economic demands for higher salaries and a shorter work week.

The Communist party and its trade union arm, the General Confederation of Labor, announced they would participate in the elections June 23 and 30 for a new National Assembly.

Use Troops if Necessary

The government planned a call-up of military reservists if "installations vital to economic life" remain strikebound.

The reservists would be used to man such installations, observers said.

To guard against violence, de Gaulle has quietly strengthened military and national police units in and near Paris.

The back-to-work movement today was gradual, but distinct. The army was called in to provide suburban transport, control air traffic and clean up the streets of Paris.

Police have cleared strike pickets from some of the post offices and telephone buildings.

The following developments highlighted the easing Labor scene:

—Strikers and management have reached a draft agreement in the nationalized gas and electricity industries. A union spokesman said they were still far from satisfied with the salary increases, but they had won important concessions. The increases were reported to be 20 per cent for the lowest paid workers and 12 per cent for those at the top.

—Hopes are high that the merchant navy will be back at work by the middle of the week. Antoine Weil, delegate general of the central committee of French shipowners, commented: "It seems that the present discussions between owners, officers and sailors should soon end in a return to work."

—The management of the Peugeot car factory announced their personnel will be back at work Tuesday in Paris, Mulhouse and Vesoul. Steps to start up their other factories will be taken the same day.

—Other sectors in which work has started or is expected to start include railways, Paris public transport, the post office and telephones, oil refineries and banks.

Full extent of the back to work movement by 10,000,000 strikers will not be known for at least three days because of a three-day bank holiday weekend.

New Supply of Gasoline

One of the most encouraging signs of a return to normal was a long stream of cars pouring out of the capital all night as Parisians took a chance and went on holiday.

Paris had its first new supply of gasoline in 10 days.

De Gaulle, beginning his 11th year in office today, was expected to pass the holiday at work in Elysee Palace.

The cabinet purge Friday saw Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville changing roles with Finance Minister Michel Debre in a bid to heal the French economy of deep wounds inflicted by two weeks of strikes.

Economists estimated that strike damage now runs at least $2,400,000,000 in lost production alone.

The new cabinet moved slightly to the left with the entry of three men from the left wing of the Gaullist movement. Among them was the new justice minister, Rene Capitant.

Interior Minister Christian Fouchet, Youth Minister Francois Missoffe, Social Affairs Minister Jean-Marcel Jeanneney, Information Minister Georges Gorse and Justice Minister Louis Joxe all lost their jobs.

Former education minister Alain Peyrefitte, who resigned earlier this week, was not given a new post.

De Gaulle supporters held demonstrations Friday in Le Havre, Marseille, Lyon, Angouleme, Limoges, Lille, Strasbourg and a dozen other cities. An estimated 75,000 marched in Lyon.

The only counter-demonstration involved about 25,000 workers, students and peasants in Nantes, where the first strike in the movement began May 13 at the Sud-Aviation plane factory.

The National Union of French Students cancelled an anti-government demonstration it had scheduled for Friday night.

Students still occupied various buildings of the University of Paris, but were forced by fire to leave the Sorbonne at least temporarily.

More than 70 firemen battled more than an hour to extinguish the fire, which apparently broke out in a third-floor room of the six-storey building and burned a large hole in the roof.

40 Viet Cong Holding Out In Saigon

SAIGON (AP) — About 30 or 40 Viet Cong held out in the heart of Saigon's Chinese section today against South Vietnamese troops and recoilless rifles which blasted buildings into rubble.

A somewhat larger force attacked when U.S. and South Vietnamese police shifts changed at 4 a.m. But some of the guerrillas slipped out when the government declared a 20-minute truce to allow several hundred refugees to flee the embattled five-block-square area in southwestern Saigon.

South Vietnamese planes attacked guerrillas menacing the opposite side of the capital. They bombed and strafed housing areas 2½ miles northeast of Saigon's centre. Civilians had abandoned the area after the guerrillas moved in.

The Viet Cong had made the deepest penetration into the city of their third wave of attacks which began last Saturday.

TROOPS KILL 133

The main battle area was about three miles west of the presidential palace and military reports said snipers had moved to within a mile of the palace.

Government troops reported killing 133 guerrillas Friday. Government losses were reported as 18 killed.

S. Korean Killed

SEOUL (Reuters)—A South Korean soldier was killed and another wounded Friday night when five North Koreans attacked them 1.2 miles south of the western part of the demilitarized zone, a South Korean army spokesman said today. He said the two South Koreans were repairing communications lines when attacked. A South Korean unit moved in and repelled the attackers.

McCARTHY STILL UNHAPPY

Good Showing a Must During Tonight's Debate

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Senators Eugene J. McCarthy and Robert F. Kennedy meet tonight in a televised debate that could make or break either man's chances in Tuesday's California Democratic primary.

How much of a boost a good showing in the debate will give the "winner" as he continues in the quest for the presidential nomination cannot be said—but it's on a lot of people's minds.

Staff people for both candidates also know how great might be the cost of a lame performance before the nationwide audience.

"If someone makes a serious slip, it's very important," said Frederick W. Dutton, one of Kennedy's advisers.

The program on the ABC network was scheduled for 9:30 p.m. on both coasts, 8:30 p.m. in the central time zone and 7:30 in the mountain states.

REPEATS COMPLAINT

McCarthy repeated Friday his complaint that the format of the program would not permit the kind of free-swinging confrontation he wanted.

Instead, he said, the producers set up a "friendly sort of sit-down discussion" program that was more in line with what Kennedy wanted.

Addressing a businessmen's group in San Francisco Friday, Kennedy took issue with advertisements boosting McCarthy that claim the Minnesotan was the first presidential contender to challenge the administration's Vietnam policy. In reality, Kennedy said, "I was the first."

McCarthy said he doubts that a loss in California would cause Kennedy to abandon his shot at the presidency.

"I expect that even though he doesn't win here," McCarthy said, "he probably could reassess his position and find some reason to carry on."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice-President Hubert H. Humphrey is moving to ambush what his aides say is a stop-Humphrey drive in delegate-rich Michigan by the combined forces of Senators Robert F. Kennedy and Eugene J. McCarthy, his rivals for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Humphrey flies today to Detroit, where Michigan Democrats are in convention to choose the delegates who will carry the state's 96 votes into the August national convention in Chicago.

Three Set Free

TOKYO (AP) — Hanoi radio said Saturday the Viet Cong released three South Vietnamese army prisoners-of-war May 17. In an English-language broadcast monitored in Tokyo, Hanoi radio said the government soldiers, captured May 5, had shown "repentance during their detention."

PARALYSIS HITS 58 AFTER MUSSELS MEAL

NEWCASTLE, England (Reuters)—At least 58 persons, including many tourists, are suffering from partial paralysis here after eating diseased mussels.

Medical officer Dr. R. C. M. Pearson said 17 of them were in hospital with a rare form of poisoning characterized by tingling fingers followed by paralysis.

Repetition Only One Of Its Faults

THE TOLKIEN RELATION; a Personal Inquiry, by William Ready. Toronto, Copp Clark, 1968. 184 pages, $4.75.

Reviewed by R. G. Lawrence

The book under review is an analysis of the creative work of J. R. R. Tolkien, with, inevitably, an emphasis on The Hobbit and The Lord of the Rings. A reviewer is automatically tempted to communicate his enthusiasm for Tolkien and to overlook Ready, since it is the achievement of the former that is the greater and will prove to be the more enduring. (Dr. Ready is a librarian, at McMaster University, Hamilton.)

To one kind of potential reader The Tolkien Relation will be largely meaningless; anyone lacking a considerable familiarity with The Lord of the Rings may find Dr. Ready's book close to a waste of time.

To another type of reader The Tolkien Relation will be largely valueless; a reader steeped in Tolkien will find here very little that had not already occurred to him as he read.

"The Trilogy," writes William Ready, "is the stuff of the fairy tale, of myth and legend, of the folk tale that contains the matter of Man, far beyond what it seems to be. Tolkien brings our dragons home to roost."

This is one of the author's most perceptive observations (if inept methaphorically), but it is a truth likely to be evident to most readers of Tolkien.

Poor Style . . . Badly Written

Furthermore, this is a badly written book. Many colloquialisms and infelicities of style intrude, but more aggravating is Dr. Ready's engrained habit of repetition. One will often find the same idea offered in four different chapters. The book is rambling and disjointed, with frequent irrelevancies and digressions. These elements of the book, plus large type and blank pages persuade one that The Tolkien Relation could better be an article than a book.

For all it faults, the book has much material of interest. The reader learns a little about Professor Tolkien's early life in South Africa, service in the First world War, and his long career as a don and professor of Anglo-Saxon at Oxford University. Dr. Ready writes of Tolkien's conservatism, his Catholicism, and his reticence.

However, biographical titbits, comments on Tolkien's relationships with C. S. Lewis and Charles Williams, and plot summaries of Tolkien's two principal creative works are peripheral to the main theme of this book.

Two subjects are likely to stick in the mind of a reader of The Tolkien Relation. The first is Tolkien's attitude towards Hobbits. On the one hand, he depicts them as pleasant creatures, a little stupid, preoccupied with comfort, food, and genealogy. However, the other, the more profound side of the Hobbits is summed up by Dr. Ready in two fine sentences: "The Hobbit is Man's own daring admission of himself as he really is. . . . Tolkien reveals the power and dignity that reside in Man, however hidden they may be, as they are, most of the time, and he does it through a little Hobbit, Frodo, who is Man in essence, more than man." (Dr. Ready suggests that The Lord of the Rings is a better introduction to Tolkien than The Hobbit.)

Doesn't Penetrate Deeply Enough

The second significant theme in The Tolkien Relation is the ultimate meaning of Tolkien's books. Here Dr. Ready points the way, but does not penetrate especially deeply. He finds that The Lord of the Rings, the climax of Tolkien's work, is in essence about man's freedom of will to choose between good and evil, and the potentiality of power (as symbolized by the rings) to corrupt.

The critic draws some interesting parallels between Tolkien and Beowulf, as well as the books of T. H. White. Equally relevant to an analysis of ultimate significance are, however, unmentioned books like Milton's Paradise Lost and Bunyan's Pilgrim's Progress. One might even find important parallels between The Lord of the Rings and Swift's Gulliver's Travels.

A review such as this is in constant danger of drifting off into an analysis of Tolkien, achieved in Dr. Ready's book somewhat less than brilliantly and excitingly. His study is not likely to send many readers to Tolkien, but if it contributes something to an understanding of one of the significant works of our times it will have been worthwhile.

It's a Good Question But Answers Fall Short

WHICH WAY GERMANY? by Harry W. Flannery and Gerhart Seger; Hawthorn Books, Inc., New York, 1968; 246 pages; $8.25.

Reviewed by
Walter E. Riedel
Department of Modern Languages,
University of Victoria

Many changes have occurred in West Germany in the recent past. After Dr. Erhard resigned as chancellor, Dr. Kiesinger formed a new government uniting the Christian Democrats and the former opposition, the Social Democrats, in a grand coalition.

The National Democratic Party, described as neo-Nazi, has recently made further gains. Students have staged violent demonstrations. After such protests and talk of a new, more free and more democratic Germany — "Which Way Germany?" is a timely question.

Harry W. Flannery, a CBS correspondent in Berlin before the Second World War, and Gerhart Seger, a social democrat member of the Reichstag between the two wars, intend to give a comprehensive picture of the politics, the economy and the culture of present-day Germany in order to forecast its future.

'Front Line'

In spite of the book's title, the authors state in the foreword that the theme is only West Germany, which they view as the "front line for democracy in Europe." They deal with this theme as "seen in terms of United States interest" but express the hope of having been "successful in their efforts to be objective in a rather controversial area."

The book contains a great deal of information about Germany today. The authors begin with a sketch of the country's dark past of Nazism, deal with Germany's defeat and division, follow its reconstruction under Dr. Adenauer; the aims of the principal parties (the Christian Democrats, the Social Democrats and the Free Democrats) are discussed at length; the somewhat embarrassing neo-Nazi surge is considered by the authors as greatly distorted on the part of the press. The "world's most free economy" which produced the "economic miracle" is greatly lauded. On the other hand, information about East Germany is rather sketchy.

Left Wondering

The two journalists are so concerned with presenting facts that they include plenty of statistical information; unfortunately the reader is too often left to wonder about the sources. Statistics are meaningful only in their proper perspective, and the authors often present them in a misleading manner.

For instance, in a comparison of the average wages of a West German and a U.S. worker the authors convert the wage of the German worker into U.S. dollars, compare the two figures and conclude that the American worker earns twice as much as his German counterpart. The reader is left to wonder what the buying power of each worker's earnings would be in the respective countries.

Even cultural life is given in statistics: "25 million people attend 197 theatres in West Germany every year." The airlift during the blockade of Berlin is commented upon as follows: "Nearly 300,000 round trips to Berlin were made in the next 15 months. The mileage was more than that of 200 trips to the moon." This conversion is meaningful to every astronaut who has been to the moon and back.

Model Democracy

Flannery and Seger's West Germany emerges as a model democracy with close ties to the West and with a good chance for survival. Communism holds no attraction for the West Germans because they are fat and well provided for in their old age.

The National Democrats are brushed aside by gross oversimplification: the authors equate neo-Nazism with Hitler and the gas chambers and comment: "It is hard to believe that any people would want to bring back the gas chambers and other madness of the Hitler years."

Since the book's publication the National Democrats have made further gains and Germany has had its worst student demonstrations. These facts suggest that there is unfinished business: meaningful reforms as well as the reunification of Germany which has still to be dealt with at a peace conference by the victors of the Second World War.

The question remains whether the inability to find a solution to the German problem will lead to further unrest and contribute to further gains of right-wing elements, which could endanger West Germany's democracy.

Father Called a Cab When All Else Failed

A CAB AT THE DOOR: An autobiography (early years), by V. S. Pritchett; Clarke, Irwin and Co.; $6; 240 pages.

Reviewed by Anthony Jenkins

Writing a good autobiography is not as easy as it might seem. To put down the truth about oneself without being vindictive towards the people one dislikes and without seeing oneself through rose-tinted spectacles requires an uncompromising honesty.

This is even more true when the period one looks back at is one's childhood, the years when one is most bound up with one's own importance and when the world outside matters only in so far as it touches oneself. V. S. Pritchett has this sort of honesty.

Mr. Pritchett has now become part of the British literary establishment. He is one of England's most respected reviewers and is well known for his ironic short stories and for the sharply realized atmosphere of his travel books. The Cab at the Door is the first volume of his autobiography and covers his first 20 years. It is also a "portrait of the artist as a young man," for at every turn one is made aware of the impact that those early years have had on the writer.

The book ends with young Victor in Paris, turning deliberately away from his background and from his family: "I became a foreigner. For myself that is what a writer is—a man living on the other side of a frontier."

Always Foreigner

Yet, as the whole book makes abundantly clear, Victor had always been a foreigner. On one side of the frontier stands himself, a youth whom he presents with unsentimental clarity, and on the other side his family and the tawdry lodgings that they all journeyed through during those nineteen years.

The foreigner in the household observed everything and stored it all away, so that now the characters of his boyhood tumble onto the page, loved and hated, analyzed and seen for what they are.

Father was a Yorkshireman and came from a long line of dourly romantic eccentrics. He was a Micawber character "walking in and out of jobs with the bumptiousness of a god."

But his bright hopes always turned to dust so that by the time Victor was 12, the cab at the door had hurried the family away from debt and disaster some 18 times.

The children would be packed off to their grandparents in the country while father built new dreams and set about conquering a fresh town.

'Seductive Look'

Mother came from London and was something of a captive amongst her husband's people. "She was a slight and tiny fair-haired young woman with a sulky seductive look;" a cheeky Cockney girl whose ideal was always "love in a nice little shop." Happy when singing sentimental ballads at the piano—"she could 'cross hands' too"—she was temperamentally a stranger to her husband's ways: "We never owed a penny us girls were brought up straight."

Family life was a series of battles against debt, and its tempo fluctuated between cooing arias from mother and father—"O dry those tears, O calm those fears, Life will be better tomorrow"—which could quickly dissolve into less dovelike duets.

Father would rage at his wife's flighty London ways: "he would shout 'I raised you from the gutter' and, with a glance of appeal to us, would say 'You can't make a silk purse out of a sow's ear.' "

But mother was not lost for a reply: "she would mock father's piety with phrases like 'two-faced Wesleyans' and 'Hallelujah, keep your hands off.' "

The tumult of his upbringing is portrayed with unsparing honesty. Though a stranger, Victor is part of the family: "All of us, though peaceable enough, are liable to stick our chins out and take our superiors down a peg or two if our pride is touched."

Young Victor's pride as an aspiring writer was often touched in that household and his parents are taken down with devastating effect—"I hated my father"—yet Mr. Pritchett sees around and behind the figure of his young self so that Victor never appears superior or smug.

He accepts the fact that he is what he is and his parents are the people that they are. The line is drawn up between them with severity but little animosity.

This is the real impact of the book. We look over Victor's shoulder at vividly presented characters whom he hates and loves. His is a dazzling picture of lower-middle-class Edwardian society, as vivid and as pathetically jaunty as the worldd of H. G. Wells' Kipps or Mr. Polly.

The family's endless flight continually interrupted Victor's schooling and he never went to university. Instead, he studied life, and one can only thank fate that he did.

This is an absorbing book. It builds a world that is as well-rounded as that of any work of fiction. It is passionate yet well judged, and the sentences are bitingly perceptive in their smooth precision. Hopefully, we will not have to wait long for volume two to come off the presses.

SEA, COAST, PLACES

THE CURVE OF TIME, by M. Wylie Blanchet. Gray's Publishing (Sidney, B.C.) $5.75.

There is a special pleasure in reading about familiar places; consequently The Curve of Time is likely to be very popular with British Columbians, especially the boating enthusiasts.

The book is a collection of memories of summers many years ago when its author (who died in 1961) took her five children on long summer camping holidays up the B.C. coast in a 25 foot boat.

These were not luxury cruises by any means: The quarters were cramped, each person had only one set of clothes, and the skipper-cum-navigator-cum-engineer had to keep control in face of natural dangers that would send most mothers into hysterics.

It is a tale of excitement and adventure but there is a lot to be learnt from it too. The summer trips were extensions of the children's education as they followed the routes of Captain Vancouver, searched for marine life and explored deserted Indian villages.

Empty Village

One particularly interesting chapter describes a day in an empty winter village where the children found an Indian burial wood, with boxes-of-the-dead bound to upper branches by ropes of cedar bark.

This is essentially a book about the sea and coast places. People are less clearly defined and though the children are always very much there they are not characterized; only the youngest emerges as a distinct person.

There is one exception to this in the chapter "Mike," a moving and credible evocation of a fine individual who had opted out of civilization to live for over thirty years in an isolated cabin, with an impressive little library and an orchard of apple trees.

This is the first Canadian edition of a book published some years ago in Britain. To the original version have been added chapters Mrs. Blanchet was working on at the time of her death.

These describe the family home, Little House and its Seven Acres overlooking Haro Strait.

The publishers do a real service in making this book available to Canadian readers. No doubt it will find its way into many a camper's gear this summer; it is ideal for dipping into at odd moments.

The Web Doesn't Like Meddlers

THE MIRACULOUS WEB. THE BALANCE OF LIFE, by Natalie Friendly. Illustrations by Bette Fast. For Grades 5-9. Prentice-Hall; 92 pp; $4.75.

Reviewed by
Derik V. Ellis.

This little book is the story of ecology, how animals and plants are dependent on one another and on their environment. It is very desirable that young people read as early as possible about the complexity of the web and the problems that can develop by interfering with it.

Wide Range

Mrs. Friendly covers much of the range of ecology. She has short sections on natural regions — the tundra, deciduous forests, grasslands, deserts, the sea and neatly parcels lakes, rivers and puddles into a section on inland waters.

She also brings in where appropriate the basic concepts of ecology, for example the adaptations of animals and plants to their environments, food chains and pyramid of numbers, plant succession and climax communities.

However, she rather badly mixes niche with territory. In most of the regional chapters she describes food chains, and there is often a drawing showing the animals and plants of the chain.

The smaller organisms in these are not always shown sufficiently clearly.

The book finishes with two chapters specifically on problems coming from our interference with the "Miraculous Web." She groups these as pollution and conservation, but in addition has scattered other tales of troubles through the book.

When we put together the subject matter of natural history, which is always interesting to young people, and Mrs. Friendly's frequent use of analogies from a child's world, then we have a book that children should enjoy. It seems suited though to grades 3-6, rather than teenagers up to grade 9.

SPECIALISTS COULD COVER WIDE AREA — IT WORKS IN BAND TRAINING

'Floating' Teachers Needed in Fine Arts

By AUDREY JOHNSON

Secondary education in this province "should enable pupils to select for themselves educational goals and patterns of study in accord with their proven interests and abilities . . ."

Graduate students should be "generally well informed . . . relatively versatile . . . possessed of some definite skills and knowledge in a general field of human endeavor . . ."

These quotations are from a department of education publication in which the objectives of secondary education are outlined.

Audrey

If after digesting the capsulized objectives you skip to a study of the curriculum organization chart for senior secondary schools, and then to a careful perusal of the curriculum guides for the fine arts at all levels, the spectrum of education in B.C. appears as wide as all panavision.

It's Permitted

In the fine arts, with the exception of classical dance, there is little that can be given in the form of group instruction that is not permitted to be taught.

The department approves, for example, such subjects as play writing and direction, stage lighting, make-up artistry, photography, sculpture, ceramics, linoleum printing, musical history and ear training.

Nevertheless it is not true that all B.C. school students with a bent in these directions will find them available within their schools.

Such factors as lack of qualified teachers, suitable space and "entitlement" render the impressive fine arts section of the curriculum inactive in many areas.

To begin with the least familiar of these factors — entitlement.

The scope suggested in the curriculum guides makes it a virtual necessity that teachers involved in the visual and performing arts programs, if the subjects are to be realistically implemented, should have a sound and thoroughly specialized training in their field.

'Floaters'

As only a relatively few teachers have had time and opportunity to develop such specialties in depth, educators already involved in the program tell you that the obviously satisfactory solution would be "floaters" — specialist teachers who would put in full time covering an area of several schools.

In band and orchestra instrumental training there are perhaps a half-dozen such teachers now working under Victoria and Saanich school boards.

But according to all that I have been able to gather and elicit, at least one or two teachers in a similar capacity are badly needed for the visual arts and theatre programs as well as in choral and general music.

And this is where the principle of entitlement becomes an, at the moment, insuperable barrier.

Entitlement means the number of teachers, based on student population, which the department will subsidize in any school.

They Must Pay

Teachers employed over and above entitlement are the sole financial responsibility of the particular district authorities.

As one secondary music educator points out — "naturally each principal wants a full-time teacher to help share the load of supervision, regular scholastic work and program activities.

"Rarely, especially at the elementary level, will he accept a teacher who will be at his school for only an hour or two each day."

This means that teachers having exceptional ability for inspired teaching in a specific art category, can utilize that ability to only a limited extent.

They must spend the maximum part of their day teaching and supervising in areas that would be at least as well served by teachers with less specialized gifts.

It also means that in many elementary schools in the province instruction in the arts is minimal and that at some secondary schools there is little encouragement for students to take fine arts electives.

Supervisors, and what arts specialists there are in the Greater Victoria school system, work hard at making this part of the curriculum a real and positive force.

Harry Bigsby, music supervisor for the Greater Victoria school board, feels that some progress is being made. The addition of orchestra instruction by visiting teachers in the elementary schools is new, for example.

His ultimate aim, Mr. Bigsby says, is one music specialist in every school having a minimum population of 500.

Next to the problem of trained teachers, comes the difficulty of finding space for arts activities.

Accommodation is pitiful in most schools, all arts educators interviewed declared.

Frustrating

In this situation no light glimmers, considering the present government freeze on school building. But the facts are frustrating in the extreme.

Only one school has a proper, acoustically doctored music room with adequate storage for instruments and permanent space for other music teaching aids.

Among senior secondary schools, again only one has a properly designed art room, according to a prominent art teacher.

The necessity of giving music instruction under such impossible conditions as in a vault-like echoing gymnasium or separated by a thin partition from a basketball game, is common.

These conditions, and the compulsion of having to teach a completely uncongenial subject in addition to the arts specialty, have driven out of the province and out of the country several first-class teachers.

When this subject was opened here, two weeks ago, there appeared to be material for a series of two articles.

Since then, the mass of information and opinion that has flowed in has been in such volume that it can only be adequately treated by adding a third.

Consequences of the Chant Report as it affected the arts at the secondary school level, what has happened since and the influence of the universities on secondary school elective courses, will be discussed next week.

Square Dancing Fishy?

Grab your partner, June 4-8 is Square Dance Week in British Columbia.

The cabinet proclaimed it in an order passed in April and Friday the government issued a reminder.

The proclamation describes square dancing as "combining friendship with physical exercise and the cultural advancement of participants of all ages."

It says that "the many facets of this pastime foster good relations between communities, provinces and nations," and that a square dance jamboree is being held June 7 at the PNE grounds in Vancouver.

If all that exercise is appetite-whetting, consider that the cabinet also proclaimed June as "Fish and Seafood Month in British Columbia."

25-Cent Fine For Mop Theft

QUEBEC (CP) — A young Quebec City housewife Thursday was fined 25 cents—believed the smallest fine ever rendered in a Canadian court—for the theft of a dishmop.

The 35-cent mop was taken from a downtown store.

Judge Alphonse Garon said "it is ridiculous to put the whole judiciary machinery in motion for such a small thing," and he sentenced the young woman to pay a 25-cent fine or spend 10 minutes in jail.

She quickly paid the fine.

McGregor Backs Seagrim As New Air Canada Chief

MONTREAL (CP) — Gordon McGregor retired Friday as president of Air Canada, and pulled no punches in naming the person he hopes will be his successor — Executive Vice-President Herbert W. Seagrim.

"I would prefer someone from the company so badly I can taste it," Mr. McGregor said in an interview when asked if the new president should be a political nominee or come from within Air Canada.

Mr. McGreggor said a recommendation from a subcommittee of Air Canada's board of directors suggested in 1964 that he "devote part of my time" to groom a successor.

"This man, in due course, was H. W. Seagrim, who was made executive vice-president in 1966 and given complete responsibility for the operations, sales, purchases and stores department."

Mr. Seagrim, a Winnipeg native, got into flying as a bush pilot in northern Manitoba and Ontario, qualifying as a commercial pilot in 1931.

TESTED AIRCRAFT

He joined Trans-Canada Air Lines when it was formed in 1937 and during the early part of the Second World War was a military aircraft test pilot for the Boeing overhaul plant at Vancouver.

Mr. McGregor, 67, president since 1948, said he will not continue as a director of Air Canada. He feels Air Canada shares should be made available to company personnel particularly and also the general public.

Control of the airlines, now a Crown corporation wholly-owned by CNR, should be removed from the CN and placed entirely in the hands of the Canadian public.

Referring to Air Canada's Winnipeg maintenance and overhaul base, Mr. McGregor said: "Unquestionably, Winnipeg must go."

This year 1970 would mark the end of Winnipeg base activities, all to be transferred to Montreal. Only regular line maintenance would be done at Winnipeg.

Reached for comment at his home Friday night on the proposed Winnipeg closure, Mr. Seagrim declined comment.

RETURN to business world was official today as Robert Winters took over as president of Brazilian Light and Power Co. Ltd., the Toronto-based public utilities company that made about $55,700,000 profit last year. The former Liberal trade and commerce minister said he plans to spend some time in Brazil learning about its people and studying Portuguese. Brazilian Light is the biggest company in Brazil and Canada's largest foreign-investment corporation.

DDD Phone Service Initiated

Direct distance dialing telephone service began today in Victoria and surrounding areas.

A half-million-dollar program to permit telephone customers in this area to dial station-to-station long distance calls directly reached its climax at one minute past midnight.

That's when the B.C. Telephone Company placed into full service the complex DDD equipment housed in its main Victoria exchange building on Blanshard Street.

Some of this equipment was in use earlier so the company could demonstrate how direct distance dialing works and these facilities were employed late Friday to mark the official start of DDD service.

MAYOR MAKES CALL

Mayor Steven of Victoria put the formal kickoff touch to the service by dialing directly from the telephone on his desk at city hall to Mayor Vincent Dantzer in Edmonton.

Gil Auchinleck, manager of B.C. Telephone's island division, said the completion of the DDD installations here enabled the company to provide direct distance dialing to 90,000 telephones in the Greater Victoria, Sooke, Keating, Sidney, Jordan River and Gulf Islands and Ganges areas.

These customers now can dial their station-to-station calls from their own telephones to any of more than 90,000,000 telephones in North America.

Mining Companies Get Govt. Grants To Improve Roads

Grants totalling $36,900 to mining companies for construction or improvement to mining roads have been approved by a provincial cabinet order-in-council.

The money cames from a $500,000 fund allocated by the legislature earlier this year as grants in aid of mining roads and trails. Largest grant, for $10,000, went to the Cotton Belt mining group for Seymour River road in the Kamloops district.

Receiving grants of $7,500 were the O.K., IOV, IPEX, and M.C. operations for the Calling Lake Road, Kamloops district; Howson Basin Mines, Howson Creek Road, Omineca district, and the George Group, Tangier River road, Revelstoke district.

B.C. Firm Wins Hydro Contract

MONTREAL (CP) — Northern Construction Co. and J. W. Stewart Ltd. of Vancouver have been awarded a $7,600,000 contract for work on the Churchill Falls hydro-electric power development in central Labrador, it has been announced.

The contract covers work on excavation of the intake channel, excavation for the intake structure and four dikes in the intake area from where water will be funnelled into the 11-generator underground power house.

Churchill Falls Labrador Corp. Ltd. which is building the $900,000,000 project also announced that a $1,200,000 contract was awarded to Desourdy Construction Ltd. of Montreal for construction of sewers, water mains and roads during the expansion of the main construction camp and for the permanent community.

Newfoundland Engineering and Construction Co. Ltd. of St. John's was given a $300,000 contract for construction of service buildings.

The latest contracts brought the total announced so far this year to more than $20,000,000. The corporation spent more than $42,000,000 up to the end of 1967 at which time it had entered into contracts totalling $114,000,000.

Bank Names New General Manager

TORONTO (CP) — Richard M. Thomson, 34, has been named chief general manager of the Toronto Dominion Bank, effective July 1.

Mrs. Thomson, youngest chief general manager in the bank's history, joined the bank 11 years ago after graduating from the University of Toronto and the Harvard business school.

OTTAWA WILL GIVE DETAILS MONDAY

$500 Million Bond Issue

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister Benson Friday announced new government financing that will include a cash offering of $500,000,000 or so in bonds.

A statement from the minister's office said details of the new financing will be announced Monday.

The statement said the bonds, which will be dated June 15 and delivered June 17, will have terms of 12½ months, 27½ months and six years.

The largest maturity will incorporate a new feature for "the convenience of investors seeking regular monthly income." Holders of $25,000 or more of the six-year maturity, in fully registered form, will have the option of receiving interest by cheque monthly rather than semi-annually.

The actual amount of bonds to be issued Monday will be determined at the time allotments are established.

The statement said the Bank of Canada has agreed to acquire $140,000,000 of the bonds, open as to maturity.

The bank also has agreed to acquire a further $75,000,000 of the six-year bond in exchange for Government of Canada bonds due this Oct. 1 and Dec. 15 and treasury bills due Nov. 29.

Cash proceeds of the financing will be used to redeem $284,581,000 of Government of Canada 2¾-per-cent bonds due June 15 and $135,000,000 of 4½-per-cent government bonds also due June 15 "and for general purposes" of the government.

Ginter Quits As President Of Eurocan

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — Ben Ginter Friday announced his resignation as president of Eurocan Pulp and Paper Co., a Finnish-controlled firm that is building a $100,000,000 pulp and paper mill in the Kitimat area.

"Due to all the work I've been doing during the last three years getting Eurocan started I have found it just impossible to continue as president," said the Prince George millionaire in a statement.

"I am developing a mine up north and I want to build breweries in Alberta and Manitoba." Mr. Ginter owns Tartan Breweries Ltd. of Prince George.

K. E. Ekholm, a Finnish businessman, has been "temporarily appointed" president, said Mr. Ginter, who continues as vice-chairman "in an advisory capacity only."

Mr. Ginter owns three per cent of Eurocan, with an option to purchase a further 12 per cent at a later date.

His announcement said his Eurocan work left him little time for his other interests,

Wine Company President Back From S.A. Tour

The wine-growing experience of the Rhine, Bavaria, Austria and South Africa has been imported into the flavor of B.C. wines.

Wine growers here are employing the same high-quality wine-producing techniques that are used in South Africa says Brian H. Roberts, president of Victoria-based Castle Wines Ltd., who recently retruned from a two-week tour of that nation.

Roberts was the only Canadian wine expert on the tour of his native land which included visits to all major wineries, vineyards, and wine estates in western Cape province.

South African wine industry leaders, he said, have imported a great number of winemasters and technologists from the Rhine area of continental Europe.

The technology of Castle Wines is based on three winemasters from the Rhine, Bavaria and Austria, Roberts said.

VICTORIA, B.C., SATURDAY, JUNE 1, 1968—PAGE 13

Arthur Mayse

Let me introduce you to Ed and Ella, a white Canadian couple of middle age who live in Saanich. I would have preferred to use their real names in this account, but those must serve.

Ed, a big, fairskinned, easy-going man, is a contractor by trade, and a sport fisherman of more than ordinary skill. Ella does most of the talking. She is brisk, tart, and kind. Her hair and eyes are dark, and so is her skin, especially after a few weeks of summer sun.

Two years ago, Ed coupled their 17-foot trailer to their station wagon and they set out on a vacation trip south with their daughter and her friend.

Through Washington State and Oregon, all went better than well. Then they crossed the Oregon border and loafed on down into California. Ella, by this time, had tanned to a deep chocolate-brown. Before leaving Victoria, she had got a perm, and a rinse that deepened her hair color to jet black.

They made a pleasant overnight stop at a trailer camp in the coast logging country. Next day they continued south and inland, pulling into a well-appointed oasis about 4 p.m.

★

Earlier trips had settled them into a checking-in routine. Ed, who does most of the driving, relaxed behind the wheel while Ella crossed to the trailer park office.

The man behind the counter gave Ella a considering stare, then admitted that he might manage to squeeze them in. The space he alloted them was down by the washrooms.

By dark, the mosquitoes were fierce, and several other rigs had joined them in the marshy area. These were battered and anything but mosquito-proof. They held Mexican families.

But next morning, with the California sun shining, they were disposed to be philosophical about the bad night. They'd landed unlucky, that was all.

Next day they returned to the coast, and heavy mist that made them glad to put in at a promising camp somewhat before their usual time.

The old man in the office told Ella that he didn't think he had room for them. But he walked with her to his gate. Close by, Ed leaned against the wagon.

"Is that big Swede your husband?" the proprietor asked.

"Yes," Ella replied, "but he's of English extraction."

Minutes later, their trailer was settled in one of numerous empty berths . . . and Ed was laughing fit to bust.

"You know," he said, "that fellow thinks you're Mexican."

★

At this point, laughter ended. Even though they still found it hard to believe that the color bar had been lowered, the fact was forced upon them.

Restaurants would serve Ed and their daughter, and the other girl travelling with them. But not dark Ella.

"They'd never come right out with it," she remembers. "They'd just forget to bring my order, and when I tried to get attention, the waitress was always busy somewhere else. In the stores it was the same. And the farther south we went, the worse it got."

Barred from the places they chose, they took to pulling in by the raodside for the night. They ate all meals in the trailer, sometimes parked between two meters in towns that had no welcome for Mexicans real or imagined. At a park close to the Golden Gate, Ed went to the office while Ella scrunched down in the front seat with head turned the other way. They were taken in.

Soon after, they cut a spoiled vacation short and headed for Canada, with Ed doing the honors at each overnight stop. Ella kept out of sight.

But it wasn't the snubs, the refusals and the ignorings that sent them home. What did was the first of the wild Negro riots, the one that flared in the Watts district of Los Angeles.

"We were luckier than the Negroes," says Ella, already darkening for another summer. "They can't get away. And believe me, I know better than most what they're up against!"

SMASHING PORTRAIT of "Mr. and Mrs. Tweedie," (who else could they possibly be?) as they relish a spot of that stuff before leading parade officially opening Oak Bay's Tea Party this morning. They are, of course, Col. and Mrs. Henry Thuillier, 2424 Beach, and moments later they relaxed in their 1937 Phantom Three V-12 Rolls-Royce at the van of proceedings. Victoria Chinatown Lions drum and bell corps provided the parade music for annual invasion. Tea Party continues Sunday.

SMOKE-FREE SUNDAY SET IN OAK BAY

Oak Bay's new burning bylaw goes into effect Sunday.

Passed last November after many complaints about incinerators churning out smoke, the bylaw restricts burning to weekdays between June 1 and Sept. 30.

No burning of any sort will be permitted on Sundays, or on the Dominion Day and Labor Day holidays, without special permit.

Fire department officials are prepared to stand behind the ruling: "If anybody complains, we'll send the police around."

For the first while persons caught burning rubbish on Sundays will be cautioned. But then the teeth in the bylaw will be set — it allows for fines of up to $100 for continued infractions.

Three Charged After Incident

Three Victoria youths appeared in court today charged with contributing to the delinquency of a 14-year-old girl.

Claude Comer, 19, and Ralph Isaacson, 20, pleaded not guilty and were remanded to Monday to fix a date for trial.

The third, David Weir, 19, was remanded to Monday for plea. All live at 740 Kings Road.

Charges were laid following an incident Thursday in Goldstream Park.

Bail was set at $500 each.

Tourists Fined For Shoplifting

Two Australian tourists today were fined $50 after pleading guilty to shoplifting at a local department store.

Gloria Natoli and Jean Cook appeared before Magistrate Byers.

Court was told the two women removed goods valued at $18 from the store without paying for them.

A man involved in a fatal crash early Friday is in critical condition in Royal Jubilee Hospital.

AB John Dion McLaughlin, 817 Dunsmuir, suffered a fractured skull but is "holding his own," hospital spokesman said.

Driver of the car, AB Gregory Robert Dixon, 22, of the same address, was dead on arrival at hospital. He was Esquimalt's first traffic fatality of 1968.

Police said the car hit a pole on Esquimalt Road.

THIRD TRY SINCE 1964

Battle Looms Again To Regulate Funerals

By ROGER STONEBANKS

A third attempt in just over three years will be made by the funeral industry in British Columbia to gain special legislation for itself.

And once again the move will be opposed strongly by the 15,000-member Memorial Society of B.C.

A statement by the B.C. Funeral Service Association, which represents 85 per cent of the B.C. undertakers, said its members will soon ask the government to bring in legislation "similar to that governing dental mechanics, insurance salesmen and so forth."

The next session of the legislature, however, is not until next January.

Main points of the requested legislation:

Requirement of minimum standards of service and facilities for the industry;

Setting up of a certified apprenticeship school;

Creation of an indemnity fund to which all in the industry would contribute to "protect the public from any loss suffered through the actions of anyone in the industry."

Last fall it was disclosed that the association had prepared a similar draft private member's bill for the legislature. But no MLA sponsored the bill. In 1964 a similar attempt failed.

Reaction to the new move was swift from Mrs. Jean Mohart, president of the Memorial Society of B.C. which opposed the last bid for special legislation.

'Put Up Just the Same Battle'

The society is an association of more than 15,000 members organized to provide simple, low-cost funeral services in the belief that other funeral homes promote services which are expensive and unnecessary.

"What concerns me is that they may be pressing for an order-in-council (cabint order). The government does a lot of legislation by order-in-council," she said from her Vancouver home.

"We'll put up just the same battle we did before for any contol of industry other than what we feel is necessary. It now comes under the health department. They shouldn't need special legislation. I'm suspicious of any move they make. (Previous oppostiion to legislation was based on a fear that the Memorial Society could be forced out of business by the act.)

"The Memorial Society is in a very strong position right now. We did a personal survey of MLAs (earlier) and they got between 50 and 100 letters each and no one wanted to sponsor the (funeral industry's) bill."

The B.C. Funeral Service Association, in its statement, said 36 undertakers have put into action a plan under which they will provide up to 700 funerals without charge for those who signed up for pre-arranged funerals with an organization that collapsed.

Participating in Victoria are McCall Brothers, Hayward's, Chaplin's and Sands Mortuary.

The undertakers have agreed to the plan for any B.C. residents known to have subscribed to Pineview Memorial Plan, a New Westminster group which signed up hundreds of elderly people for pre-arranged funerals, collected about $250,000 from them "and then, in mid-1967, locked its doors."

'Protect Good Name of Industry'

Association president Gar Jennings of Vancouver said "even though our association disapproves of promoting pre-arranged funerals in this way and none of our members are or have been involved in the Pineview or similar schemes, we are taking this step in order to protect the good name of the funeral industry as a whole."

Mr. Jennings said "only with" special legislation for the funeral industry can it "co-operate with the government in eliminating the possibility of such eventualities as the Pineview collapse and that the resultant upgrading of standards of ethics could only serve to work for the benefit of everybody."

"We hope too that it would serve to counteract the extremely distorted publicity which our industry has suffered at the hands of a few writers and commentators on the social scene, in the publication of such books as The American Way of Death."

Mr. Jennings said facts do not support charges that the funeral industry capitalizes on death and forces "extortionate" prices on the bereaved.

CRASH LANDING at Cassidy airport damaged plane slightly Friday but the pilot, Dr. Howard McDiarmid, Social Credit MLA for Alberni was unhurt. He said he was landing to refuel on a flight from Port Alberni to Vancouver when his landing gear collapsed. The accident was blamed on a malfunction. He owns the single-engine Seabee which wears sign, "This is not a Lear jet."

Standby Pickers Sought

Names of several hundred pickers are wanted as a standby in case Saanich strawberries ripen early.

George Bevis, manager of the Victoria Canada Manpower Centre, today asked adults and students to register as pickers as soon as possible to help harvest this year's crop.

Early picking has started, but this is expected to speed up next week when the main crop ripens.

"While weather will have an effect on the time either speed up or slow the ripening processes — we must endeavor to have several hundred pickers standing by ready for an early ripening," he said.

Growers expect an excellent crop if weather conditions remain stable.

SIGN PROTEST ABANDONED BY SAANICH

Political parties are free to post campaign signs in Saanich despite the tough anti-sign municipal bylaw, Acting Mayor Leslie Passmore said today.

The decision is the same as one in the city of Victoria where it was pointed out that a 1966 Supreme Court decision makes clear municipalities have no power to regulate federal election campaign signs.

"As far as we are concerned we have to accept the fact they can put signs up," he said in reference to New Democratic Party plans to place campaign signs on lawns of homes.

Ald. Passmore also said Saanich will amend its sign bylaw to explain the over-ruling authority of federal legislation.

Dr. Harvey Richardson, Victoria NDP candidate, said the party in both Victoria and Esquimalt-Saanich has no intention of "covering up the area" by erecting signs on lamp standards and telephone poles.

The plan involves the lawns of houses "where the citizen wants to do so, to support the candidate."

Last Chance to Get on Voters' List

By ERIC MAURICE

If you're not on the voters' list for the June 25 federal election, your last chance to get on is June 8.

Voters' lists have been posted on utility poles in all districts, and constituents can check to see if their names have been included.

If a voter was not enumerated in May or if his name has been left off the voters' list in error, he should check with the returning officer in his riding or go to the court of revision.

Revising agents started out Friday to make corrections and additions to the lists.

Court of revision will sit June 6, 7 and 8 from 11 a.m. to noon and 8 to 11 p.m. each day.

The court of revision for the Victoria riding will be held in the Eagles' Hall, 755 View St.

Five Esquimalt-Saanich locations are: Knights of Pythias Hall, Sidney; St. Luke's Church hall, Cedar Hill Cross Road; St. Martin's in the Fields Church hall, Obed Ave.; Esquimalt United Church hall, Admirals Rd., and St. Matthew's Church hall, Langford.

Anyone not enumerated by 11 p.m., June 8 loses his chance to vote in this election.

Anyone who had been enumerated but whose name has been left off the voters' list can be put on the list on election day by presenting the enumerator's slip to the deputy returning officer at his polling station.

Advance polls will be held June 15 and 17 from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.

There is no absentee poll in federal elections, and the Canada Elections Act provides that only persons ordinarily living in a riding may vote in that riding. This provision excludes persons who are spending only the summer in the Victoria area from voting here.

Victoria returning officer David Wilson expects a large number of Chinese, who were suspicious when enumerators called initially, to turn up for enumeration at an office in the Chinatown district.

A TOUR IN AESTHETICS
OAK BAY

WANT A SLOUGH AND A HORRIBLE 4-BEDROOM HOME 4.14 ACRES

You won't like this at all. On top of this home which needs about $4,000 spent on it (probably more) You have to put up with a real eyesore — 4,000 sq. ft. of greenhouse that could possibly rent for $50 per month. They tell me a lot might be subdivided from the property (doubtful) and that it could bring $6,500-$7,000. (Definitely too much for a piece of raw wilderness even though it's on city water). Then the slough. Sort of picturesque, with the stagnant waters reflecting tall pines and firs all the way (5 feet) to its peat bogged bottom.
